What to Wear When Yachting is a Serious Question to Women of Fashion—Simple and Jaunty For Mid-Season Wear—A Flowered Silk With Embroidered Fllet.

BY JULES THEROW.

The striped linens are carrying all before them just as the striped cloths did. In fact one cannot get away from striped effects no matter what material may be selected for a gown, for they are the design ideal for all smart fabrics.

There are divers ways of employing stripes in self-decorative schemes but none more attractive than the idea exploited in the accompanying illustration. The skirt and jacket are of different design. Broad bias folds of brown and white linen trim the skirt, forming a large diamond in the front. The waist line is elevated and the skirt hung from a belt the sport has grown so popular during the past few years that it constitutes one of society's principal pastimes in summer. The blouse shirt and plain skirt of former years has given way to a dressier costume which follows the lines prevailing in street and house gowns. The lovely white and black suit pictures is carried out in two materials the skirt being of soft French flannel with a silk finish and the coat of heavy black taffetas, stitched with bands of white silk braided with narrow black silk soutache. The skirt is very close-fitting, extending above the waistline and finished at the top with bands of its own material stitched in girde effect. A soft white linen blouse is worn under the coat, which has a collar of plain white taffetas.

The second costume in palest biscuit color mohair is trimmed with sea-green pongee with large polka dots of white silk. The skirt has a narrow tuck about the knees, piped with green silk, which gives it the effect of being made in two parts. The blouse, joined to it, with a belt of the same material, is laid in small plaits and cut in one with the sleeves. A deep turn-over collar is faced with green pongee and the sleeves are finished with cuffs of the same material.

Fragments of Useful Information.

Do you know—
 That you can make a faded dress perfectly white by washing it in boiling water?
 That salt dissolved in alcohol will often remove grease spots from clothing?
 That two potatoes grated in a basin of warm water give better results than soap in washing delicate flannel or woollen goods, ribbons, etc?
 That linen blinds can be cleaned by being laid flat and rubbed with powdered bathbrick?
 That piano keys can be cleaned as can any old ivory, by being rubbed with muslin dipped in alcohol?
 That a little tin, cold starch rubbed over windows and mirrors and then wiped off with a soft cloth is an easy way of producing most shining results?
 That a spoonful of mustard in a gallon of water will kill insects in the earth? This is good for potted plants?
 That a few drops of essence of saffron will keep flies away?
 That cloves or salt sprinkled on a pantry shelf will rid it of ants?
 That you can remove the odor of fresh paint from a room by leaving there a pail of water into which several onions have been sliced?

Scraps.

Egg Stains—To remove egg stains from silver, rub the stained part briskly with table salt, then wash in warm soapsuds.

To whiten clothes, put one teaspoonful of borax in the last rinse water. Powder the borax, so that it will dissolve easily.

For settling coffee—When eggs are high, one may be economical in this way: Break an egg in a jelly glass, fill it with granulated sugar, mix, then cover closely. Use one-half teaspoonful to a pot of coffee. This keeps any length of time.

Apple Jelly—When making apple jelly, try putting a drop of oil of cinnamon in it. It improves the flavor.

Canned Tomato Recipes.

Steak tomato soup—Take any sort of meat soup and add half a can of stewed and well-seasoned tomatoes; strain, and serve with croutons.

Tomato toast—Stew down a can of tomatoes till thick, with a tablespoonful of chopped onion, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, salt, and pepper; when the juice is somewhat absorbed pour over slices of buttered toast and serve at once. Do not strain.

Tomatoes au gratin—Take a can of tomatoes, add salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of minced onion; put them into a deep baking-dish in layers with soft bread crumbs, and put bits of butter on these; repeat till the dish is full, with crumbs on top, and bake till brown.

Promoting Flower Culture.

Flower culture has reached the point among the women in the fashionable Lenox colony, where plans have been made for a show upon a large scale.

Heroes of Faith, Heb. xi:1-40.
Golden Text—Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen, Heb. xi:1.

Verses 1-3—In what respects are faith and hope similar?

If a desirable thing is possessed by faith, does that give as much, or similar satisfaction, as the possession of the thing itself?

What is the ground of our faith, that "the worlds were framed by the word of God"?

Why do we admire the men of faith of past years?

Verses 4-6—Abel had a truly religious nature; now was this nature the result of his faith, or was his faith the result of his nature?

