LOCAL MENTION.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allen, of North Honesdale, on March 13, 1909, a daughter.

The valedictorian for the class of 1909 of the Honesdale High School is Coe Lemnitzer and the salutatorian is William Freund. These are chosen because their scholarship has been the highest for the course. Scholarship is based on class-work and examination, each counting one-half. In choosing the speakers who will take part Commencement night, the ability to write and deliver counts one-half, and scholarship counts one-half. The ability to write and deliver is taken from what they have done in rhetorical exercises, which form a part of the regular school work. The following have been selected: Abigail Baird, Faith Clark, Hazel Dein, Frederick Frey, Chester Gerry, Florence Hiller, Albert Krantz, Fred. Osborne.

Much interest is being shown in the High School over the literary contest to be held at the Lyric, April 1st. Those who are still in are working very hard to remain. The following girls are the chosen ones so far in the essay contest: Abigail Baird, Faith Clark, Grace Hanlan, Lucille Rowland, Alice Turnberger, and Laura VanHorne.

Fred. Reynolds, one of the proprietors of the Family Theatre, was assaulted on Main street, Thursday night. He was returning to his boarding place about eleven o'clock, when, near the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank, two men came from around the corner and one struck him with a large club, knocking him down. The men then ran up Main street. Mr. Reynolds received an extensive cut on the forehead from the blow. It is not known what the purpose of the assault was, as there was no attempt at robbery.

Rev. Benjamin P. Ripley, pastor of the Hawley M. E. church sends us the following words of appreciation and encouragement: "I want to express my appreciation of the 'International Newspaper Bible Study Club Questions,' which are appearing in your paper. Have been finding a great deal of interest in them. I take the questions to my Thursday night prayer services, and invite those present to answer or express an opinion. We have found the questions very stimulating and enjoyable. Hope you will continue printing the service."

On Saturday morning, March 6th, Mrs. H. P. Woodward, wife of the editor of the Peckville Journal, formerly proprietor of the Hawley Times, had the misfortune to fall on an icy pavement and badly sprain her left wrist. As a result she has to carry her arm in a sling, and the physician says it will be weeks before she will be able to have much use of the injured member.

Letters uncalled for at the Honesdale post office: Miss C. L. Moore, Miss M. Selle, Dr. Albert C. Morozzi, W. B. Salers.

Albert A. Grambs, who has so successfully managed the grocery and delicatessen establishment adjoining Liberty Hall building for several years, has disposed of his stock to M. Jacobson & Co., of the Boston store, who will occupy the place after the first of April.

We regret to learn that Mrs. E. E. Avery is quite ill at her residence at Indian Orchard, having been laid up for some weeks with lung trouble and bronchitis, following some years of feeble health from nervous affections. She is under the care of Dr. Burns, of Honesdale, who gives assurances of her ultimate recovery.

A telegram received on Monday announced the death of T. J. McCarty, at Boarderland, West Virginia. A telegram previously received gave information that he had received a serious injury, and his brother, Hon. Charles A. McCarty, was about to start for West Virginia, when he received a second telegram, announcing his death. The information received was so meager that the cause of his death is not known other than that it was from some injury. Instead of going to his brother, Mr. McCarty decided to have the remains forwarded here for burial, and so informed the parties at West Virginia by telegram. The remains are expected to arrive at Waymart, but the exact time is uncertain. From Waymart he will be taken to the Catholic Cemetery at Canaan, for burial. T. J. McCarty, after graduating from the Normal School, at Waymart, studied law in Honesdale, and was admitted to the bar as an attorney. Hon. H. Wilson, who was chairman of the examination committee, moved for his admission to the bar, stating to the court that his qualifications and knowledge of the principles of law as found by the committee were all of a very high order. Such recommendations are unusual, and when given are generally conceded to be a mark of more than ordinary merit. The profession of law, after his admission, did not seem to attract him, and he never located for practice. He traveled somewhat in the West, and finally, about nine years ago, located in West Virginia, where he had charge of the mining business of some Pennsylvania capitalists. He remained in this capacity until his death. He visited Honesdale a little more than a year ago, and spoke in high terms of the future of West Virginia, on account of its great natural resources. He was not married, and left to survive him three brothers, John, of Jermyn, William, of Carbondale, and Charles A. McCarty, of Honesdale; and two sisters, Mary and Margaret, both of Honesdale. No time has been fixed for the funeral.

The Chicago Stock Company will offer at the Lyric, to-morrow, Thursday night, the military drama, "Genesee of the Hills." It is a strong play and is given by special permission from Edwin Arden. The Friday night bill is E. H. Sothern's great success, "An Enemy to the King." "Genesee of the Hills" is a story of a cowboy scout who was raised with the Indians and afterwards became their chief. During the Indian uprisings, some years ago, this band refused to join the other tribes while Genesee Jack himself offered his services to Government and acted as scout. The name of the original star of the play, Edwin Arden, and the prosperous run at the New Astor Theatre, New York, should be endorsement enough to any theatergoer, and this is positively the first time the play has ever been presented at less than the two-dollar price. It is a dramatization of Mary Ellis Ryan's novel published by Harper Bros.

One of the Russell Park lots on Church street, advertised last week, has been sold to Mrs. Theresa Green, of 616 Church street, proprietor of the Honesdale News and Novelty store. The other lot is still on the market.

The first of the week's entertainments at the Lyric, given by the Chicago Stock Co. was greeted by a full house, and proved to be a very satisfactory performance. The company is made up of very capable people, and assuming that the opening play was a fair sample of their repertoire, theatergoers have prospects of a pleasant week before them. Least in size and age appearing on the stage on Monday evening were the yearling "Heavenly Twins," and it is no disparagement to the rest of the cast to say that the kids carried off the lion's share of the honors.

Misses Kate and Josephine McKenna left on Sunday for a business trip to New York city, where they expect to remain several days.

PRIZE ESSAYS.

The approaching completion of the High School buildings will soon necessitate the grading and arrangement of the school property grounds. No one is more interested in having this work properly done than the pupils who are to use them, and no landscape gardener should attempt the task without consulting them. In order to stimulate suggestion on this point THE CITIZEN offers the scholars of the Public School two prizes of $1.00 each for the best two essays on "The Best Way to Arrange the New School House Grounds," the competition to close April 15th. The articles, which must not exceed four hundred words in length, are not to be signed, but the name of the writer must be written on a separate slip, and enclosed in an envelope with the essay. The contributions will be numbered and submitted to competent judges who will decide on their respective merits. The winning essays with the names of the authors will appear in the first number of THE CITIZEN following the award.
