DEWEY'S BIG DAY

Victorious Admiral Leads New York's Monster Naval Parade.

THREE MILLION SPECTATORS

View the Great Pageant From the Shores of the Harbor.

QUARTER OF A MILLION AFLOAT.

Story of the Great Pageant as Viewed From the Deck of the Flagship Olympia—The Olympia's Officers, by Orders of the Admiral, Appeared in Modest Uniform—The Admiral Himself Directed the Movements of the Fleet—His Rebuke to an Officer of the Olympia.

New York, Sept. 30.—No Roman conqueror returned to his triumph of barbaric splendor, no victorious king or prince coming home from a successful war ever received such a magnificent ovation as overwhelmed Admiral Dewey yesterday as he stood on the bridge of the Olympia at the head of a magnificent fleet of steel thunderships of the deep, followed by a thousand vessels of peace, each tiered and coated black with people, and sailed over the bright waters of the upper bay and up the broad pathway of the sunlit river, whose banks were gay with millions of flags and streamers dancing in the wind.

The sky was blue, the water rippled under the fresh wind that held out flags straight and jaunty, and the wharves and piers and rocky heights and grassy knolls were black with frantic, enthusiastic people, who strived weakly to make their shouts heard above the perfect bedlam of tooting whistles that accompanied the admiral ashore and afloat. As the tomb of General Grant, on Riverside drive, was reached the fleet paid its tribute to the memory of the great warrior with a national salute of 21 roving guns. The fleet then anchored and reviewed the almost endless procession of craft that steamed past, all so burdened with humanity that they looked as if they would turn turtle before they got back to the piers. Toward the end the parade became disorganized, and it took hours for the heterogeneous flotilla to get by. Darkness at last brought relief to the admiral, who had stood on the bridge for six hours, bowing his acknowledgments.

New York's Greatest Demonstration. New York has never witnessed before anything approaching this wonderful, remarkable demonstration. The Columbian naval parade, the dedication of Grant's tomb and the reception of the North Atlantic squadron last fall, all pale before this gigantic ovation to the sailor who, in a single morning, destroyed an enemy's fleet without the loss of a man or a ship. It is not beyond the mark to say that 8,000,000 people viewed the pageant from ashore, and that a quarter of a million were afloat.

When New York turned out to the celebration in the morning a light haze hung over the harbor, but this was soon burned up by a bright sun. The wind was strong and gusty and kept the flags snapping. The water rippled under the fresh breeze, and the dancing little waves seemed to raise their crusty heads in anticipation of a sight of the conqueror.

People who went down the bay were lost in admiration of the display of bunting along the water front. On the East river, from the bridge to the Battery, where the sailing craft lie in groves, the spars were covered with such a mass of color as might be compared to a maple grown hillside in the deep autumn. The tall spars of the clippers were conspicuous for their designs and signals. Every craft in the harbor was decked out from stem to stern with all the grace and attractiveness known to skippers. But the display in the East river was not to be compared with that of the North river, up which the procession was to pass. From the peaks of every pier long ropes-strung with flags of every hue were stretched to the snubbing post at the corner, and the fronts were decorated with the multitude of gay devices. There were flags on the staffs and lines of flags above the ropes. The vessels at their sides were dressed from stem to taffrail and some carried flags on their yards and had their deckhouses covered. The wind shook the banners from millions of windows, porches and even steeples, and never perhaps in this generation did hearts that love it bound so quickly to the sight of the flag. Up the river, far off on the Jersey shore and high on the misty palisades, it gleamed.

Viewed From the Olympia's Deck. The best place from which to view the great marine panorama was naturally from the deck of the Olympia, and by the courtesy of Admiral Dewey three press representatives were permitted aboard. Very early the fleet of steamships, steamboats, yachts and tugs which were to have a place in the line began moving down the bay to the allotted points where the several divisions were to form, but many of them could not resist the temptation to first visit the anchorage of the men-of-war at Tompkinsville, and before 11 o'clock the Olympia was surrounded by a perfect mob of every known kind of craft, all swarming with people—circling around, or pushing their noses close up under the ship to get a glimpse of the admiral pacing the quarter deck. The bands aboard the excursion boats played and the whistles and sirens of the other craft made the air hideous by their shrieks. They kept coming, coming in pairs and half dozens, until they lay a dozen deep, resisting the charges of the patrol boats in their determination to get up within shouting distance.