Does this record mean that Enoch's translation was directly caused by a specific act of faith, or that his general life of faith made him such a good man that God translated him without death?

Verse 6—Faith is sometimes based upon outward evidence; sometimes upon personal revelation; sometimes upon intuition, and sometimes upon composite grounds; what moral or spiritual qualities, therefore, are necessary for becoming a man of faith? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Why is faith necessary in order to please God?

Verse 7—What was Noah's faith based upon, and wherein was his faith meritorious?

Verses 8-12—What was the difference, if any, between Abraham's faith and that of the Pilgrim fathers, when they left the old country for the American land of promise?

I take it that Abraham and the Pilgrim fathers, while in communion with God, felt a drawing to go to the rich country; the distance about which they had heard; that they took this drawing to be the voice of God; and in this faith they started out; what evidence is there that their faith was true, and that such faith is always dependable?

Verses 13-16—Why is it that all nations and peoples, in all time, so far as we have any record, believe in, and "desire a better country, that is an heavenly"?

Verses 17-19—Give from memory the account of Abraham offering up his son Isaac.

What is the particular virtue, in Abraham obeying God in the matter of offering up Isaac?

Would it be a virtue or a vice in these days, if any man should do the same thing as Abraham did?

Verses 20-31—Suppose the persons mentioned in these wonderful verses, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses and Rahab, had been lacking faith in God, in these critical moments of their lives, what would have been the difference in the results?

Does faith in God always make the present happy, and picture in glowing colors the future?

Verses 32-40—Have men distinguished for their faith always been noted for their goodness?

This is a thrilling account of the exploits of the men of faith; give me an account of the achievements of men noted for their lack of faith.

A Live Scarecrow.

Fred Small, on his farm in Swanville, Me., has a very successful method of scaring crows from his cornfield, having a bantam rooster in a wire cage, with nest attached, and as everybody knows the cockerel is a very early riser, and starts in crowing at once, which keeps the crows from interfering with the corn.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"I have an intense hatred of greed and money-grabbing," says the Philosopher of Folly. "It makes me sick at heart to see men making more money than I do."—Cleveland Leader.

Tobin, in the "Honey Moon," says: "All women are angels before marriage, and that is the reason why husbands so soon wish them in heaven afterward."

QUEENS AND BULLFIGHTING.

Victoria of Spain Hopes to Win Even If Others Did Fail.

Queen Victoria of Spain is, it is said, anxious to abolish in her country the enormities of bullfighting; she has hitherto consented to attend at this favorite national sport, but the last time she went, shortly before Don Jaime's death, what she witnessed filled her with horror and grief.

So she has caused to be revived the memory of the fact that the great Queen Isabella, when she returned from conquering the Moors, declared that it was her wish to abolish bullfighting as a cruel sport which, she asserted, had been introduced by the Pymn Moors and which was unworthy of a Christian race.

If the Spaniards of to-day are reminded that the queen whose memory they adore was only prevented by her death from putting down the cruel sport it is hoped that they may allow their present Queen to make it at least unbecomingly for ladies to attend on such sights.

Queen Christina tried to do so in the early days of her rule as widowed Regent, says the London Illustration. News, but she had so much else to contend with that she had to abandon this unpopular reform.

It seemed impossible not long ago, for duelling ever to be abolished as a means of settling personal disputes and wiping out insults among gentlemen, but Queen Victoria achieved it. Acting through her husband, she so arranged that duelling should never again be resorted to by men in the army to end their quarrels or to defend their own honor, and this was speedily accepted as possible and right in civil life too.

HANDY WALL CLEANER.

Cleans Top of Window Casings Without Standing on a Chair.

A wall cleaner especially adapted for use in cleaning the tops of windows and door casings and places of a similar character which cannot be reached without considerable labor is shown here, recently patented by a Massachusetts man. The device is formed of two sections of bent spring wire, which are attached to a suitable long handle. The piece of cleaning cloth is laid over the under section of wire, the upper portion holding it in place and preventing it from slipping. The peculiar form of the curves in the wire enable the operator to readily clean the tops of window casings, door casings, pictures, moldings and the like without the necessity of standing on a chair or stepladder. The cleaning cloth can be forced to the rear of any elevated horizontal projection so that it can be thoroughly cleaned.

A Picturesque Princess.

