DAMES AND DAUGHTERS. ANTI-JAP BILLS UP

Galifornia Legislature Again Warned by Governor.

ANOTHER PRESIDENTIAL LETTER

President Roosevelt Declares It Would Be Dangerous to Enact Discriminatory Laws Against Japanese.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 27.-Governor Gillett's message to the legislature on the Japanese question has had the effect of crystallizing the sentiment for and against the bills introduced by Drew and Johnson, against which President Roosevelt has invoked the governor's power and which are up in the legislature today.

The president informed the governor that it would be extremely dangerous for the legislature to enact any laws that might be construed by Japan as discriminatory. He wired Governor Gillett that another letter to him was on the way. This is expected to throw more light on the situation as regards Japan and America.

Grove L. Johnson, author of the bill segregating Japanese in residential quarters at the option of municipalities, had the measure made a special order for today. Two other Japanese measures are also before the lower house today.

The bill by A. N. Drew denying allens the right to hold land was set for consideration today at the request of the author after the governor had indicated that he desired such legislation held up.

Speaker Stanton and the assembly organization are against all of the bills objected to by the national administration. The fight in behalf of them comes from Grove L. Johnson, a San Francisco delegate, and those assemblymen who have many union labor constituents.

In his message to the legislature Governor Gillett said:

There is certain legislation now pend-ing before you which I believe to be of grave concern not only to our state, but to the nation as well and which should be most thoughtfully considered before it is acted upon. Certain bills have been introduced, some of which have been favorably reported by your committee, indirectly intended to affect the Japanese people. These bills have attracted the notice of the whole nation and have caused Japan to call the attention of our government to them. They have produced an agitation not only In our own country, but throughout Ja-pan, and the Japanese minister of for-eign affairs has stated to the authorities at Washington that if the bills should be

WILLETT SPEECH REJECTED. REPUBLIC BLAMED House Votes Today to Strike Out

Abuse of President Roosevelt. Washington, Jan. 27 .- Recommend ing that the speech delivered in the house last week by Representative William Willett, Jr., of New York, in which he heaped abuse on President Roosevelt, be expunged from the Congressional Record, the committee ap pointed to consider the speech submitted its report to the house today.

The committee declared that Mr. Willett's remarks concerning the president were not justified, that they transcended proper limits of criticism in debute, that they were destructive of that courtesy, respect and dignity which ought to be preserved and that they ought not to remain in the offichil record.

A letter from Mr. Willett to the committee accompanied the report. In it he pleaded that his speech should not be stricken from the record, as in making it he was within his rights. The house adopted the committee's report, and the speech was therefore stricken from the record.

CHARGES AGAINST SENATOR.

Stephenson of Wisconsin Accused of the Corrupt Use of Money.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27. - Senator Blaine has filed specific charges that United States Senator Isaac Stephenson as a candidate for re-election gave to Republican State Chairman E. A.

SENATOR ISAAC STEPHENSON. Edmunds of Appleton a sum of money in excess of $106,000 and approximating $250,000; that the money was given to Edmunds to pay to other electors prior to the primary in sums ranging from $5 per day to $1,000 in bulk as a consideration for some act to be done in relation to the primary by electors for Mr. Stephenson.

Sunken Vessel and Cargo Were Worth $28,000,000, but Only $1,020,000 Can Possibly Be Recovered In Suit.

New York, Jan. 27 .- After a confercharges were made by the above mentioned against the White Star liner Republic, which was rammed and sunk off Nantucket:

"When the Republic became visible in the fog she was crossing the bow of the Florida from starboard to port and running at a high rate of speed. "The helm of the Florida was promptly put to starboard, hoping to swing the bow of the Italian steamer to starboard and to assist in avoiding the danger of collision. The other steamer was, however, running so fast

"The officers of the Florida are in no way to blame for the collision. On the bridge at the time were Captain Ruspini. First Officer Rafaello Garguile

"They were proceeding cautiously in their course, sounding the fog signal frequently. They first heard the Republic's fog whistle at a distance of probably a mile and a half to the northwest. They held their course. No signal was given them by the Republic indicating that they should go to starboard or port.

