WHITE MILLS.

June 24.—The White Mills Red, White and Blue Poultry Club met at Florence Theatre on Wednesday, May 26th. Eighteen were enrolled for membership. The following officers were elected: President, Jos. Stephens, vice president, M. J. Decker; secretary, John Hensley, Jr.; treasurer, Wm. Hertel, Jr. M. J. Decker and Patrick Gill were appointed a standing committee to find out the prices of grain and keep the club posted from time to time. As all kinds of grain fluctuate in the markets the club want to take advantage of buying. We expect to have a poultry show sometime this fall. The meeting closed to meet again at the call of the standing committee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mallett were visiting his mother, Mrs. J. Mallett, of this place this week. There was a game of base ball played here on Sunday between a picked-up team from Honesdale and a few of our boys in town; but it was not our regular team. Charles Murphy pitched and Charles Wenders caught for White Mills. White Mills made all their runs in the first inning. Both teams played an excellent game of ball and they are now just in time to play a hard game whoever may be their opponents. The score was 7 to 5 in favor of White Mills.

News was recently received of the death of our former pastor's wife, Mrs. Wm. Rawlins, who died in North Carolina, May 20th, 1909, aged 81 years. She was exceptionally kind and affectionate, and much loved by all who knew her. The Rawlins family, especially the granddaughter, Miss Phoebe LaBarre, have the sympathy of the entire community.

Miss Alice Hamlin visited Kingston and Wilkes-Barre on Thursday last.

Services were held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon. They were conducted by Mr. Frank Elder, of Princeton Theological Seminary, who will continue to hold services here during the summer months.

C. L. Simons, daughter Claire, and son Clay, were in Scranton on Friday.

Decoration Day brought many visitors to our little village, and a large crowd attended the services in the M. E. church. These services were held directly after the return from the cemetery, and their main feature was an excellent address by Attorney Harry Hubbler, of Scranton.

CLINTON.

June 1st.—A few celebrated Memorial Day from this section but with land holders mostly it was necessary to stay at home and cultivate the soil while it was in such good condition to work. In this cold northern climate the farmer knows no eight-hour day law.

Mr. Kellerman, of Scranton, was with us last Sunday and gave us a short memorial talk after the sermon by pastor Rainey.

Miss Edie Dann, of Philadelphia, who is taking a course of training for a nurse, is home for a week's vacation.

Paul Cramer is so unfortunate as to have lost his brown paper, "Maud."

Among those who were guests over the memorial vacation were Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Suediker and daughter, of Prompton; Otto Demeruth, of Avoca; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner and son, Robert, of Carbondale; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garrett, of Honesdale; Miss Edyth Dann, of Carbondale; and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norton, of Dalton.

Charles Sanders, of Syracuse, N. Y., recently spent a few days at his father's, Foster Sanders, and his sister, Lois, of Cortland, N. Y., is spending a few weeks at her home also, and Mary Mulrainey is here for a short vacation.

Elwin Norton, of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, is expected home to-day.

PLEASANT MOUNT.

May 31.—Beautiful weather for Memorial Day, which was celebrated by a brief exercise in the park, followed by the decoration of graves at the cemetery. The following program was carried out at the park: Invocation, Rev. Father McCarthy; song "America," by the High School pupils; address, Prof. J. H. Kennedy; song, by school; address by Hon. J. D. Brennan; recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, and doxology by Rev. Schenck. The address of Prof. Kennedy and Mr. Brennan are mentioned in highly complimentary terms by all who heard them. Base ball game in the afternoon between Winwood and Pleasant Mount resulted in a score of six to four in favor of Pleasant Mount.

Prof. Deitrick announces the exercises of commencement week as follows: Baccalaureate sermon in the Catholic church Sunday evening, June 6th, by Rev. McCarthy; Drama, by High School pupils on Tuesday evening; Thursday evening, social and festival. Graduating exercises on Friday evening. Brennan, Jr., Leo Brennan, Arthur Crosby, Gertrude Stone, Viola Allen, Willis Taintor, Ralph Benson, Miss McAvoy, Clarence Moose, Jennie Doyle, Lottie Jones, Will O'Hain, Mildred Spencer and Anna Fitze.

GINSON.

