EXPLOSION KILLS SCORE IN QUARY

Over 1,000 Pounds of Dynamite Goes off Prematurely at So. Bethlehem, N. Y.

COMPANY OFFICERS VICTIMS

Vice-President and Others High in Quarry Company Killed - Blast with Thirteen 75-Foot Holes Had Been in Preparation for Six Weeks.

Albany, N. Y., May 17 .- At least twenty men were killed by a premature blast of dynamite in a stone quarry operated by the Callanan Road Improvement Company, near the village of South Bethlehem, eleven miles southwest of Albany. It was at first believed that the death toll would reach thirty, but several Italian workmen who had been reported as missing were accounted for, and it is not believed that more than a score of lives were lost.

The dead: BAUMES, William, fireman, South Bethlehem.

CALLANAN, John Hoyt, vice-president and general manager of the company, Albany.

CALLANAN, Charles D., a brother of the manager, Albany. HENDRICKSON, John, steam driller foreman, South Bethlehem. M'MILLAN, Leroy, assistant superintendent, Voorheesville. MALONEY, James, blacksmith, South Bethlehem. SNYDER, Fred, master mechanic, South Bethlehem. ZAPPERT, Fred, agent of the National Powder Company, New York.

Twelve Italian workmen. exploded, scattering the bodies of the victims for hundreds of feet around. and it was with difficulty that, mutilated almost beyond recognition, they were identified. As darkness was falling, a wagon drew up to the engine house, loaded with bodies that had been picked up back on the quarry hill. A crowd of grief-stricken relatives gathered around, eager to identify the dead, only to turn away at the sickening sight. Italians with shovels searched here and there for portions of bodies. G. P. Bacelli, the local Italian Consul, and physicians and undertakers were early on the scene. The bodies of the two Callanan brothers, Fred Snyder and Fred Zappert were among the first to be identified.

The Callanan Road Improvement Company does a large business, furnishing crushed stone for road building, and preparations for the day's blast, which was scheduled to take place at 5 o'clock p. m., had been going on for six weeks. Thirteen holes five inches in diameter and about seventy-five feet deep had been drilled at points about twenty feet back of the face of the big quarry. The displacement was expected to amount to nearly forty thousand tons of rock, and over eight thousand pounds of dynamite was to have been used. The workmen had placed 500-pound charges in six of the holes and were working on the seventh when, a few minutes before 2 o'clock, there was a terrific explosion, hurling tons of rock into the air and scattering the bodies of the victims in all directions.

Although the disaster is supposed to have been caused by the premature explosion of an electric cap, it probably never will be known just how it occurred, as all those who were connected with it were killed.

Standing under one of the handsome trees near the large fountain, Mrs. Taft received her guests, who were presented by Capt. Archibald Butt, military aid to the President.

Mr. Taft assisted in receiving. A buffet luncheon was served from a tent. The Marine Band played near the east entrance. An innovation was introduced by Mrs. Taft, who invited the men to wear short coats, flannel trousers and straw hats.

THE HIGHER LIFE

Selected Genns of Thought from Press and Pulpit of All Sects.

Our Sense of Honor.

No man has a fine sense of honor, who has ceased to serve his fellowman of an alien race and is content to scorn him! Honor can never lay aside its weapons of war so long as one soul is in any way defrauded of its just rights and its legitimate opportunities .- Rev. D. W Anderson,

Excuses We Offer.

Most excuses are foolish. They are really needless, and seldom are they sound. Generally, too, they fail of their purpose, and only bring the excuser into further condemnation. They are a sign of weakness and of failure. Absence from the lips means the presence of strength in the life .- Rev. H. Tupper, Bup- this course whether winning any other

On Self-Examination.

Nothing is insignificant. There is a divine meaning in the extreme of everything. No life can infringe upon another's right-of-way in living, for the legitimate property of no two lives lies exactly along the same gardless of the degree of their educatrack. Each life is a monopoly in tion, as the papers are not valued from itself; for to each has been given the an educational or literary standpoint, sole permission to exercise exclusive but from the point of view of the cogpowers .- Rev. R. Phillips, Baptist.

Hearken to the Voice. "'In righteousness shalt thou be established; thou shalt be far from near thee. 'Ho, everyone that xv:1-35. thirsteth come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; wherefore do ye spend money for that which is Christ we shall be saved, even as not bread? and your labor for that they. Acts xv:11. which satisfieth not? Hearken dili-gently unto me and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness." -- Rev. F.

Willis, Reformed. The Appeal of Truth.