This is how Queen Charlotte of England appeared in the streets of Genoa, while she was the crown Princess, as described by Mme. de Boigne:

"There was a kind of phaeton constructed like a seashell, covered with gliding and mother-of-pearl, colored inside, lined with blue velvet and drawn by two very small, piebald horses driven by a small child who was dressed like an operatic angel with spangles and flesh-colored tights, and within it lounged a fat woman of fifty years of age, short, plump and high-colored. She wore a pink hat with seven or eight pink feathers floating in the wind, a pink bodice, cut very low and a short white skirt, which hardly came below her knees, showing two stout legs with pink-top boots. A rose-colored sash which she was continually draping, completed this costume."

Queen Wilhelmine's Bath.

It has been said that the young Queen of Holland has rapidly aged of late, and is losing that beauty and cheerful youthfulness which have endeared her so much to the hearts of her subjects. As a matter of fact, however, her majesty never looked better than she does to-day, in spite of the disappointment caused by the non-arrival of an heir to the throne. She indulges in forms of exercise which adds grace to the figure, and carefully studies her complexion. Her majesty is said to have adopted the custom from the Dutch Indies of taking lemon baths. The lemon bath is made as follows: Five lemons cut into slices, are left to soak in a basin of water for half an hour. The lemon water is added to that in the bath, and the whole stirred vigorously.

STRIPED HORSES OF MEXICO.

Search Begun for the Famed Wild Stud of the Sierra Madreas.

A search for the famed wild stud of striped horses in Mexico may be a patient venture after something new, but probably not more so than the present venture at breeding a new type of horses in Colorado under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, to be known as the "American Horse," not literally with the American flag stamped in his forehead, but all the same a purely American horse. The venture after the striped horse is related as follows by the news from Mexico, which says that Prof. H. Cassar Ewart, a noted educator and naturalist of Edinburgh, Scotland, has arrived here on his way to a remote and unexplored region of the Sierra Madreas, in the extreme southwest part of the state. He is accompanied by several other scientists and the object of their expedition is to investigate the oft heard report that there is a large drove of wild horses of most peculiar appearance in that part of Mexico. These animals are said to be striped and bear a close resemblance to the zebra. They are said to make their home in a rich valley which is almost completely shut in by the towering cliffs of the mountains.

It is the theory of Professor Ewart that all horses were at one time striped and their present coloring and absence of stripes are due to intermingling the breed. He has been studying the question for several years and recently finished an exhaustive research into the prehistoric remains of horses on the island of Porto Rico and Jamaica.

The account of the existence of a large drove of striped horses in the Sierra Madreas seems to be authentic. Long before white men had penetrated the almost inaccessible region Indians who lived in the mountains told of having seen this drove of horses. About fifty years ago an American mining prospector named Hampton Bradley, who formerly lived at Parrel, where he owned and operated the Marco mine, made a trip into the mountains. He was gone for about three months, and upon his return he told of having visited the valley where he saw this drove of horses. He said there were several thousand of the animals and that their feeding ground embraced many thousand acres of rich, level land, with a small stream of water, running through it.

Upon said premises is a two story frame house, frame barn, and about half of same land is improved.

of plain brown linen trimmed with small brass buttons.

The jacket, too, has the short waistline and is trimmed with tuck bands of plain brown linen stitched under triple rows of linen soutache braid in the same tone. The front is vestless, nor has it revers, an artistic finish being effected by a flat stitching of fancy braid. The neck is collarless and embellished in the same way. Long, rather loose sleeves make the coat serviceable for late season wear and the hat is a smooth brown straw trimmed with satin and brown wings.

A costume which might be duplicated in any of the soft fabrics of the season is depicted above, and through originally fashioned of figured Japanese silk, silk finished nun's-veiling or challis would be quite as effective. In addition to the economic advantage gained.

The material has a delicate cream background with a pattern of pale lavender and pink flowers. The skirt is gauged around the waistline below an elevated girde of broad fllet lace embroidered with narrow silk soutache braid. A band of this same trimming finishes the bottom, being stitched over the hem.

An odd feature of the girde is the way it is laced at both the right and the left side, though one side only is used in the adjustment, of course. The dress is made in one-piece, but the blouse has a simulated opening formed by a box plate in the front with ruching of soft cream Val lace on either side of the plait.

Broad revers of the soutache embroidered fllet lace trim the upper part of the blouse, suggesting the lines of a sailor collar, while the full sleeves end at the elbows with bands of satin ribbon tied in soft bows.

What to wear when yachting has become a serious question in the mind of the woman of fashion, for
