The Jumper Waists Have Come to Stay — A Bandanna Effect — A Shirtwaist that is Neat and Pretty — A Pretty Idea in the Trimming of Little Girls' Dresses.

BY JULES THEROW.

That the "Jumper" waists and dresses have come to stay is evident from a glance at this season's most fashionable garments. The ease with which the home dressmaker can make a really attractive costume by using this style of waist has never been equalled by any previous mode.

The one illustrated here is a "one piece" waist made of bordered voile, the edge coming on the edge of the sleeves. A box pleat is made in the back to take up the unnecessary fullness and the garment is slipped on over the head. A bow tie is made of the same material as the waist and fastened to the front, at the top. The gumpie worn with this jumper has the new high linen collar with the wide frill of plain net around the top.

For neatness and smartness of outline the waist like the one pictured here can hardly be improved upon. The material is white linen with hand embroidered collar and cuffs. The wreath design being used and worked out in delft blue.

At each side of the box pleat in front where the garment closed, are two tucks turning toward the front and near the shoulders are two more turning in the opposite direction, giving the effect of wide box pleats. The back is tucked in the same way, the tucks on the shoulders meeting those on the front and the other two turning toward each other and meeting at the center of the back.

When the waist is put on the fullness, at the back is pushed under the shoulder tucks which leaves the back perfectly smooth between the tucks. The cuffs are the new wide kind turned back over a broad sleeve band and having buttonholes through both band and cuff. Worn with this is a delft blue bow and a white girde fastened by a gold enamelled square buckle.

The use of several differently figured materials in the same garment extends to children's clothes as well as those of older people and opens the way to innumerable pretty effects.

Stripes and checks, polka dots and plaids, and even flowered goods combined with stripes or checks are all seen and with care in selection can be made into very attractive frocks.

A pretty idea is shown in the trimming of the little girls' dress illustrated here. The dress itself is simply made of printed challis. The figure being a blue ring on a white ground. Two forward turning tucks extend over the shoulders stitched with blue silk and ornamented with button-moulds, covered with blue and white checked silk. The silk is used also for bands around the neck, sleeve caps, and lower edge of the skirt. This would also be pretty made of dark blue and white striped flannel and trimmed with a bright plaid ribbon about an inch and a quarter wide.

Economy in Dress.

There are three dangerous rocks in the beginning of a season which a woman who must practice economy is likely to founder; the first, cheap novelties; the second, advertised bargains which are sold cheap because discriminating buyers will not pay for wearing apparel a season old; and, third, hasty buying of the very new in fabrics, color or shape. New shades of standard colors are especially dangerous unless the person selecting them is a prophet. Not very many are, and even astute tailors go slowly in purchasing until this or that dress or color has "made good."

Never buy a tailor suit of last year's cut, because it is cheap, and because you think it can be recut at home and brought up-to-date. In 19 cases out of 20 this cannot be done. If it were possible tailors with their workrooms full of people at their disposal would themselves make changes and reap the benefit. When such garments are worked over at home they usually end in a home-made appearance, and, all counted, will cost more than a new season's gown.

Some Uses of Hot Water.

Hot water is far more of a medicinal property than many believe or know. The uses of hot water are many. There is nothing that so promptly cuts short congestion of the lungs, sore throat or rheumatism as hot water when applied promptly and thoroughly. Headache almost always yields to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and back of the neck. A strip of flannel or napkin folded lengthwise and dipped in hot water, wrung out and then applied round the neck of a child that has the croup, will bring relief sometimes in ten minutes. Hot water taken freely half an hour before bedtime is helpful in the case of constipation, while it has a most soothing effect upon the stomach and bowels. A goblet of hot water taken just after rising, before breakfast, has cured many of indigestion, and is widely recommended by physicians to dyspeptics.

The Much-Used Kitchen Table.

My zinc covered kitchen table is such a convenience to me that I want to describe it for the benefit of other workers. It is so simple that any one can duplicate it at small expense.

Take any ordinary table and carefully cover the surface with sheet zinc, being careful to smoothly adjust the edges. These should be turned under and securely tacked down. It is best to have the hardware man do the work, unless there is a "handy man about the house" who knows how to use a hammer with judgment and precision.