June 1st.—Memorial Day was observed at this place on Monday, May 31st. The weather being very fine the exercises were carried out with much success. At 10 o'clock the parade was formed into line at the M. E. church, with Emory S. Whipple as President, and John Knapp, Marshal, followed by the Orson Cornet Band, the school children, carrying flags, followed by the old soldiers. At the entrance of the cemetery the Marshal gave the command to "Open Ranks and Forward March," when the soldiers marched through under an arch made by the "Red, White and Blue." They were joined by the President and Marshal when the graves of the dead soldiers were decorated with flags and flowers carried by the flower girls. Then they halted in front of Comrade William Chamberlain's grave, where Comrade James A. Kay took charge of the program. Appropriate exercises were rendered, consisting of song by the company, "America"; prayer by Rev. O. G. Russell; Lincoln's Gettysburg address, by Eric Sheldon; address by Comrade David Wilcox, and recitation by Dr. J. A. Kay. During the exercises the band rendered several appropriate selections. Line being again formed the procession marched back to the hall, where an elaborate dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid society, and young ladies of the neighborhood. After dinner Mr. Whipple called the people into the church where the remainder of the program was given as follows: Song by the choir; recitation by Mrs. J. H. Sheldon, entitled "The Blue and the Gray"; selection by the band; address by Comrade Rev. Mr. Tower, of Thompson, who was the speaker for the day. Although Mr. Tower is falling in bodily strength and vitality, he is yet able to deliver a grand speech, and tells of many of the real adventures that he encountered while facing the bullets away back in the sixties. His talk was very much enjoyed by all who heard him, and our prayer is that he may be permitted to meet with us and tell more of his experience in the future. Short addressess were given by Comrades E. Martin, David Wilcox, Ross N. Lee, H. B. Hall, James A. Kay, and Mr. Tower. The band furnished several very appropriate selections, which had been nicely prepared under the skilled leadership of DeVere Chamberlain. The band furnished ice cream and refreshments of all kinds during the day. We fall to recall a year when the exercises of Memorial Day were carried out with such grand success as they were this year. Those that were elected as officers and committees were Emory Whipple, President; John Knapp, Marshal; committee on entertainment, Misses E. P. Harlow, E. S. Whipple, J. H. Sheldon and Mrs. Stephen Jay. Miss Sarah Whipple was elected as table committee, and chose her own help for waiting on table. The proceeds of the day were $51.50. There is some expenses to be paid and the remainder is equally divided between the church and the band.

Mrs. J. W. Lewis accompanied her little granddaughter, Helen, to Wappinger Falls, N. Y. Helen has spent the past year here and her many little friends regret to see her go. Mrs. Lewis expects to remain a week with her son, George.

Mrs. Alvira Box is visiting relatives at this place.

WILSONVILLE.

June 1st.—Mrs. Brigham, of Port Jervis, has come to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whele. Byron Tuttle, of Ashley, came to pass Memorial Day with his family. Flora Schults attended the reception given by Mr. Creasy to his graduation class on Wednesday evening at his home at Hawley. Miss Schults is a member of the class.

A party of men, some from Hawley and this place, have been removing the debris from the river, making it navigable now between here and Ledgedale. During the winter many trees had fallen into the stream obstructing the passage.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pennell entertained Henry Hartfield of New York city from Saturday until Monday afternoon. Mr. Hartfield is cashier for the banking firm of Hartfield, Solan & Co., located on Wall street.

Fred Bea, of Honesdale, was a guest of his parents, Frank Bea and wife, on Memorial Day.

Mr. Schults, who is connected with a printing business in New York, is home to spend the summer with his family.

Owing to an increase in their business, the Hawley box factory company are calling back their laid off employees, some having been laid off during the winter. Albert Whele being one of them, is again at work. Thus we see good times gradually coming this way.

STERLING.

May 31.—For nearly a year past, Percy Musgrave has been living with his brother-in-law, Charles Ferguson, in Brooklyn, N. Y., and although he worked every day, he attended night school for several months. He is now spending a few days with his old friends in this section. George Howe is home from Moose on a short vacation. Recently Elsie Brown was elected Superintendent of the Jericho Sunday School.

Last winter Miss Phillips, a trained nurse of Scranton, took care of Mrs. Alice Catterson while sick, and last Sunday, accompanied by a friend, she made Mrs. Catterson a visit.

The G. A. R. program, as recently published in The Citizen, was executed to-day and the P. O. S. of A. and Sunday school participated. Mrs. Alvira Bortree although about 88 years old, was present.

S. B. Bortree has been laid up for several days past with a severe attack of the shingles. Dr. Simons is treating him.

A. D. Stone and his friend, Mr. Hoyt, of Scranton, are spending a few days at the home of E. V. Simons.

A number of markers assigned to the G. A. R. were received by John Smith and placed over the graves of the dead veterans. On account of an insufficient number being received, there will be some graves without them.

