Sixteen men in a submarine boat, went to the bottom and remained there, after a collision with a steamship off Lowestof, Eng., Thursday last. More ways than one in which to drown.

Earthquakes are still joggling Greece. On Thursday last several villages were destroyed in the province of Elis, the capitol of which is Pyrgos. Many people perished.

Evelyn Thaw spoiled her evidence which was said to be so favorable to Harry, by finally admitting that he had, at her interview with him at Mattewan asylum, threatened to kill her.

It appears that seven women, at least, were shot, during the recent riot of the employes of the Pittsburg Pressed Steel company. It is said that they were more violent in their assault upon employes who attempted to return to work than were the men strikers. Poor business for women—or men.

The Wall Street Journal predicts that the price of living will be advanced, right away. That the tariff will not help. That manufacturing will be more expensive, and shrills a lot more croakings of that nature. Don't climb any stilts 'till you reach them. Let us have peace during the hot season anyway.

Those editorials by "John Burrett, diplomat," which appear regularly in the Carbondale Leader, chock full of vehemence, capitalized words and black-faced type, are certainly attractive. If John's picture, which accompanies each effusion, and the 36-pt. headings were a little bigger, the articles would cover more territory.

That a man who has in his veins the blood of a race other than those of the white man or the negro, even though he has served the country faithfully, and even though he appears to be a white man and intelligent, and otherwise a good candidate, cannot be a citizen of the U. S., is the effect of an interesting decision which was handed down Friday by Judge Chatfield in the United States Court.

President Taft has exercised executive clemency in favor of a woman for the first time since his inauguration. He also rebuked Judge Landis and held to the doctrine that promises made to the accused should be fulfilled. The woman, Marion Gray, 22 years of age, was prosecuted for conducting a matrimonial agency. She was promised that if she burned her records, and the addresses of people with whom she had done business, and plead guilty, she would escape with a fine. Instead of five she was sentenced to a year's imprisonment. President Taft reduced this to one month.

According to Consul-General Jones, of Winnipeg, the Canadians in that section of the Dominion would like to have a Protective duty, or rather a discriminating one against rats if such a thing were possible. He says that they have never known rats up in that country until recently, but they are now marching on Winnipeg and have appeared in the towns of Emerson and Gretna, Manitoba, a few miles north of the United States boundaries, and were trekking northward. All of the municipalities on the Canadian side of the boundary are taking up the subject to devise some plan to meet the situation, as the rats are very injurious to the grain raised in that section.

A house of detention which doesn't detain is the Government lunatic asylum, at Washington. Eighty patients escaped last year. Dr. White, superintendent of the asylum, is investigating the caretakers.

John D. Rockefeller is, it is stated, transferring big chunks of real estate to his son, J. Rockefeller, Jr.—in fact, almost all his holdings. It can't possibly be that John, senior, is financially embarrassed?

It is estimated that 1000 boys bathed in little Lake Lincoln, near Scranton, Wednesday. If this is to be a frequent occurrence, some enterprising citizen will soon be using the contents of that pond for soap-grease.

Geo. Nowyokot, judge of election of the "Ridge" district, Scranton, must serve the one year's sentence imposed for falsifying election returns, as the Superior Court in Philadelphia has affirmed the judgment of the court sentencing.

If you know of any material better and cheaper than Khaki for soldier togs, advise the U. S. War department. Its officers are looking for such goods, and when they are accepted, perhaps they will allow the informant to bid on furnishing it.

Crops are having a hard time for their lives this year. Out in Kansas and Missouri, rain and floods are spoiling the agricultural products, while in this latitude, they are burning up. That assertion concerning the moisture for the just and the unjust, would seem to have a leak in it, somewhere.

The constitutionality of the law forbidding teachers in public schools to wear any religious garb, was sustained by the Superior Court, Judge Rice presiding, Thursday last. The directors of the school at Mount Joy thought otherwise and were indicted. They know more now, than they did.

Pedestrian Edward Payson Weston on Wednesday, finished his tramp across the continent, of nearly 4000 miles. His schedule time was 100 days and he failed to connect by five days. That was too bad, and must have been a great disappointment to the aged traveler and his thousands of friends.

The Board of Public Buildings and Grounds, on Wednesday last, postponed action for two weeks on the placing of the statue of M. S. Quay, deceased, in the rotunda of the capitol. The board has accepted as gifts to the State, paintings of Abraham Lincoln, Gen. Anthony Wayne and Gen. F. A. Muhlenberg, to be placed in the capitol.

Another "Darius Green" has had a tumble from his "flyin' masheen." Alex Williams who had driven automobiles, and who thought he knew all about aerial navigation, on Sunday last, at New York, took George H. Curtis' aeroplane which cost $5,000, scooted into the atmosphere about sixty feet, when he lost control, and the thing struck ground with a crash. His left arm was broken, thumb dislocated, and his body was badly bruised. He now knows more about aeroplanes than he did.

