One day last week a young man by been making his home with E. Madigan, at Winwood, came to the store of A. F. Hine, at Orson, saying that he wished to pay a bill which he said his brother owed. He presented a check, which Mr. Hine cashed, not knowing at the time that it was forged. As soon as the discovery was made, the young man was arrested at Charles Smith's hotel, in Starrucca, after trying hard to prove that he was not the man who forged the check. He was identified by Mr. Hine and others; but through sympathy for of strong drink and the influence of evil associates had had much to do with his with the promise from the offender to live a different life, and to reimburse Mr. Hine for the amount of the check and costs, which amounted to eighty dollars. This should be a warning to others.

While holding a ten inch plow one day last week, behind a team of horses belonging to Samuel Counterman at Lake Lodore, the Bobolink had an exhis parents, and knowing that the love perience or fright that he doesn't want every day. It being early in the morning, and the foreman, Mr. Cawley, downfall, Mr. Hine made a hurry trip crowding men and teams and breaking to Lestershire, the home of the young the ice off in order to get the plant runman's parents, and settlement was made, ning by 7 A. M., sharp (it will be well to say that the ice cutters and teams would be at work at five or six in order to have ice ready by seven) there being three gangs of ice plows, the first being the marker, cutting from two to four inches in depth in which the eight inch plow follows; after the eight-inch, follows the ten inch plow, which leaves the ice ready for spudding and rafting. Rafts of ice are poled down the channel to the water box, consisting of from fifty to one hundred cakes. There it goes through another process of spudding, separating the cakes ready for the elevator or carriage. It was while running the ten inch plow close to the water's edge that the team of horses, plow, Bobolink and all, started down for a cold bath, the ice all giving away between the plow and water's edge. With presence of mind the Bobolink jerked the plow loose and up on the lake where the ice was solid, which prevented the horses from being dragged down into twenty feet of water. It was an experience that the Link will not very soon forget.

SAYS GATUN DAM IS SAFE.

Noted Engineer Who Went With Taft Refutes Critics.

Washington, Feb. 16.—"The foundations of the Gatun dam are as stable as the piles in the river Rhone, some of which were sunk in the days of Caesar." said Isham Randolph of Chicago, one of the engineers who have been to the canal zone with Mr. Taft. Mr. Randolph says It is all bosh to talk about the foundations of the dam being unsafe. They have sunk; but, he says, it was to be expected they would,

Mr. Randolph, who is the engineer expressed astonishment at "the tremendous strides that have been made in the past year" in canal work. He says he was impressed deeply with Mr. Taft's grasp of every detail of the canal work, and he agrees with the president elect that critics of the lock canal ought not to be permitted to hamper progress.

BASEBALL SOLORS MEET.

National Commission Sits Today In Chicago to Settle Dispute.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The meeting of the national baseball commission which began in this city today is expected to prove one of the most sensational episodes in the history of the game. The announced purpose of the meeting is the giving out of the playing schedules and the consideration of other matters of interest to the fans, but the scrap between Garry Hermann and Harry Pulliam on the one hand and Charlie Murphy on the other will claim almost all of the public atten-

The dislike of Herrmann and Pulliam for Murphy is a matter of history, and they have now declared open war on the Chicago magnate. As Herrmann is chairman of the national commission that runs professional baseball and Pulliam is president of the National league and, as such, boss of Murphy, they can make things interesting for the Chicago man. They declare that his offer of a bonus of $10,000 to his team for winning the world's pennant was a bluff and also accuse him of being mixed up in the ticket scalping scandal here last fall, Pulliam says he has inside information about the row between Murphy and his manager, Frank Chance, and will divulge it. Murphy has declared his intention of fighting back, and there is every pros- of the pect of a lovely row,

Mr. Smith, Arizona's delegate, made a plea for the passage of the bill. That such a bill had not been passed be fore, said he, was a matter which stood as a shame against the record of congress

The ballot was not taken until Representatives Stanley, Candler, Cole and Sulzer had eulogized Delegates Smith and Andrews and predicted their early return to congress.

SAY WOMAN WAS MURDERED.

Coroner Has Body of Supposed Suicide

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 16,-An examination of the body of Mrs. Esther Brandt, who was found dead at her home here in December, has convinced the coroner of Schuylkill county that the woman was murdered. The body was found with two deep gashes in the neck and a carving knife lying close by. A coroner's jury without examining the body rendered a verdict of suicide.

An investigation convinced the famlly of the woman that she was murdered, and they obtained permission to have the body exhumed and an examination made. A sum of money kept in the house was missing, which led to the theory of murder and robbery. Two suspects are under surto make arrests.

STIRLING CASE COMES TO END

Scores Lord Northland For

Writing "Darling" Letter. Edinburgh, Feb. 16.-The Stirling diforce case came to a close with the address of Counselor Morrison in behalf of Lord Northland, who was named by Stirling. Lord Guthrie, presiding, reserved judgment.

Morrison based his appeal on the ground that an adverse judgment would wreck Northland's career. Lord Guthrie interrupted him, saving: "The letter that Lord Northland wrote to Mrs. Stirling, in which he addressed her as 'darling,' was a most dishonorable act. He must have had a tremendous motive to commit such a breach of propriety."
