LOCAL NEWS.

A great many requests having been made for a matinee performance on Saturday afternoon of this week at the Lyric Theatre, the Gardner-Vincent Co. have decided to meet the desires of these people and will, therefore, offer the very pleasing romantic drama that was played the first three days of this week "The Lady of Lyons." Prices will be just the same as at the previous matinees—10 cents for children and 20 cents for adults. Performance starts at 2:30 in order to give out of town people a better opportunity to witness this play.

A government tombstone for the grave of James Shanley, a member of Co. E, 112th Pa. Vols., is at the D. & H. freight station in this place, awaiting a claimant. The friends of the deceased are requested to call for the same, and see that it is properly erected. There are no charges on the stone.

Sentiment mingled with excitement, a beautiful story, with great heart interest, a Frederic Thompson production, a big and excellent company, and an attractive heroine in Fay Wallace will all be seen in the big dramatic success, "Polly of the Circus," at the Lyric to-night.

The Gardner-Vincent Stock Company closes its four weeks' engagement at the Lyric Theatre Saturday evening, with the beautiful production of "Sapho." Although the undertaking of inaugurating a stock company for so many weeks in a town the size of Honesdale was a great venture, the management of the Lyric is much pleased to make the announcement that it has been a very successful engagement, financially as well as artistically. The Gardner-Vincent Co. came here with the fine reputation which they had gained on several other occasions and they will leave Honesdale with even more popularity than when they entered upon their present engagement. All plays were largely attended during the month, but the largest sale of seats was for the performance of Thursday evening, the play being the much talked about "Sapho," which will be presented for the last time and which will also close the Gardner-Vincent engagement here on Saturday evening.

On the opening day of the third annual diocesan convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church at Garden City, L. I., on Tuesday last, a startling and most disconcerting episode occurred. The session was opened with the regular communion service in the Cathedral of the Incarnation. After the anthems had been sung a low moan was heard from among the choir boys, and Alfred Palanountain, one of the tenors, was seen to lift the limp body of Andrew Orth, a soprano, who had fainted because of lack of fresh air and the prolonged service, and place it on a bench. Hardly had he done this when another groan was heard and Roger Sinclair Ellison, another singer, thinking that Orth had fallen dead, swooned. George Navio, believing both of the other boys were dead, also fainted. The three boys were hurried out and placed on the grass. They were soon revived. The automobile of Philander C. Jennings was then procured to take the boys to St. Paul's school. The boys were placed in the tonneau and as Mr. Jennings was backing out the rear wheels of his car slipped into a ditch. The machine was pulled out by ten of the ministers with the aid of two planks. After the excitement had subsided a marble bust of Abram Newkirk Littlejohn, D. D., D. C. L., LL. D., the first Bishop of Long Island, was unveiled and a short address was made by the Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swentzel, formerly rector of Grace Church of this borough.

The completely metamorphosed Commercial Hotel, formerly the Coyne House, corner of Main and Sixth streets, was formally opened to the public on Wednesday afternoon and evening last. Hundreds of our townspeople visited the hotel, and were courteously shown through the establishment by the new owner and proprietor, C. J. Weaver. The general consensus of opinion, after such inspection, was that the Commercial takes no second rank among Honesdale's fine hostleries, all of its appointments being not only absolutely new, but of the latest style and finish, and certain to meet the requirements of the most fastidious taste. The gentlemanly office clerk, James W. Baker, whose many years service in a similar capacity at the Allen House, has made his name a household word among the traveling public, will greet the patrons of the hotel with all of his old time courtesy; and all other departments of the Commercial will be found to be in competent and experienced hands. We reserve a detailed description of this new candidate for popular patronage and favor for a future article.

There will be a special meeting of the Baptist congregation on Sunday morning following the sermon by Rev. George S. Wendell. Come and give him a cordial greeting.

It must be annoying to correspondents to find their items marred by the occasional misspelling of proper names. But they have only themselves to blame when blunders of this sort occur. We do our best to decipher every thing submitted to us; but when names are involved, or figures obscure, it is clearly beyond our power to correct all mistakes. This is the "steenth time we have called attention to this trouble, and sincerely hope it may be the last.

Smith a warrant for their arrest. They were brought to Honesdale, on Tuesday, as stated, and at a hearing before Justice Smith pleaded guilty, and were fined two dollars and costs each, which amounted to $9.85. Beere paid his fine at once and Arthur settled early on Wednesday morning.

Englishman Dies Leaving $50,000,000. London, May 27.—Charles Morrison, a comparatively unknown millionaire, whose estate, it is estimated, is worth between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000, died at his home, near Reading. He was ninety-two years old and a bachelor.

And So Got Riches.

An unfeeling monster of a man—although a writer in the Atchison Globe does not so describe him—was asked at a little evening gathering to tell what book had helped him most. "My wife's cook-book," he replied, after some thought.

All the ladies present bridled, and one asked him in what way his wife's cook-book had helped him—would he not tell them in a few words?

He would.

"About as soon as I married," he said, "I made up my mind I'd rather work than eat."

It Might Be Either.

A bony, lank village youth of artistic bent, who was snuffed at by his fellow natives, finally disappeared from his usual haunts. He was missed chiefly because his peculiar personal appearance was bound to attract attention wherever it was exhibited.

No one seemed to know whether the lad had gone, till the storekeeper, returning from a visit to a near-by city, announced that he had discovered his whereabouts.