A valuable colt belonging to E. V. Simons got caught in a barbed wire fence and had a nasty gash torn in his fore leg.

John Smith and his niece, Miss Cassie Smith, were in Newfoundland one day last week.

Ike Simons, our fellow townsman, is a candidate for the nomination of Jury Commissioner and should receive the support of every Republican in this township.

NEWFOUNDLAND.

JUNE 2d.—The Rev. A. D. Thacher, of Bethlehem, Pa., will preside at the official opening of the new Moravian church, at Canadensis, on Sunday next.

Mr. and Mrs. Winchester, Mr. and Mrs. Anness, Mrs. McConoughy, Mrs. Griffin, and Mrs. Mooney, all of Jersey City, who have been stopping for the past week with Wm. Heberling, returned home on Monday.

The Kings' Daughters will meet on Friday.

A. Brown is building a new concrete walk to lead from his front porch to the street.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams, of Stroudsburg, spent Sunday at H. B. Smith's. They made the trip in Mr. Williams' automobile.

Dr. Decker, who has his office in Philadelphia, is home for a few days, on a fishing vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Coursen, of Scranton, are spending the week with H. B. Smith.

Rev. R. B. Belles, of Shickshinny, preached to the members of the G. A. R., at the Evangelical church, on Sunday last. His subject was most interesting, and his address was highly appreciated by those present. The Glee Club rendered several selections that were above the ordinary. Music, like a great many other things, needs practice, and lots of it, and if the boys would give a little more of their time to practicing we would have a glee club second to none in the county. The talent is here, so get together, boys, and let us hear from you more often!

An automobile party composed of Mrs. J. Simpson, Florence and Helen Simpson, Miss Stewart, Mrs. Harry Simpson and son Jack, and Mrs. Sieg, of Scranton, took dinner at the Paupack Valley House, on Tuesday.

HAYTIAN GIRLS RIDE ASTRIDE.

Costume Resembles Trailing Gown of a Mediaeval Noblewoman.

It is of little importance to Hayti and its people what the other Powers think of it. The little black republic goes right ahead with its voodooism, idol worship and other strange customs without regard for the feelings of the missionaries stationed there. Naturally enough the civilized custom of a woman using a side saddle for horseback riding does not appeal to the semi-savage nature of the inhabitants. Of course, not many Haytians are prosperous enough to own horses for use solely under the saddle. But those who do dress their women in the strangest riding habits yet devised. As the riders are ignorant of such an invention as the side saddle, their riding habits are built to fit the lines of an ordinary leather saddle. In effect those garments are simply a baggy pair of trousers, ending at the ankle in front but hanging in many folds almost to the ground at the back. Seen a slight distance away, however, the costume resembles the trailing gown of a mediaeval noblewoman when riding, and its picturesque quality is enhanced by the Haytian style of headdress.

That "Blue" Feeling.

The use of the word "blue" to denote melancholy or terror, as in the phrases to "feel blue," "blue devils," a "blue funk," and so on, is not entirely figurative, if we are to credit a recent medical writer. The class of phenomena that includes fainting, vertigo, nausea, etc., is controlled by certain brain centers that also bring about a sort of cramp of the external muscles of the eye. The resulting compression of the organ causes objects to look gray or bluish, and ultimately produces apparent darkness. The use of the word, having a physiological basis, is common to many languages. The French say, for instance, "I see blue." A writer says that the French word eboulement (gliddiness) should be spelled eboulement, and has the same origin.

Peppermint and Tobacco.

If you have a boy who has begun smoking too early and whom you wish to cure of the habit, feed him peppermints. Dr. O. Clayton Jones of Silvertown, England, writing in the London Lancet, is authority for this simple cure. Dr. Jones writes: "To break the smoking habit in a youth there is nothing better than peppermint drops. He cannot smoke with a 'bullseye' in his mouth, and even for some time after it is dissolved tobacco will not blend kindly with the taste that remains. Socially the cure may seem worse than the disease, but from a medical point of view the sucking of peppermints is far less hurtful. A common 'bullseye' will prevent smoking for nearly an hour, so the amount of sweets used need not be great."

For Sore Feet.

Corns and bunions are very obstinate ills to overcome. But if directions are followed faithfully they may be cured, at least to such an extent that they will not be sore and painful. The following formula, if used, twice a day, will, in time, greatly relieve both corns and bunions:

Fill a small bottle one-third full of very fine table salt, then fill the bottle with coal oil in which a tablespoonful of vinegar to every gallon of oil is used. You must be careful and wear shoes and stockings that fit you perfectly. Bathe the feet daily, but do not soak them. Change your stockings at least every other day, and do not wear the same shoes on the street that you wear in the house.—Inter-Ocean.

