The "Shaft" Raided.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock last night Chief of Police Murphy, with Detectives Hand and Mulloy, Detective O'Hara and William Creamy, raided the notorious establishment on North Chestnut street known as the "Shaft." The visit was a complete surprise to the inmates, but several men succeeded in escaping. Three women and two Polish men were taken into custody. The proprietress, who is known as Florence Blackwell, was arrested, she claiming to be ill from nervous prostration, although the police declare that she protested against their visit with the vehemence of a very healthy woman. The women prisoners were taken to the Council chamber for the night. The men were put in the lock-up. They were to have been given a hearing this morning, but the proprietress of the house still claimed to be ill, and a physician attested the statement. In her absence, the police were not disposed to proceed with the case, and the prisoners were retained in custody.

Slight Fire.

At 6:45 o'clock this morning the fire department was called to the Shelby Run colliery on account of a fire in the shaft at the dump chute. The services of the department were not required, as the fire, which was a slight one, was put out by the colliery employees with three Babcock extinguishers, with which the colliery is equipped. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have been started by a spark from a lamp of one of the miners who lit their lamps in the shaft before going down in the mine.

Robbery at Wm. Penn.

The residence of Robert Quin, superintendent for the Wm. Penn Coal Company, was entered by thieves last night, but they secured only a small amount of cash, an overcoat and a few trinkets in jewelry. The thieves ransacked all the apartments of the house, including the sleeping apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Quin, without awakening any of the occupants. The large Newfoundland watch dog was silenced in some manner, but in what way was not determined.

QUIET AT LADYSMITH.

But Latest Reports Predict Heavy Fighting in Store.

LIEUTENANT CHURCHILL SAFE.

Now a Prisoner at Pretoria, Wounded in the Hand—Flags of the Two Republics Hoisted at Colongue, Cape Colony, and at Altwal North.

London, Nov. 20.—This morning's news gives little that alters the complexion of the situation. Since the fight of Nov. 9 matters, so far as is known, have been fairly quiet at Ladysmith. This fight, according to British reports, was opened at 4 o'clock in the morning by the Boers, and continued until 11 o'clock. The Boers, according to the same reports, were driven back at every point, with a loss estimated at 800 men, while the British loss was small.

It is not unlikely that the Boers, badly informed as to the nature and extent of the British preparations to advance to the relief of Ladysmith, may be hesitating regarding the next move. The situation in Natal is very complicated, more especially if the reports be true that the great Tugela bridge has been destroyed.

The success of the next move on either side will depend more on strategy than on superior numbers. The Boers have three lines of action open. They can hold the railway with the force they have at Ennersdale, falling slowly back before the British advance and threatening it from Weenen, or, in the second place, they can advance from Weenen and try to carry Etecourt, or, in the third place, they can advance due south from Weenen to Weston, cut the railway and blow up the bridge over the Mool river. If it be true that there are 10,000 Boers, under General Joubert and General Botha, marching south to meet the British relief force, heavy fighting is in store.

Nothing is known with certainty regarding the progress of the relief column of Kimberley. General Methuen is laying his plans with the utmost care. He is busy night and day cutting down the baggage to a minimum, and issuing orders with a view of insuring that the officers shall be indistinguishable from the men to the eyes of the Boers. The advance will be made by forced marches.

At noon Saturday 26 British prisoners, including men of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers and several blue jackets, arrived at Pretoria. There were large crowds at the railway station, but no demonstration was made. Winston Churchill, who is wounded in the hand, was taken to the Model school, while the rank and file were sent to the race course. The Boer version of the conflict in which these prisoners were taken says that two British were killed and ten wounded.

On Thursday, Nov. 18, a combined force of Free State and Transvaal burghers occupied Colongue, Cape Colony, without opposition by the residents and proclaimed the district to be Free State territory.

A Boer commando from Rouxville, 450 strong, entered Altwal North and hoisted the flag of both republics in the market square, proclaiming the district republican territory. The British soldiers were given 14 days' notice to quit.

Commandant Olivier, with a portion of the Rouxville commando, has occupied Jamestown, Cape Colony, hoisted the flag of the Orange Free State and annexed the town.
