FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

Man Found Dead and Mangled On a Railroad.

The finding of the dead and mangled body of Anthony Sabalski on the Lehigh Valley Railroad early yesterday morning has led to reports of foul play, but thus far no evidence to sustain the reports have been discovered, other than the fact that the victim's pay is missing.

Sabalski worked on the night shift at the Knickerbocker colliery, Yatesville, on Saturday, and drew his two weeks' pay there. It amounted to $16. He came to town and visited several saloons. He was seen in one of the saloons at a late hour Saturday night. At about 11 o'clock yesterday morning his mangled remains were found in the railroad cut and at a point about two hundred feet west of the Main street crossing. The left foot and right leg at the knee were cut off. The remains were removed to his boarding house, at the southern end of West street. The place is kept by Andrew Zemanek. A search of the deceased's clothing showed that but twenty cents remained in the pockets. It is now a question as to what became of the balance. His friends say he did not spend it in the saloons and they adhere to the theory that he was black-jacked in the railroad cut, robbed and left upon the rails at the way side of the train. It is believed that a freight train that passed west at about 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning was the one that mangled the body.

John Flannigan, conductor, John Powell and David Houser, engineers, A. W. Graeber, fireman, and John Bryson, brakeman, comprising the crew of the train that passed west at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning, appeared before Deputy Coroner Cardin this morning and made statements. They did not know a man had been killed in the cut until their train reached here on the return trip. An examination of the mangled remains disclosed a fatal injury to the head. The deceased also said that a train passed West at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. He made an examination of the engine of that train yesterday and could find no blood upon it. This indicates that the man was killed by the second train.

Deputy Coroner Cardin will hold an inquest at 7:30 o'clock to-night. He has selected the following jury: Edward J. Exley, Thomas Mullyak, William Smith, Thomas Tush, John Whisker and Thomas Doyle.

CIVIL COURT IN SESSION.

The Three Judges Render Decisions and Hear Arguments.

SUIT OVER CHURCH PROPERTY!

Bishop Nicholas, of Alaska, Sues a Shepton Congregation—A Man Jailed on Suspicion of Having Committed a Murder Near Coal Dale Four Years Ago.

Pottsville, Oct. 2.—A full bench appeared in court this morning, at ten o'clock, and after the usual decisions had been rendered Judges Marr and Bechtel heard motions and arguments in room No. 1 and 3. Judge Henning continued the trial in the case of Gibbs and Books vs. Girardville School District for $5,000 damages for rescinding a contract for the erection of a school building.

Decisions by Judge Bechtel: Divorce granted in Sarah vs. Uriah Mally, Charles F. vs. Ida M. Knorr, and Agnes vs. Joseph Jones.

Commonwealth vs. Robert Hodgert, motion for new trial overruled.

Commonwealth vs. William Miskines and William Morgan, recently convicted of selling liquor Sunday, new trial refused.

Weisinger Bros. vs. David Bittle and Cressona Building and Loan Association, garnishment judgment directed to be opened and the defendants let to a defense. Bittle denies that he signed the $300 note held by Weisingers.

Judge Henning filed the charge of the court in the suit of Ice Manufacturing Company of Germantown, Pa., vs. Broad Mountain Ice Company, in which a motion for a new trial is pending. And he said he would hear arguments of all motions for new trials in cases pending before him next Monday.

The policy is for $1,000 and William Bishop, Jr., who lives in West Chester, disputes the right of the widow to the full amount. October 10th was set for argument.

A rule was granted on the defendant in the case of the Right Reverend Nicholas, Bishop of Alaska, vs. trustees of the Greek Catholic church of Shepton to have them file a plea within fifteen days. Next Monday was fixed to hear argument for a rule to open judgment in the case of John Trout vs. Frank Miller.

Two petitions were filed in behalf of John Delaney and James Hughes. They state that their places on the Case Township School Board were declared vacant in an illegal manner by three of the Directors, and a writ of alternative mandamus was granted on President Gibbons and Secretary Hollman and other members of the Board, requiring them to appear in court next Monday and show cause why Delaney and Hughes should not be restored to their offices.

TOWNSHIP GOVERNMENT.

Radical Changes Made to Go Into Effect Next Spring.

The most important townships of this county will undergo a radical change in their government next spring. A law passed at the last session of the legislature gives to townships having a population of 5,000 a government as nearly akin to that of boroughs as it is possible to make it and students of municipalities, which have suffered much abuse of many and varied sorts in the past decade or two, are awaiting with anxiety to see what the result of the experiment will be.

The need of some legislation that would put a check on the extravagance and misgovernment in existence in many of the richest townships in the state has long been recognized as of pressing importance, but how to best reach the difficulty was the question which troubled state legislators. Whether the proper remedy has been found for the abuses complained of remains to be proven, but there is some little consolation in the fact that the new order of things cannot be any worse than the existing ones.

The new law prescribes that townships having a population of 5,000 or more, shall have a board of township commissioners, the number of whom will be elected three, five, and where the population is more than a certain figure, more than five. The board of commissioners will be elected at the February election and they shall serve for a term of two years. The duties of the commissioners will be similar to those of councilmen in boroughs. They shall elect supervisors, township clerk, township treasurer and all other officers needed for the proper government of townships coming under the act.