Once accomplished, you will wonder how you ever got on without your zinc table. It is so easily cleaned I wash mine daily with soap and occasionally with a cloth dipped in kerosene to keep it polished. Hot dishes can be placed upon it with never a thought of their burning through and spoiling the usual oil-cloth. It is a sanitary table, too, for it is so scrupulously clean.

Try These Useful Hints.

Burn dried orange peel throughout the house frequently, it purifies the atmosphere, dispels any musty odors and leaves a dainty fragrance that nothing can surpass.

White clothes that have become yellow from age may be restored by soaking in butter-milk for several days, changing the milk each day.

Never pour sugar over the whites of eggs while beating them, but add from the side of the platter, a little at the time, in order not to break the air cells.

An excellent remedy for sore throat is pineapple syrup, taken a teaspoonful at the time.

If a panful of lime is kept in the closet with preserves and jellies, it will prevent them from moulding.

Salt water will clean bamboo furniture, Chinese and Indian matting and will prevent it from turning yellow.

For Sweeping and Dusting.

Remove chairs and all other movable articles out of the room. Pour a little household ammonia into a basin of water; take an old newspaper and crumple in water; scatter the wet paper over carpet, then begin to sweep. The wet paper collects the dust.

If you have a carpet sweeper, use sweeper first, then use broom. Carpets swept in this way have a nice clean look.

Dust piano, table tops, etc., with an old piece of velvet; the dust clings to the nap. For other articles use cheesecloth, as it is soft and nice. When dusted in this way there is no hat.

KNEW HUMAN NATURE.

The Wiles of the Wily Medical Fakir Are Many and Various

Two belligerent appearing men faced each other.
"You're a liar."
"You're a yellow pup."
"Fight!" shrieked a small boy.
Then a crowd of curious began to gather in front of the Grant building in upper Market street.

"If you're looking for trouble I guess I can give it to you," hissed the "liar" between his teeth.
"You can place a bet that I intend to see things to a finish," replied the "pup," striking a fighting pose.

"Come around the corner where a cop won't bother us, then," said the first, and, war thus declared, the duo hastened around to an empty lot behind the post-office, while a crowd of bloodthirsty men and boys dogged at their heels.

Arrived, the "liar" mounted a wooden platform newly built, while the "pup" dove into a dry goods box and extracted therefrom a bulging suitcase.

"While the 'doctor' gets out the packages of our magical herbs, guaranteed to cure cancer, bunions, all skin diseases, etc., I will entertain you with a few sleight-of-hand tricks," announced the "liar" in you with a few sleight-of-hand stentorian tones.

The crowd then realized that it had been gulled. A few on the outskirts slunk away, but the majority remained to fall victims to the wiles of the wily, medical fakirs and their cureall at $1 per package, and a pair of cuff buttons warranted solid gold, thrown in."

NO JARRING NOTE.

Beartice—At the wedding yesterday all the attendants were in white, the decorations were white—everything was white.

Benedict—Including the lie the bride told when she promised to love, honor and obey.

The Law and the Profits.

It is always refreshing," says a Cleveland lawyer, "to hear of an attorney who will not undertake a shady case. I know of at least one such, a lawyer in Toledo.

"At one time a chap in business in that town known to be practicing questionable methods sought to retain the Toledo lawyer, and was smoothing over his crooked conduct as well as he knew how, when the attorney astonished him by exclaiming:

"I think you have acted like an infernal scoundrel, sir!"

"Is there any charge for that opinion?" asked the man, as he rose to go.

"Yes, sir; five dollars."

Wouldn't Take a Chance.

A tall man, impatiently pacing the platform of a wayside station, accosted a boy of about 12.

"S-s-say," he said, "d-d-do you know h-h-how late this train is?"

The boy grinned, but made no reply. The man stammered out something about kids in general and passed into the station.

A stranger asked the boy why he hadn't answered the big man.

"D-d-d-ye wanter see me g-g-get me fa-fa-face punched? D-d-did bug g-g-gu'd tink I was mo-moo-mocking him."

Satan Terried.