The appeal of truth to the mind One thousand pounds of dynamite of man is universally potent, precisely as the appeal of love to the heart. Hence, Christianity goes boldly out to claim the world. She claims it is a teacher and lover claims his own Christianity, woos the world with her love and truth and heroism. 'By this sign,' by the sign of her love, by the sign of her truth, she conquors .- Rev. J. Block, Congregationalist.

Greeting the Unseen.

Browning speaks of "greeting the unseen with a cheer." It is a beautiful phrase. It does not mean death and the future and all that; it means the whole world invisible around us now, the realm from which our courage and inspiration and power may come, the region that faith claims as its own. The man of faith always greets the unseen with a cheer, because to him the unseen is the secret of his bravest hopes and sturdiest strength .-- Rev. Caleb Lutton, Unitarian.

Christ Never Disappoints.

Jesus is always greater and broader and kindlier than we think Him to be. He never disappoints us by being less than we had expected to find Him. For example, take His common word "faith." It is nothing less than astonishing that Christ should be continually telling men to believe, and yet almost never telling them what to believe. This is not our way now, and the difference indicates how far we have diverged from Christ in this respect .-Rev. D. Burrell, Reformed.

What Sin Has Cost.

'The wages of sin is death.' 'There is no peace to the wicked.' neither here nor hereafter. Christ is our peace; he has gone into the grave, and even destroyed death. He has redeemed from death and ransomed from the power of the grave, and the grave and death have no more plagues and destruction. Christ has made our peace with the Father, God. breaking down the middle wall or partition, and his call is ever in our 'Oh, thou afflicted, tossed with tempest, and not comforted behold, I will lay thy stones with fair colors, and lay thy foundations with sapphires.'-Rev. F. Russell, Methodist Episcopal.

Differences in Men.

The difference between men is largely a difference in the employment of their talents. By improvement of talent, Moses rose from obscurity to the royal court, and on to the lawgiver of Israel. By improvement of talent Edison advanced from the position of newsboy and telegraph operator to penetrate the dren? mysteries of electricity and obtain mastery over the same. By improvement of talent Garfield rose from the tow-path to the White House and Webster from the farm to the Senate chamber. It sometimes requires much patience, pruning and preparation before the gates are swung wide open to the fields of large usefulness. Slowly moving Principles.

Great principles and great lives, Hke great bodies, move slowly. A man's self becomes a part of the truth to which his life is wedded, and as this truth passes beyond the limit of his visible existence and takes its endless course through the ages the best part of the man is perpotuated. Each life is a contribution to history; but few lives have their historians. Heroic lives are oftentimes written anonymously upon the tablets of time, and coming ages never recall by name their greatest benefactors. Some men are deed while they are living; others

Verses 1-5-Are good men liable to hold wrong opinions? When good men differ in opinion what is the better way in order to reach an understanding? When a professed Christian gets angry with another Christian, on a mere matter of opinion, has he or not backslidden from the love of God, and what spirit does it show? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.) Circumcision no doubt originated from supposed purposes of health, and physical cleanliness, and afterwards became a national institution of the Jews. State when God first made circumcision the sign, or token, of the covenant between him and Abraham and his seed, and to whom the rite of circumcision and God's covenant extended. (See Gen. xvii.) Is circumcision now essential to salration? Is the belief of any doctrine essential to salvation? Verses 6-11-Is experience of God and his dealings with us, conclusive proof of the will of God in the matters which the experience covers? Is thorough discussion in church courts a perfectly right way to arrive at the will of God on any matter? Were those who taught that circumcision was essential to salvation, as well as being narrow, necessarily untrue men? What is the difference between the "yoke" of the law and the "yoke" of Jesus? (v. 10.)

Verse 12-Recall some of the wonders done through Paul and Barnabas, among the Gentiles, and say what bearing they had upon the dispute concerning circumcision?

Verses 13-21-Who was James, who next addressed the council?

James, the brother of Jesus, was the president of this council; is it probable that his address was of the nature of the judgment of the council on this question? Verses 22-29-There seems to have been no formal motion passed by the council, but they appear to have reached an unanimous decision as outlined in the address of the president; say whether we are bound to take this decision as the voice of

In what particulars is the great wisdom of the council shown in settling this dispute?

Were each of the commandments given in verse 29 intended to be of lasting obligation, or were some of them only temporary?

From whom are Christians to get guidance on all matters in this day? Verses 30-35-There never will be a time when disputes may not occur, in the church and between individuals: how should they always be settled?

Did this trouble in the church help it or hurt it, and does God always overrule trouble, whoever may be the cause of it, for the good of his chil-
