ANDREWS PUTS LIFE IN THE FIGHT

Pennsylvania Republicans Busy All Along the Line.

MANY MEETINGS SCHEDULED

Capital and Labor Concerned Over the Situation and Will Co-operate to Bring About the Election of Taft and the Full Ticket of His Party, Locally, and In the State and Na-

> [Special Correspondence.] Philadelphia, Oct. 6.

There have been very busy times about the Republican state headquarters during the last week. Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the state committee, has been almost overwhelmed with callers from the different counties, eager to contribute towards the success of the ticket. He has been in touch with the county chairman, and his reports all indicate that there will be a very satisfactory outcome of the campaign.

He has arranged for a number of epeakers of national prominence to come into Pennsylvania during the closing days of the canvass, and there is no doubt that there will be an enthusiastic wind-up of the campaign.

Vice President Fairbanks, Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury; Representative Nicholas Longworth, the president's son-in-law; Sen ator Julius Caesar Burrows, of Michi gan; John M. Thurston and other prominent speakers have accepted invitations to deliver political addresses in this state.

A large number of Pennsylvania orators will also be on the stump from this week until election day.

Mr. Shaw will deliver four speeches With Lieutenant Governor Robert S. Murphy, he is scheduled to address a political rally at Johnstown tonight. His other engagements have not yet been arranged. Mr. Shaw is one of the most effective speakers in the country. For many years he has been in demand for service on the stump in every campaign. He will attack the fallacies of Bryanism and emphasize the dangers of the bank guaranty system which Mr. Bryan is advocating.

Representative Longworth and Senator Burrows are booked to address a meeting in Pittsburg this evening. Mr. Longworth's speeches in this campaign have attracted much attention and he has received invitations to speak in every state. Senator Burrows is a veteran campaigner and eloquent speaker. Vice President Fairbanks will make two speeches at points to be selected later.

A Question of Wages. In the mail of Colonel Andrews a few days ago was a letter from an officer of the National Roller Bearing company, of Philadelphia, who stated that a notice had been posted in the factory to the effect that the 10 per cent reduction which had been made in the wages of the employes of that corporation in the midst of the panic of last year, would be restored to all employes in November if Taft shall be elected president.

The increase would amount to $60. 000 a year.

In commenting upon this announcement the editor of the Philadelphia Inguirer said:

"We have not the slightest doubt that should Mr. Bryan run across that notice he would tell his hearers that bribery had been resorted to; that here was an attempt to influence the workingmen. But we doubt very much if his hearers would agree with him. "It is prosperity, the pursuit of happiness and liberty that everybody It is good wages that the workingman is after. The government, the the polariscope, policy that gives him good wages, is the government, the policy that he believes in and supports-if he knows where his interests lie.

"Back under the Cleveland adminis tration the country was plunged into coocoocoocoo a depression that closed the mills and produced the free soup kitchens. Mr. Bryan was a member of the Democratic house that insisted apon a tariff bill that brought disaster. Today he is a candidate for president and is standing upon a platform which, if enacted into law, would again throw the country into a commercial panie and again close the mills and manufactories.

"The company above mentioned merely speaks for every other manufacturing concern in the country. It represents the existing sentiment among employers of labor. They have not forgotten. They fully understand what would be the result should Mr. Bryan be elected. They are waiting for the decision of the people. A Republican victory means the restoration of wages and the mills running at full time. A Democratic victory means uncertainty and depression.

"It is for the voters of the nation to determine what they will do.

"It is for them to make the choice between certainty and uncertaintybetween Taft and Bryan."

The average number of deaths through railway accidents in Holland is one a year.

Raffroad transportation in the United States was substantially seventyfive years old in 1907.

Formosa had only sixty-two miles of rallways in 1895. Since 1899 the Japanese government has spent nearly $13,000,000 on the railroad development of that country

Life In Finland.

In Finland many families lead the simple life in summer time. They camp out on islands and in the forests, always taking care to be near the water, for everybody bathes and swims. They sleep and eat al fresco, and the town councils provide public fireplaces and bathing houses in all places of public resort.

The Hydraulic Jack.

At Rome four centuries ago it took forty capstans, worked by seventy-five horses and 960 men, to raise an obelisk. With hydraulic jacks four men raised Cleopatra's Needle.

Watch Springs. A watch spring burns with the greatest brilliancy in oxygen gas.

The "Marseillaise."

The "Marselllaise" was composed by Rouget de Lisle, a colonel in the French army. The author's birthplace was Strassburg and not Marseilles, but it was a force of Marselllaise which first marched to it, and hence the title.