There is as great genius displayed in advertising as in the higher branches of literature, says Woman's Home Companion. No problem daunts the modern advertising man.

In the window of a little book store in Eighth avenue, New York, was recently heaped a great pile of bibles, marked very low—never before were bibles offered at such a bargain; and above them all, in big letters, was the inscription:

"Satan trembles when he sees Bibles sold as low as these."

Who Got the Leg?

"If you please, mum," said the ancient hero, in an appealing voice, as he stood at the back door of the cottage on wash day, "I've just lost my leg—"

"Well, I ain't got it," snapped the woman fiercely.

And the door closed with a bang.

A Cheap Substitute.

"I had to sell my auto, but I haven't missed it yet."

"How's that?"

"You can get most of the sensations by cleaning rugs."

Advice to the Bald.

"My cocoa's cold," sternly announced the gruff old gentleman to his fair waitress.

"Put your hat on," she sweetly suggested.

INTERNATIONAL NEWSPAPER BIBLE STUDY CLUB.

Answer One Written Question Each Week For Fifty-Two Weeks and Win a Prize.

THE PRIZES.

First Series—A gold medal to each of the first five contestants.

Second Series—A silver medal to each of the next five contestants.

Third Series—A Teacher's Bible, price $5.50, to each of the next five contestants.

Fourth Series—The book "The Heart of Christianity," price $1.50, to each of the next thirty-five contestants.

Fifth Series—A developed mind, an expanded imagination, a richer experience and a more profound knowledge of the Bible and of life, to all who take this course whether winning any other prize or not.

Each medal will be suitably engraved, giving the name of the winner, and for what it is awarded, and in like manner each Bible and book will be inscribed.

All who can write, and have ideas, are urged to take up these studies regardless of the degree of their education, as the papers are not valued from an educational or literary standpoint, but from the point of view of the cogency of their reasoned ideas.

Golden text—The word of the Lord was published throughout all the region. Acts xiii:49.

Verses 12—At what points had Paul and Barnabas touched, according to the last lesson?

What important events were narrated in the last lesson?

Look up your map and say where are Paphos, Perga, and Antioch in Pisidia.

Verses 14—Should a Christian always attend church on Sunday, if he has the opportunity, whether at home or abroad?

If a man does not act like a Christian when away from home, is he a real Christian when at home, no matter what his outward acts may be?

Verses 15.—Are not our present day churches too stiff and formal, compared with the services in this synagogue?

Should not our services be sufficiently elastic to call upon others beside the pastor, to take part in them?

Verses 16.—Were there many devout Jews and others, in those days, who feared God and were accepted of him, who had not embraced Christianity?

Should preachers and teachers in addressing non-Christian audiences, assume that there may be some of the number who really "fear God," notwithstanding that they may never have heard of Jesus? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 17-37—In addressing a hostile audience it is well for a speaker to commence with things which they believe in common, making them lead up to the main question; what matters did Paul refer to, in carrying out this wise rule?

What points in this address of Paul's would you say were the most striking?

Verses 38-39 — In what sense can God forgive sins through Jesus, that he could not through the law of Moses?

Granted a future life of rewards and punishments, what question can compare in importance with the forgiveness of sins?

Are men sane who neglect to have their sins forgiven, seeing they admit the grave dangers of delay?

Verses 40-41—What do unconverted sinners need to "beware of?"

Why do sinners not accept of the salvation offered to them by Jesus?

Verses 42-43—What is it a sign of, when men want to hear the gospel preached?

Is there always an affinity between spiritual people, notwithstanding differences of opinion?

Does it do us all good to be urged to be true to God?

Verses 44-45—Does the story of the cross still draw crowds as it did at Antioch?

When one preacher is jealous of the good another preacher is doing, what is that a sign of?

Is a truly good man ever jealous of the good others are doing?

Verses 46-49—Is God more partial to one nationality than he is to another? Does God ordain all those to eternal life who will accept of Jesus?

Are gladness and joy always in the hearts of those who love and serve God?

Verses 50-52—When the bad persecute the good, which gets the real trouble?

Selling Skim Milk and Cream.

Some men that own separators and have good herds of cows report much profit in selling cream to one class of customers and skim milk to another set. Sometimes the same customers want both the cream and the skim-milk. On account of the separation they pay more for each.