Their reckless man was amazing. They ran across each other's bows, they rubbed against one another, they pushed bow or stern, until further

DOOLING COMMITTED.

More Arrests Expected in the Burke Burglary Case.

Michael Dooling, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of being one of the masked men who entered the home of Borough Solicitor Burke, was given a preliminary hearing before Justice Toomey last night.

Dooling claims to work in the mines at Burke's residence, during which a witness named Patrick Reilly recognized Dooling as a man he saw pass the Rescue Hook & Ladder Company's house two or three times, and then go down Pear alley, a short time before the burglary.

Dooling wept and declared he had nothing to do with the affair. He also denied that Reilly had seen him as stated. Justice Toomey committed him to jail without bail.

Thomas McHale, alias Higgins, who is also charged with being one of the burglars, was arrested just before noon to-day by C. & I. Policeman Kleindienst. He was taken into custody while asleep in the Centennial boiler house. The prisoner was turned over to Chief of Police Murphy and Detective O'Hara, and placed in the lockup. He will probably be given a hearing to-night.

W.M. PENN MURDER.

The Accused Will be Tried in November and Have Secured Counsel.

The fourteen Lithuanians, six of whom are charged with the murder of Joseph Rutkaskas, and the balance with rioting at Wm. Penn on Sunday last, will be tried at the November term of criminal court which begins November 13. The accused men and their friends are beginning to realize the seriousness of their position and yesterday H. O. Bechtel and A. D. Knittle were engaged to defend nine of the defendants.

Rollis Buhns, the defendant against whom the direct evidence is the strongest, will be defended by M. M. Burke, of town. Eye-witnesses to the tragedy of Sunday last are satisfied that Buhns struck the fatal blow during the fight which took place. There is a lack of evidence sufficient to convict all of the defendants of murder in the first degree, but the Commonwealth's officers regard the case against Buhns as a very strong one.

More Delay.

The special committee of the Town Council of Pottsville has now given hearings to representatives of the various telephone companies seeking right of way through that borough, and are now preparing their report to Council. It is said the committee favors the admission of independent companies. They will not, however, report to Council next Tuesday evening, and thus more delay is occasioned.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Sanitary Condition of the Borough Building Condensed.

A regular monthly meeting of the Board of Health was held last evening in the Council chamber, with the following members in attendance: Messrs. Spalding, Malone and Heintzman. Secretary Conroy and Health Officer Conry were also in attendance.

The necrology committee reported that during the month ending September 29th there were 23 deaths and one still birth. Secretary Conroy presented a report for the same period as follows: Burial permits issued, 38; local permits, 36; transit permits, 2. Entirely disease-free were 144. Burial of non-residents. They were from the following places: Wm. Penn, 5; Lost Creek, 2; Brownsville, 3; and one each from Park Place, Schuylkill Haven, Connors and Colorado. There were 26 interments in town cemeteries and two in outside places. The secretary also reported having paid $48.50 into the borough treasury, and having received an order for $440, which was endorsed over to J. J. Bradigan as part payment on his contract.

The epidemic committee reported that during the month there were but two communicable diseases, one being scarlet fever. For the entire year fourteen cases were reported with three fatalities. There were fewer cases of communicable diseases reported during the present year, thus far, than for any corresponding period in any other year since the organization of the Board of Health. The secretary added that there has been no death from contagious disease since last March, the beginning of the present year of the Board. Health Officer Conroy reported having attended to nineteen cases of nuisances during the month.

Under the head of nuisances Mr. Malone revived his attack upon the sanitary condition of the Borough building. He said the building is in the same condition as it was months ago and, from Council to Council chamber, is not fit to sit in. He stated that the cause of trouble is the sewerage of the building.

Officer Conroy stated that he notified Council while it was in session as to the condition of the building, but, for some reason unknown to him, nothing had been done in the matter.

It was suggested that the Health Officer visit the cellar and note its condition. This was done and, upon his return, the Health Officer stated that the cellar was in a worse condition than he had ever seen it. The sewerage, he said, was backed up from the rear end of the cellar to within five feet of the steps at the front end. The members of the Board then went into the cellar, the proceedings being meanwhile suspended. Upon return to the Council chamber it was understood that the Health Officer commit the Board's solicitor in the matter and be directed by the Board.

A communication from W. A. King, chief sanitary officer of the census department at Washington, D. C., relative to the returns of vital statistics for the town, was read and received.