Buffaloes. It is believed that only 2,000 buffaloes are now in existence.

Plows In Spain.

In Spain about the only kind of plow in use is a primitive wooden affair with one handle and a tongue. To this is hitched a pair of small oxen or mules yoked up like oxen. The driver rests his right foot on a rear extension to keep the plow from jumping out of the ground, steadying himself by touching his left foot when about to lose his bal-

Love In a Dictionary

[Original.] Not long after my being graduated as a civil engineer I was placed in charge of a section of a milroad running through a large tract composing the haclenda of Don Jose Miranda. On the evening of my arrival on the ground I received an invitation from him to make his house my headquarters. Had I been older I might have declined to place myself under obligation, but in youth one is not so likely to refuse favors

Nor is one at that age overscrupulous in love. Don Jose had a pretty daughter, Dona Ysabel, who was helr to a considerable portion of his estate. 1, who had nothing but my profession and not much income even in that. should not have listened a moment to the temptation to make love to this When a youngster wishes to do the right thing in such a case he is apt to beat the devil about the stump by showing his heart to the girl in some covert way. I beat the devil around the stump not only as a salve to my conscience, but because I was not afforded an opportunity to make love openly. Besides, I had no reason to suppose that the young lady would respond, and to think of receiving a snub from her for proffered love quite took my breath away. Prudence dietated a plan that was noncommittal.

I never saw Dona Ysabel alone, but I passed many evenings at the house in company with the family. One evening I took a dictionary from the library on prefense of looking for the Spanish for a word I wished to use. Don Jose was in the room with others, and Dona Vsabel was looking over my shoulder. There is a story that a courtier who aspired to the favor of Queen Elizabeth of England wrote his aspiration and his fears on a window pane with a diamond and received his reply in the same way. The message and reply constitute a rhyme and are familfar to most people who have received finished education. Whether Dona Ysabel had ever met with them I did not know. While turning over the leaves of the dictionary I stopped and held my thumb for awhile on the word "fain." Then, carelessly turning over the leaves. I suffered it to remain on the word "would." In this way I indicated the line:

Fain would I climb, but fear to fall, I had reached the word "climb" and was looking for "but" when Dona Ysabel walked away from me, I inferred that she had not seen through my device, for if she had a natural feminine curiosity would have led her to remain where she was till I had finished. Replacing the dictionary in the library, I began a conversation with her father about the location of the rallroad through his haclenda, a subject in which he was interested. The next morning I arose and breakfasted, as was my custom, long before the family were downstairs and was going to my work when, passing through the library, I was surprised to see the dictionary lying open on a table. Going to it, my eye rested on the pages before me, which included words beginning with the letter "I." Inder the word "If" I noticed a ligh pencil mark.

My heart jumped. "If" was the be ginning of Queen Elizabeth's reply to the aspiring courtier. Rapidly turning over the leaves to words beginning with "if" I looked for "you." There was a pencil mark under it. "Are" was the next word in the queen's reply, and this, too, I found underscored. I had seen all I required to convince me that I not only had a reply to my message, but the reply I desired. It was this:

If you're afraid, climb not at all, completing the famous rhyme: Fain would I climb, but fear to fall. If you're afraid, climb not at all.

It was so well known to Dona Ysabel that she did not need to see it completed after the word "climb."

On the surface, from this time till I had finished my work, Dona Ysabel and I were merely acquaintances. We did not even use the dictionary or any other means of communication, but the night before I was to take my departure, again making a pretext of finding a word, I withdrew the volume from the library and began a hunt. Ysabel stood over me, and I pointed to the following words:

The way is dark. The road I fail to see As soon as I had completed my message Ysabel left me and, taking up some embroidery, devoted herself to it. ripe it contains enough prussic acid to But I watched her and saw that she was in deep thought. After awhile she laid aside her work and, turning to the dictionary that lay on the table, began In Turkey heiresses do not come into to turn over the leaves. I went and stood over her. She pointed out the following reply:

Make your demand and leave the res After the family had retired for the night and I was having a few final words with Don Jose about the section of the railroad I had located I suddenly astonished him by asking for his daughter's hand. It was not only my impudence that startled him, but wonder that I should have made such a demand without something of a courtship as is customary in the United States. Before he could make any reply I said that, of course, he and his daughter would together agree upon a reply which could be sent me and made my exit as rapidly as I could without appearing precipitate. It was not till six months after my request that I received a note from Don Jose, stating that his daughter's will had been too strong for him and her wishes were paramount with him. I was invited to the hacienda.