Little Prince Olaf's Present.

Small Crown Prince Olaf, of Norway, received as a Christmas gift in 1907 the beautiful Sunbeam Island, on the west coast of Norway near Hardangerford. Though tiny, this island has an excellent harbor, and is noted for its fine fishing and shooting.

MAN AND DOG NEARLY STARVE

A dispatch from Scranton has this to say:

Four days on the road from Chicago to Elmira, without a bite to eat or a thing to drink, almost cost Charles Conner, a young Canadian, his life.

Word reached the Lackawanna railroad officials here yesterday that Conner was discovered in a box car at Elmira, after having been locked in the car since the train left Chicago. A little yellow dog was his only companion. Both Conner and the dog were famished and in another few hours would have starved to death. It was the dog's bark that saved Conner.

Conner's home is in Chester Springs, Canada. He wanted to work his way east so that he could get home. In Chicago he picked up a dog. It was as yellow as the yellowest, but it stuck like glue and Conner didn't have the heart to leave it behind. Picking out what he thought would be a nice car, Conner hid behind a pile of malt bags and got himself and the dog locked in.

The train didn't move as fast as Conner calculated and pretty soon the pangs of hunger gnawed at his vitals. With an almost superhuman grit Conners stood it for a day, but after another day thirst parched his throat and he all but lost consciousness. When the train reached Bath the conductor detected a faint noise in the car. It sounded like neither man nor beast and the train crew avoided the car. But, as the train went along they heard it again. At Elmira it was decided to open the car. The seal was accordingly broken and to the intense astonishment of the crew a dog barked weakly and a man with haggard face and body too weak to stand, crawled to the light from under a bag of malt that had a hole gnawed in it where in desperation the man and the dog ate the malt. Streaks of gray in Conner's naturally dark hair mutely told the suffering he had endured in the agonizing ride from Chicago to Elmira.

Nourishing food was provided both the man and the dog by men from Chief Special Agent Adamson's department.

COST OF VIOLATING THE LAW $2,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Fraudulent weighing at the docks in Brooklyn and Jersey City, has cost the American Sugar Refining company more than two million dollars.

The attorney general has issued a statement announcing his approval of the settlement effected between the company of all the claims which had been pending. The company pays in full the recent judgment of $134,411.03, together with interest, and in addition $2,000,000, representing duties which have been unpaid during the past twelve years, owing to fraudulent practices. Of this amount a million and a quarter had already been paid in to Collector Loeb under protest, which protest has now been abandoned. The statement says:

"The management of the sugar company have become convinced that the alleged frauds actually existed. The present settlement is a substantial restitution of the unpaid duties affected by these frauds. This settlement in nowise affects the criminal prosecutions of the individuals who are responsible for the frauds, and such prosecutions will be pressed to a finish by the government."

CITIZEN'S 5 MILE RACE.

In hopes that every athlete will read the following suggestions, they are herein printed for their guidance.

First, before competing, or even entering upon the course of training necessary to compete in this event safely, each athlete is advised to have his heart examined.

Second, not only should the athlete have his arms and body covered in his practice, but he should likewise wear a loose fitting pair of long woolen trousers, and he should have his feet well protected, by strong soles, from the pebbles and hard road, and thus avoid bruises.

While the man running feels warm, his arms and shoulders being exposed to the cold air it is very easy for him to contract rheumatism and colds, which will result later in life in much pain and discomfort.

The training should be started with long walks at a rapid gait with frequent jogs, and the distance of the jog should be gradually increased until by the 15 of May every contestant can safely jog at about two-thirds his best speed the full course of five miles without great inconvenience. He should be especially sure to cover up warmly after his work, and after his heart and lungs have resumed their normal rhythm, and his temperature has become normal, to be rubbed down in a warm room, free from draughts, after which he should rest in bed warmly covered up for at least an hour.

Since the race is to be in the afternoon, the best time to train for this race is at that hour.

Tobacco and liquor should be avoided, as no man can get in his best condition and partake of these things; especially is this true of the young athlete who has not formed the habit of depending upon these stimulants.