Besides giving townships a much more systematic government, the new law will do away with the present method of electing supervisors, who have been so long demonstrating what they do not know about road building.

The first board of commissioners will appoint the township into districts, giving it as many districts as it is entitled to according to population, and all succeeding elections of commissioners each commissioner will be elected by the citizens of the district he represents, as councilmen in boroughs are at present chosen.

Under the census of 1890, the only townships in this county affected by the law are Mahanoy township, with 8,241 population, and Butler township with 5,857 population. The town of Gordon, population of 1,194, was then included in Butler.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 2.—Hazleton is the only town in the eastern section of the state which enjoys the distinction of having supplied almost a half company of soldiers for service in the Philippines. Twenty-nine young men from the region, 24 of them from this city, left here a year ago as members of the Eighteenth regulars, and participated in some of the hottest fighting near Manila. They secured their discharges recently and will return to town next week. A committee headed by Mayor Meyers is arranging a great reception, and when the soldiers come home the entire population of lower Luzerne county will turn out to do them honor.

DAY OF REST FOR DEWEY

After New York's Remarkable Two Days' Reception.

RECEIVES TWO COMMITTEES.

Chicago and Philadelphia Extend Formal Invitations.

ADMIRAL NEARLY EXHAUSTED.

The Functions in Which He Has Figured So Prominently Have Proven Almost Too Much For His Strength—No Dates Set For His Visits to the Pennsylvania and Ill. Cities—The Naval Hero Leaves For Washington, Accompanied by a Distinguished Company.

New York, Oct. 2.—In volume surpassing all history New York on Saturday opened the flood gates of welcome to the all conquering Dewey and his gloriously victorious crew. Through seven miles of human walled streets the admiral and his men, who traversed almost all earth's seas to seek the nation's foe, marched while millions cheered.

In days of old it was a custom to greet returning conquerors an arch commemorative of their deeds. This city followed the time honored arrangement and nearly at the end of the route of parade the marching hosts passed beneath a most beautiful specimen of the designer's art which had been reared with infinite care and skill. Around the arch the crush came greatest, but there was another feature of the reception that attracted more attention from the man whom all gathered to honor than did this magnificent work of spotless white.

Just before the procession turned into Fifth avenue and along the green-towered edge of Central Park was the wonderful memorial. On a stand fully 250 feet long letters of living color read: "Welcome, Dewey," and close alongside was a national banner wonderfully wrought. It was all made up of parts of the public schools, so attired and grouped that the letters of the welcome inscription were perfect and the stripes, stars and field of the banner swayed like a grand ensign in a homeward breeze. It was copied after the G. A. R. display of school children in Philadelphia.

To this living picture the admiral bowed again and again, and his eyes glistened when the child voices blended in sweet harmony and welcomed the nation's guests with a beautiful rendition of "See the Conquering Hero Come."

Over Three Million Spectators.

It was a wonderful day in many senses of the word. Careful figures estimated that 3,000,000 people saw the grand procession, and if this is so, it is safe to say that another odd million got only the merest glimpse or did not see so much as the flash of a bayonet for such another crowd was never seen. The route was made extraordinarily long to enable all to see, but those who calculated made a woeful mistake in judging the unknown quantity which was naturally the popularity of the admiral and his men. When they came to realize the truth it was too late. The multitude of people who were disappointed.

Divested of the gold lace, the twin anchors and the four bright stars that told his rank, Dewey would have appeared simply a wholesome, enthusiastic citizen, and had it not been for the fact that he had been in the action and every utterance, he showed the love he bears for the men who fought with him, and in his quieter moments his face seemed to say: "Have I not been overwhelmed with honor a part of which these others should have?"

Next to Dewey, Schley got the warmest reception. From Grant's tomb to the reviewing stand his passing was marked with wild cheering. Boys broke through the lines and tossed bouquets into his lap. "Schley! Schley! Schley!" shouted a crowd in Fifty-ninth street.

Through it as the hero of Santiago sat bowing and smiling with flushed cheeks and a look of great pleasure in his eyes. Several times when the greeting became most enthusiastic it looked as if he would break down.

Rear Admiral Sampson's greeting was in marked contrast. He was applauded, but rarely cheered. Comments about his absence from Santiago were shouted at him.

"The men behind the guns" were royally entertained at a smoker at the Waldorf-Astoria Saturday night. There was a pleasing program of entertainment, the leading artists in the city taking part, and refreshments galore were served the jolly tars. The sailors made a merry night of it, and were very generous with their cheers.

The Admiral Greatly Fatigued.

The functions and the receptions that have figured so prominently in the daily life of Admiral Dewey since his arrival at Sandy Hook at this busy morning have proved almost too much for his strength. The admiral has been under such a perpetual physical and nervous strain that he is now almost exhausted. Saturday's ceremonies were the most taxing on his strength of any that he has yet had to undergo, and he appeared yesterday looking pale and worn. Despite the fact that he retired early Saturday evening and enjoyed a good night's rest, the admiral yesterday was too fatigued to more than remain in his room for the greater part of the time.

At 10 o'clock Admiral Dewey had an engagement to meet the Chicago Dewey committee and before he came down sent a message to Mayor Carter Harrison requesting that he be not expected to shake hands with the members of the committee. The admiral explained this request by saying that
