T. A. B. SOCIETIES.

The Celebration at Centonia Was One of Elaborate Scale.
Centonia, Oct. 11.—Yesterday old Centonia did herself proud in the way the T. A. B. Societies were received and entertained. Everywhere decorations of Old Glory and bunting could be seen and all had on their holiday attire. Early in the day the visiting delegates began to arrive, and soon all business was abandoned to the festivities of the day. In the morning Rev. Father Hayes celebrated High Mass assisted by a full choir, Miss Mary Healy acting as organist. Rev. Hayes also delivered an address of welcome, well liked and well received by the delegates. At noon the ladies of the Society gave a luncheon to the delegates and visiting clergy in the St. Ignatius Hall, which was an ideal feast, served on most beautifully decorated tables, by its winsomeesses as ever tried a banquet hall. After the banquet the Chief Marshal, John J. O'Donnell, marshaled his forces for the grand parade, which formed on the square surrounding St. Ignatius Hall in the following order: Chief Marshal, John J. O'Donnell, and aides, Lost Creek Band, Lost Creek T. A. B. Society, Lost Creek T. A. B. Cadets, Mt. Carmel T. A. B. Society, Centonia Band, Centonia T. A. B. Society, Centonia T. A. B. Cadets, Legion of St. Ignatius, A. O. H., Centonia, visiting delegates, clergy in carriages. The afternoon exercises in St. Ignatius hall were impressive and interesting. The convocation was called to order by President Brennan, when Rev. Hayes delivered the invocation. The regular business of the T. A. B. district was transacted and officers elected for the ensuing year. Rev. Meuwase made an able address on Temperance which was received with great enthusiasm. Rev. Meuwase is one of the best temperance advocates in the region, as he speaks for the good of the cause whenever the occasion arises. The day was further celebrated by the 102 windows of the large hall being brilliantly illuminated and a grand assembly in the evening. All in all Centonia can feel that they know how to treat visitors well and show every-body an enjoyable time.

Says They Are Vain.
Yesterday was the day fixed by Policeman Michael Heaton for keepers of houses of ill-repute in town to close them. He made a tour of the reported places yesterday, and says he found all but one vacated. The exceptional place is on North Chestnut street. Heaton visited it and was admitted by the proprietress, who stated that her sole reason for remaining on the premises was the fact that her servant was ill in bed, but as soon as the servant recovered she would vacate. Heaton is deserving of commendation for at least the effort he has made in connection with the movement.

RAID BY ROBBERS.

Bold Attempt in Daylight Made at a Butcher Shop.

FRIGHTENED BY A CHILD'S CRIES.
Three Men Were at Work and Flight Waited Nearly to Shape in the Streets—None of Them Have Been Arrested.
"Crow" Mitchell in Jail.
The butcher shop of Frank Bushek, on South Main street, was the scene of a bold attempt in daylight robbery yesterday. A little girl's cries alarmed the robbers and they made a hurried escape, but without securing any booty.
Mr. Bushek went to an apartment at the rear of the shop and, during his absence, three young men entered the latter place. One stood guard at the door of the rear room, another stood at the front door, and the third went behind the counter to tap the till, which contained considerable money.
Bushek was unaware of the situation until he heard cries outside. A young daughter, who keeps a saloon next door, witnessed the operations and ran screaming "Pop, some men are robbing Frank Bushek." The thieves heard the cry and hurriedly left the place. They went down Main street and along the Lehigh Valley railroad. In the cut just west of the Main street crossing they joined eight other men, who had evidently been in waiting to divide any spoils that may have been secured. The entire gang continued a dash in a westerly direction, and none of them have been caught. The till in the butcher shop has a spring attached, and it was the inability to work this spring that prevented the robbers from getting the money before the alarm was given.

ANOTHER COMMITTED.
Masked Burglar Visited Solicitor Burke's Residence Almost Solvent.
Although the attempted robbery of Borough Solicitor Burke's residence by masked men has apparently dropped from view the past two weeks, there has been much activity in connection with the case under the surface and last night it was again before Justice Toomey.
George, alias "Denny," Goodalawicz, a youth of but sixteen years who has already served time for robbery, was arraigned last night on a charge of being one of the masked men, but no evidence was produced upon which he could be held, and he was discharged upon his own recognizance.
The hearing was not a fruitless one, however, as evidence was brought out upon which Joe, alias "Crow," Mitchell was re-arrested and he was committed. He was charged upon this morning. Michael Dowling and Thomas McHale are already in jail on the same charge.
Mitchell was previously arrested, but declared that he was in bed on the night in question. He implicated McHale. The evidence elicited last night was to the effect that Mitchell went to William Becker's at "the flats," on West Coal street, and there until 11 o'clock drinking beer with Becker, McHale and others, among whom was Goodalawicz, who says he went to bed and does not know what became of McHale. Mitchell and others after they left Becker's, McHale confessed to having shot the robber's house that night and it has been shown by a witness named David Ringelstein that at about 6:15 o'clock in the evening succeeding the attempted robbery, Mitchell was seen at the boiler house of the Centennial colliery with several others, one of whom was McHale.
The delay in the arrest of Goodalawicz is due to his absence from town. He was traced to Hazelton, Philadelphia, Mauch Chunk and Allentown, being finally arrested in town on Tuesday night. He is released on his own recognizance.