"I found him!" he proclaimed. "He was in the art museum."

"As a curio," inquired one, "or as an object of art?"

TAFT TO SPEAK AT GETTYSBURG

Big Preparations for the President's Visit to Famous Battlefield.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 26.—Arrangements have been completed for the dedication on the battlefield here next Monday afternoon of the monument erected by Act of Congress to commemorate the services of the regular army of the United States in the Gettysburg campaign of June and July, 1863. President Taft will be the central figure in the ceremonies, and will deliver the oration. Miss Helen H. Taft, the President's daughter, will unveil the monument.

The President will arrive here Monday morning from Pittsburg and will be met by a committee of prominent citizens of the historic town and will be escorted by United States Regulars.

Secretary of War, Dickinson, will deliver an address and transfer the monument to the Gettysburg National Park Commission. The memorial will be accepted by Lieutenant Colonel John P. Nicholson, chairman of the commission. Following the placing of laurel wreaths at the base of the monument by the oldest regimental or battery commander in the Gettysburg campaign attending the dedication, President Taft will review the troops on the field.

The monument is a beautiful shaft 85 feet high, surrounded at the base by a broad granite terrace. It stands on Hancock avenue a short distance south of the high water mark of the Battle of Gettysburg. This monument represents all of the forty-two cavalry, artillery, infantry and engineer organizations of the regular army that participated in the campaign. In addition there has been erected a small monument seven feet high for each of the commands at the location it occupied during the battle. The largest central monument and the forty-two smaller memorials are all appropriately inscribed.

SPORTING NEWS.

There will be no game of base ball in Honesdale on Monday. There has been no team organized here as yet, but it is hoped that the town will be represented on the diamond again this season. James Moran, a former member of the local base ball team, is playing with the St. Peter's team of the C. T. A. U. League of Scranton. Moran is considered the best catcher in the league.

The high school base ball team will conduct a dance at Lyric hall, Tuesday evening. At a meeting of the team this week, Joseph Jacobs was elected captain.

A Deserved Testimonial.

The following resolution recently adopted by the Honesdale Improvement Association, in recognition of the faithful service rendered by the long-time secretary of that society, Mrs. T. J. Ham; with the accompanying appreciative note from her very efficient successor, have been handed us for publication:

Honesdale, Pa., May 25, 1909.

Mrs. T. J. Ham:

Dear Friend—At the annual meeting of the Honesdale Improvement Society, held May 16, 1909, as a token of their regard, by a unanimous vote, you were elected to a life membership in the Honesdale Improvement Association.

Yours Very Sincerely,
JENNIE M. BALL, Sec'y.

I have been unable to write and tell you with what kindly feeling this vote was voiced and passed. This can only in a very small way reveal to you the regards of the Association, and their appreciation of your years of faithful service as Secretary.

Very kindly,
JENNIE M. BALL.

Not Wholly Careless.

Thomas Chett was a meek but careless clerk, who, through no greater fault than carelessness, was continually blundering in his work. His most usual mistake was to misdirect letters, either by substituting a wrong street number, or by writing, say "Col." for "Col." One day his employer laid on his desk a letter which had been over a month in the mails without reaching its destination—and all because of Thomas's error.

"Now, this has got to stop," said his employer. "Such delays waste time and money. If you had used an envelope which hadn't had our address in the corner, we might never have known where this letter went to."

"That's true," assented the humble clerk. "But I am always careful to use that kind of envelope just for that reason."

Being a little slow of comprehension, he did not understand why his patient employer bit his lip and turned away smiling.

PRESIDENT LAYS CORNERSTONE

Declares That Future of the Negro is Hopeful and Bright.

Washington, May 27.—Speaking to the colored graduates of Howard university in this city, President Taft declared that never at any time has the future of the negro as a race appeared more hopeful and bright than at the present day. Conditions for the negro in the south, the president said, are growing better and better.

The task of educating the negro and especially of educating leaders among the race, the president asserted, was a debt owed by the government, a debt only too difficult of repayment because of the constitutional limits of the government in dealing with the individual.

President Taft handed to the hundred candidates for degrees their parchment rolls. Then he was escorted to the foundation of the new Carnegie library of the university, where he officiated at the laying of the cornerstone.

The president evidently enjoyed the privilege of being a real mason, for he not only applied the customary first dash of mortar, but worked industriously with the silver trowel until he had covered the entire resting place for the well proportioned stone. Secretary of the Interior Ballinger was also called upon to wield the trowel.

"Come on, Ballinger; you might as well help," said the president to the secretary, under whose department the control of Howard university comes. "But don't put too much," the president added, "and spoil the job."

EARTHQUAKE IN THE WEST.

Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa Shaken.

Washington, May 27.—The earthquake centering in Illinois was also felt in the states of Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and other parts of the middle west.

Throughout the territory affected no loss of life and only minor damage was reported. Small fires were started by the overturning of stoves, and many chimneys were razed. Aurora, Ill., is said to have suffered particularly in this respect.

In Chicago the shock was generally felt, but damage was confined to the breaking of dishes and ornaments shaken from mantelpieces or tables.

In Wisconsin the college buildings at Beloit were violently shaken and many residences. Tremors lasting for fifteen seconds were experienced at Milwaukee.

At Kalamazoo, Mich., windows were shaken and china broken.

At Cedar Rapids, Ia., the shock was so violent that students of Coe college rushed in alarm from the building.