Our National Forests.

The recent proclamations setting aside the Ocala National Forest in North Dakota bring the number of states possessing such forests belonging to the United States up to 20, if Alaska be included. Of these forests, Arkansas has two, but all the others, except the new ones in Florida and North Dakota, are in the Rocky Mountain or Pacific coast states. It is expected that the Ocala Forest area, which covers 201,480 acres, will become densely covered with the sand pine. No part of the area rises more than 150 feet above sea-level. The Dakota Forest is in the Bad Lands region, and much is expected from its influence, since North Dakota is the least forested state in the Union. The new forest covers 14,080 acres.

POWER AND RESPONSIBILITY

Theme:
POWER AND RESPONSIBILITY

By Rev. Kaufmann Kohler

Text: "They helped every one his neighbor; and every one said to his brother, Be of good courage."—Isaiah, xlii, 6.

The favorite word of our age is power. We no longer dread the forces of nature; we have learned to subjugate the fiery steeds and hitch them to our chariot, to carry us triumphantly with lightning speed across earth and sea and do our bidding; we have turned the rays of the sun and all the things hidden in the soil into sources of human power, and we rate men and nations, the trades and the sciences, even knowledge and character, by the power they yield.

But there is something crude and selfish in that universal strife and struggle for power. For where there is victory on one side there is defeat on the other. Every success here implies failure there. Power can be so used to itself; it may be used well or misused; it may become the means of uplifting or of crushing others; Power is a trust. It emanates from a higher Power, which is benign and just. It is given to God's children for help, not for harm. It must, in order to be a gift of heaven, prove a source of strength for the feeble. It must not overawe and overwhelm, but protect and shield the powerless.

The greatness of our age consists not in the powerful machinery we have invented, in the mighty steam and electric forces which proclaim man's dominion over nature, nor in the great organizations of labor and capital that make the achievements of marvelous enterprises possible, nor even in those intellectual forces, such as science, literature and press, which interlink the lands and the nations and unify the world. The deep spiritual current underlying and overruling all movements and aims of our century, "the still, small voice" heard in the recesses of all hearts to-day, is the word "responsibility."

Every human vocation that comes to our notice, every condition of wretchedness that we encounter, the fierce social struggles and the exasperating labor strikes which we watch with abated breath hold before our minds with every greater impressiveness the lesson of responsibility.

True, in our everyday experience we are inclined to regard power as the means of controlling life for selfish purposes and each privilege as the opportunity of personal enjoyment and ease. The man who stands at the top of the social ladder is, as a rule, regarded by those beneath him as one who has great resources of pleasure and mighty advantages for personal aggrandizement open to him, and therefore made an object of envy and jealousy, if not of malice and hatred. Nor can it be denied that the great majority of men are so prompted by selfish aims and motives as to be ever eager to abuse power and privilege by indulgence in passion and greed. On the other hand, the less fortunate, no less guided by narrow, selfish feelings, behold in this inequality of life the favoritism of Providence and rebel against this cruelty of fate. This is an altogether erroneous view. There are no favors in God's world but involve also greater obligations. Each power we obtain imposes upon us some new responsibility. There is no such thing as equality in life. Nature did not fashion all flowers and trees alike. Its beauty consists in its variety of form and color, in its contrasts of high and low, of strong and feeble. Neither are all men moulded alike, physically or intellectually.

There is only one way of countenancing the contrasts of life. "Let not the wise glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty glory in his might, nor let the rich glory in his riches; but let him that glories glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord who exercise loving kindness, judgment, and righteousness in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord" (Jer. ix, 23, 24). Every distinction in rank and power must mean higher tasks, greater responsibilities; every privilege granted must rouse a keener sense of duty and assert a greater claim of helpful love and protection for the less privileged. Mutuality is the magic spell of happiness; it is the watchword, the message of the age. Life is assuming a new meaning for us. The upper classes dare no longer idle away their time in mere pleasure seeking, shutting their eyes to the misery and woe of those huddled together in filthy quarters, and saying, with Cain, "Am I the keeper of my brother?" They are learning the lesson of responsibility. They can no longer in false conceit hold aloof from the child of the gutter, whose ignorance and shame are sure to become a source of peril to them.

Responsibility has become the rallying cry of the better classes throughout our land, throughout the world. The wide gulf yawning between the enlightened and the ignorant, everywhere clamors for heroic actions to counteract the physical and moral corruption exhaling its deadly poison among the poverty stricken and threatening the safety and the purity of every home and every life.