"The sound of the Republic's whistle became plainer. Captain Ruspini reduced the speed of his boat to five miles an hour. Suddenly the Republic, which had turned to the southeast from the course she held when her fog signals were first heard, loomed up right in front of the Florida. The collision was unavoidable."

If the admiralty court holds that the officers of the Florida were at fault when the Italian steamship rammed the Republic the owners of the Florida will be liable to the extent of $1,020,-000. This is the value of the Florida, her passenger fares and cargo charges. However, his sins against the spirit of the age, against democracy, have been heinous. Measured by every standard of decency, he is an outlaw of civilization, like the pirates whose audacity, cruelty and viciousness he has exceeded because his opportunities were greater. Any nation which sees to it that South America is rid of this monster forever will come in for the whole world's applause. The Immortalization of "Old Abe." If controversies over a centennial memorial to Lincoln should postpone the realization of the scheme until his second centenary rolls around. the memory, which some people imagine is in need of a prop, will run no tisk of perishing "from the earth." There was majesty as well as pathos in the hurried farewell of comrades to the remains of Sir John Moore as the poet describes it when saying:

We carved not a line, and we raised not a But we left him alone in his glory.

In the same spirit Theodore O'Hara wrote:

And glory guards with solemn round The bivouac of the dead. Moore's weeping soldiers would have raised a stone and carved a line but for the enemy thumping at their heels. Yet that could not help an lota in perpetuating the name burned into English history by deeds of which that lonely midnight burial was the sequel. The name of Lincoln can never become a mere memory. Through him the republic endured, and with the life of the republic the work he wrought is imperishably intwined. All this is trite, and the question of the hour is as to the place and the form of a centennial marker of the nation's respect. Opinions differ as to details, but agree in essentials. Its site should be where the greatest number of Americans are to file past in the years to come. Its form should symbolize the appeal which the story of Lincoln makes to the universal heart. In Lincoln's own time that appeal was symbolized by the homely title Old Abe. Idealism will overshoot the mark if it carries the mind of posterity too far away from that rugged Old Abe of 1861-5 whom men then loved for his ruggedness.

The governor then reviews what has been done by the governments of the United States and Japan, resulting in a compact for the restriction of immigration, the provisions of which, he says. Japan is now carrying out. Figures are here given showing a decrease in the immigration of Japanese, and the governor says he knows of nothing to sustain the assertion that the Japanese population of California is increasing. The message continues:

As friendly allies many benefits will nure to both nations, and a great com-merce can be carried on between them to the advantage of our people, but as ene-mies the commerce of both can be driven from the ocean. MOVING PICTURES IN COURT Shown to Prove That Boy Suing For Damages Is Not Disabled.

New York, Jan. 27 .- A remarkable scene took place in the supreme court in Brooklyn when an hour's exhibition of moving pictures was given by attorneys for the defense to show that Stephen McGardy, a ten-year-old boy, who is the plaintiff in a $50,000 damage suit against the Coney Island and Brooklyn Rallway company, is not permanently injured as a result of falling from a car of the company's Hne.

The scenes depicted were of recent occurrence and showed the boy plaintiff taking part in leap frog and other vigorous outdoor games.

While in court telling his own story of how he fell from the car the boy exhibited his left leg, which was supported by a metal brace. In the moving pictures this brace did not appear.

Cubans on Their Mettle.

The Cuban people never stood in greater need of the good will and forbearance of the citizens of this republic than at the present crisis in their national fortunes. The first real experiment in Cuban independence begins now. Between those Cuba who have cultivated American infla ence since 1898 and those Cubans who have assumed this influence to be irresistible and antagonism useless there has been little freedom for the play of autonomy in political thought. If things went wrong America would intervene: if all was well America would reap the most benefit.
