Colliery Improvements.

The Lawrence Coal Company has abandoned that section of its mine at Mahanoy Plane, in the Holmes gangway, that was filled by the subsidence at No. 27 breast. A battery has been put across the gangway on the west side of the ailt which rushed into the place; and, immediately outside or west of this battery a tunnel has been driven from the Holmes to the 4-foot vein, and they are now driving a gangway in the latter vein. It will be driven to a point east of where the face of the Holmes gangway is at present, leaving a barrier of coal on the west side of the east cross cut, when this work is com-pleted the Holmes gangway will be again started and driven to the eastern line of the colliery, as will also the 4-foot gangway. Over-cast air tunnels will also be driven teen feet vertical above the Holmes gangway. connecting with the 4-foot return sirway, mmediately above the eastern and western eross-cut, which will re-establish the air cur-rent directly and connecting with the vein as before. This method of re-opening will make this section of the colliery practically safe for all purposes.
