ANOTHER RACE FLUKE.

Lack of Wind Saves Shamrock From a Disastrous Defeat.

COLUMBIA THREE MILES AHEAD

When the Expiration of the Time Limit Put an End to the Race—Two More Races May Be Sailed After Columbia Wins the Cup Contest.

New York, Oct. 23.—Had the wind held yesterday the Columbia-Shamrock series for America's cup would have been ended in three straight wins for the defender, and the Irish cup hunter would have sailed home without the trophy, beaten as decisively as any former candidate. Only the falling of the wind saved the Shamrock from a defeat more stinging than on Monday. Yesterday she was beaten on the run to the outer mark 5 minutes and 51 seconds, elapsed time, and on the leg home, which should have been a boat, but which, owing to a shift in the wind, was practically a race. Columbia sailed away from her like a witch. When the race was declared off, about ten minutes before the expiration of the time limit, Columbia was leading by about three miles. She was then four miles from the finish. Had the favored Shamrock would have been beaten by at least 20 minutes.

Sir Thomas' hard luck continued to follow. His boat was very badly handled yesterday, in spite of the aggregation of talent aboard her. The two English captains and the captain of Empress, William's yacht, were full of belief that the Columbia can take her measure in light airs or a gale of wind. The crew of the Shamrock had given it up. They are now convinced that we have the better boat. Before the race on Monday they had the most supreme confidence in their ability to win with Shamrock. "There was no living with them," said one of the Yankee tars on the Shamrock's tender Lawrence. "They didn't think their boat would win; they absolutely knew it. They wouldn't even hear arguments. After they returned from the race Monday they were so sure that they would not speak to each other. Now they are frank enough to admit that the Columbia is the better boat by ten minutes over a 30 mile course."

The yachts will race again today, and even if Columbia wins there is a possibility that two more races will be sailed. A suggestion to this effect has been made, and Sir Thomas appears to be anxious that it should be carried out. He has been greatly disappointed in the showing his boat has made, but believes she might do better over a triangular course in a heavier wind, and has said that he would be very pleased to sail two more races.

THEY ARE CONVINCING.

Statement of a Neighbor is to be Believed.

Nothing so Convincing as What Persons Whom we Know and Respect, Say.

There is nothing so convincing as the statement of people whom we know and respect. If your neighbor tells you something, you know it is true; no neighbor will deceive another. So that is the way with Kid-neo-ids. The statements of people living right here in Pennsylvania are published so that you may see these people and find out the great good Morrow's Kid-neo-ids are doing.

Mrs. John Quinn, 534 E. Centre street, Mahanoy City, Pa., says:—"For some time I have had a dull pain in my back just over the region of the kidneys. I attributed it to kidney trouble and took Morrow's Kid-neo-ids for it and they relieved the pain in a few days. Kid-neo-ids proved very effective as the pain has entirely disappeared."

Morrow's Kid-neo-ids are not pills, but Yellow Tablets and sell at fifty cents a box at all drug stores and at S. P. Kuhin's drug store.

PROGRESS OF JAPAN.

An Interesting Discussion in the Great Commercial Congress.

A CHANCE FOR CAPITALISTS

A Representative of the Kobe Chamber of Commerce Says Japan Will Welcome Foreign Capital—Proposes to Modify the Chinese Exclusion Act.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23.—The presiding officer of the first session of the sixth day of the international commercial congress was Everett Fraser, consul general for Korea, and president of the American Asiatic association. The recently arrived Japanese minister, J. Komura, accompanied the speakers when they were invited to seats upon the stage and were successfully competing with the whole world.

"It is evident, however, that they can not continue to do so unless they have combined capital. We ought to own and control our own merchant vessels. We then would be in shape to make our own rates and compete with other nations on an equal footing. We have now reached the stage when we are doing more exporting than importing. The last year was the first year in the history of the country that this was true. But we must look to the future. We must stand prepared for the changes that are bound to come. This formation of combined capital is simply an evolution in business methods. Should railways own their own steamship lines there would be a marked change in the rates. All this requires capital, and such a tremendous amount that no ordinary corporation could stand it. The so-called trusts are not new. They have been found in England and Germany as far back as 200 years, and are increasing. Therefore, from a business standpoint of view, the formation of these combinations, in one sense, is one step forward. The various labor organizations are a sort of trust, and I believe in them and always have. They are for the purpose, I believe, of helping the individual members."

SEBATOR HANNA ON TRUSTS.

Compares the Combinations of Wealth to Labor Organizations.

Cleveland, Oct. 23.—Senator Hanna, in a speech before the Fifth District Republican club last night, defined his position regarding the trusts. On this subject he said:

"The Democrats say I am afraid to talk about the trusts. That settles it. I'm going to talk about them. This combination of capital for one purpose or another is not a political question at all. It is a business question, and ought not to have been brought into politics. When our industries were in their infancy England and other countries came along and sold goods in this country at less than the price asked in their own. Then followed the protective tariff law formulated by that friend of the workingman, William McKinley. Having secured this protection, American manufacturers went abroad. They are making rapid strides and are successfully competing with the whole world."

"It is evident, however, that they can not continue to do so unless they have combined capital. We ought to own and control our own merchant vessels. We then would be in shape to make our own rates and compete with other nations on an equal footing. We have now reached the stage when we are doing more exporting than importing. SEBATOR HANNA ON TRUSTS.

Compares the Combinations of Wealth to Labor Organizations.

Cleveland, Oct. 23.—Senator Hanna, in a speech before the Fifth District Republican club last night, defined his position regarding the trusts. On this subject he said:

"The Democrats say I am afraid to talk about the trusts. That settles it. I'm going to talk about them. This combination of capital for one purpose or another is not a political question at all. It is a business question, and ought not to have been brought into politics. When our industries were in their infancy England and other countries came along and sold goods in this country at less than the price asked in their own. Then followed the protective tariff law formulated by that friend of the workingman, William McKinley. Having secured this protection, American manufacturers went abroad. They are making rapid strides and are successfully competing with the whole world."

"It is evident, however, that they can not continue to do so unless they have combined capital. We ought to own and control our own merchant vessels. We then would be in shape to make our own rates and compete with other nations on an equal footing. We have now reached the stage when we are doing more exporting than importing. The last year was the first year in the history of the country that this was true. But we must look to the future. We must stand prepared for the changes that are bound to come. This formation of combined capital is simply an evolution in business methods. Should railways own their own steamship lines there would be a marked change in the rates. All this requires capital, and such a tremendous amount that no ordinary corporation could stand it. The so-called trusts are not new. They have been found in England and Germany as far back as 200 years, and are increasing. Therefore, from a business standpoint of view, the formation of these combinations, in one sense, is one step forward. The various labor organizations are a sort of trust, and I believe in them and always have. They are for the purpose, I believe, of helping the individual members."

CHILDREN ARE SOMETIMES TOLD, WHEN THEY ARE BAD, THAT THE ONLY WAY TO GET THEM TO BEHAVE IS TO PUNISH THEM. BUT IT IS A GOOD THING IF WOMEN COULD BE MADE TO UNDERSTAND THAT THE ONLY WAY TO GET THEM TO BEHAVE IS TO TEACH THEM.

Children are sometimes told, when they are bad, that the only way to get them to behave is to punish them. But it is a good thing if women could be made to understand that the only way to get them to behave is to teach them.