Operations at Hospital.
Dr. J. C. Biddle, of the Miners' hospital, performed two delicate operations on Tuesday, on two patients in the hospital. The first consisted of removing half the lower jaw of Michael McDonald, and the other was the wiring together of the knee cap bone. The removing of part of the jaw bone required great skill and although weak from the effects of the operation the patient will recover. McDonald, whose home is in Hazelton, had been afflicted with a cancer of the bone of the lower jaw. The disease was spreading and the only relief was the removal of the part of the jaw which was affected. With the consent of the unfortunate man about one-half of the bone was removed and he will now recover.
Anthony Monaghan, of Gimardville, fell last Friday and badly fractured his knee cap. Owing to small pieces of the bone becoming lodged between the ends of the fractured knee cap, the injury refused to heal and it was found necessary to lay bare the bone, and, after scraping the ends, to wire it together. The operation was successful.

THE INGHAM-NEVITT TRIAL.
Chief Wilkie, of the Secret Service, One of the Witnesses.
Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—Many government witnesses were heard yesterday in the trial of Ellery P. Ingham and Harvey K. Nevitt on the charges of bribery and conspiracy in the great counterfeiting plot. The day's witnesses included John E. Wilkie, chief of the United States secret service, who testified to his direct testimony, talked interestingly of the famous Carranza letter; William J. Burns and William J. Flynn, secret service operatives; Samuel M. Richards, United States Commissioner Henry R. Edmunds, a paying teller of a Lancaster bank and the acting assistant chief of the treasury department at Washington.
There was a good deal of corroborative evidence and detailing of "abounding." The two pockets of $500 which McManus swore Nevitt paid him were produced and identified, including the red ink on the envelope which had been paid Ingham. A long record of telephone calls was put in evidence to show frequent communication between the phones in the offices of Jacobo, Kendig and Ingham and Nevitt. The important one was that confirming the statement that Ingham had called upon a drug store in West Philadelphia the wrong Kendig in Lancaster on March 6, and the right Kendig had answered on the day following. Papers found in Nevitt's pocket on the day of his arrest, were also in evidence.
It is now believed that the defense will assert that Ingham and Nevitt represented Jacobs and Kendig as counsel, and hired Secret Service Agent McManus to do private detective work to corner Samuel M. Downey, the Lancaster deputy collector of internal revenue, who made a severe pronouncement that he was bribed. McManus swore he got $1,000, and Downey makes affidavit that he got $700.

Little Girl Hoisted Alive.
Florence Henney, the three-year-old daughter of Night Watchman Henney, of Bettig's brewery, Pottsville, was hurled to her death on a trolley in West Philadelphia. Her brother, it appears, made a fire near the house. Little Florence wishing to get it out, stamped her foot on it, her clothing caught fire. Not a cry came from the unfortunate child, but smothered with flames she fell to the ground. Neighbors nearby rushed to the scene of the horror, but too late, little Florence was beyond help.

PHILIPPINES PURCHASE.

Judge William R. Day Discusses the $20,000,000 Payment.

NOT OURS BY RIGHT OF CONQUEST

The President of the American Peace Commission declares there was a strong desire to treat Spain with magnanimity.
Columbus, O., Oct. 12.—The first public utterance of Judge William R. Day, who was president of the American peace commission, concerning the de-liberation of the commissioners at Paris is contained in a letter written to former Congressman D. K. Watson, of this city, and read by him at a Republican meeting on the east side last night. Judge Day sets forth the reasons which, in his mind, justified the payment of $20,000,000 for the Philippines, declaring that it was never intended by the American commissioners that the United States had a right to the Philippines as a matter of conquest. The letter says:
"It was not claimed that the United States had a right to the Philippine islands as a matter of conquest. The United States has never undertaken so far as I know, to wrest from a foreign country lands or possessions simply by right of conquest. Had we been disposed to do so it must be remembered that we were in possession only of the city, bay and harbor of Manila under the provision of Aug. 12, 1898, providing that the United States should occupy this and hold the same pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace which should determine the control, disposition and government of the Philippines. The capture after the signing of the protocol, by General Merritt and his forces, whatever its legal effect may have been, included no more territory than we were entitled to hold under the protocol. In addition to the hope of accomplishing immediate peace, which, I need hardly say, was of great importance at that time, there was a strong desire to treat Spain with a degree of magnanimity consistent with our national honor and prestige following our national precedent in the treatment of Mexico for the cession of territory to us at the close of the Mexican war. By the cession, for a consideration, we obtained an indispensable ally, which must be respected by all other nations. It must be remembered, too, that the American commissioners had consistently refused to assume any of the outstanding debts or obligations which Spain had undertaken to fasten upon the Philippines. Nevertheless, our offer to pay for pacific improvements, Spain had not undertaken to substantiate any claim upon that ground. In my judgment the concession referred to was effectual in bringing about an acceptance of our proposals which resulted in the signing of the treaty."
"In this concluding I cordially agree with the following remarks of Senator Gray, one of the commissioners, made at the Ohio society dinner in New York Feb. 25, 1895:
"When after four or five weeks of doubtless anxiety it became apparent that these negotiations must either be broken off and your commissioner return without a treaty at all, and that we would be relegated to the necessity of taking not only the Philippines, but Cuba and Porto Rico, by the ruthless hand of conquest, or by some concessions that computed with the magnanimity and greatness and character of this country, gain them by the voluntary cession, of a treaty of peace."
"And, therefore, we believed that it was better for this country, strong in the hour of its victories, great in the hour of its magnanimity, than that it should, to a beaten and prostrate foe, exhibit the magnanimity of which I spoke, and take them from their voluntary cession and by purchase, so to speak, these distant islands, rather than expose ourselves in the eyes of the world as playing a role of barbaric conquest, and by military power tread upon the path of medieval rapine and warfare."
"The advanced position which the United States has always maintained in its international relations, its opposition to anything like harsh or severe treatment of a fallen foe, as well as other reasons, would seem to justify the payment of the $20,000,000 as an act dictated from a high sense of national honor as well as sound policy under the circumstances of the case."