That the United States chews and smokes more tobacco than any other country in the north-temperate zone, was shown by the recent debate in the Senate over the tobacco schedule in the tariff bill. Against a per capita consumption of 2.9 pounds in Austria, 2.4 in Hungary, 2.2 in France, 2 pounds in England and 1.1 pounds in Italy we have a per capita consumption of 6 pounds. This means an average annual consumption of nearly 17 pounds for every male person in the Republic over 16 years of age. The United States government now obtains about $80,000,000 of revenue from customs and excise on tobacco. On the basis of existing consumption in the United States the government statisticians have calculated that if we imposed the taxes applied in the United Kingdom the tobacco revenue would amount to $280,000,000 instead of $80,000,000; to $436,585,000 if the French rates of taxation or charge were applied; and to $477,675,000 if the Italian rates were imposed. It is doubtful if additional taxation would curtail tobacco consumption. It did not do so when the Spanish war tax was added, and which has since been kept on by the Tobacco Trust, though not paid to the government. The trust controls 80 per cent. of the tobacco trade.

Elite Boston affords its jurors alpaca coats, these sultry days. It should add linen breeches, fans, and soda-cocktails, to be really humane.

"Weston Tired, After His walk," says the Scranton Tribune. It's queer that a young fellow like him can't take a little stroll of that kind, without complaining of weariness.

It is said that in Newburg, the other day, a chap who begged a nickel was given a sentence of ten days, by the Recorder. The culprit thankfully exclaimed: "Lord! I'm glad I didn't ask for a dollar."

A dispatch from Teheran, received Saturday says that Parliament has deposed Mohamed Ali and named Ahmed Meiza, his second son, as successor. Also that the new Shah is but 12 years of age. This is startling but it probably will not affect the price of tripe in this latitude.

The Ashokan reservoir, to supply water for New York City, will, it is said, cover the present site of four-teen public graveyards, and many private ones, the remains in which will be removed in so far as possible. How one will enjoy that water as a beverage if acquainted with the fact above stated.

News reaches us from Baltimore that a young lady named Otilia Wetgrand, has died—poisoned by a chemical solution taking the place of solder. She was employed in the sealing department of the Continental Canning Co. and she is the second girl to die from the cause stated. The proprietors of that concern should be fed on that solution for a week.

William J. Bryan hasn't succeeded, after various trials, in seating himself in the Presidential chair, but he is ready to give the present incumbent advice and counsel, nevertheless. He now asks President Taft to allow the people to vote on popular election of Senators, and pledges himself to help the President, in case he isn't able to swing the scheme. So kind.

Dr. Distaso says one doesn't need to grow old. That you can be always young, if you begin when a child, by having your stomach, vermiform appendix and other useless appendages removed. Says the stomach is a nonsensical incumbrance as well as the appendix. It is simply a playground for worms and things and is no good anyway. We just use it because we think we have to. Why didn't he tell us all this when we were young?

Here's a queer state of doings: Magistrate Neumer, of the Manhattan avenue police court, New York City, decided, last Wednesday, that a father who had legal charge of his daughter thirteen years of age had no right to instruct her against her will, in the form of religion she should follow. It has always been supposed that a parent, who legally supported and cared for his children, has, if any one has, the right to instruct them in religion, as well as in other things. The parent will appeal from the decision to the Supreme Court.

We saw the other day an item to the effect that twenty-five hundred veterans of the late war die every month. So many! It will not be long until there will be no G. A. R. men—those sturdy veterans who went forth in young manhood to preserve the Union. True the other side, the ones who wore the gray are also passing away as rapidly—in fact more rapidly it seems and within a few years there will be nothing of that Great Rebellion except the treasured memories of the children, and the bronze and granite which mark the battle fields.

Twenty-two Republican members and one Democratic member of the House of Representatives were informed by President Taft on Friday last that he wanted the tariff revision downward, and would devote himself to that end. He made it plain that he was not in sympathy with the efforts of his callers to present reductions in the duty on articles for which they were demanding protection. He wants the forthcoming tariff law to provide for free hides, free oil, free coal and free iron ore and a reduction of fifty per cent. in the present duty on sawed lumber. The tariff conferees gave it as their opinion that these things could not be accomplished, but this did not cause the president to change his position.

Pennsylvania's Monument to War Heroes.

The state legislature has appropriated money for the erection of a $200,000 memorial at Gettysburg to the soldiers who fought in Pennsylvania regiments in the battles which were the turning point in the Civil war, and drove the Confederates out of the Northern states, not to again return. It is fitting that Pennsylvania should erect one of the finest monuments on the battlefield, which is now dotted with so many memorials. The site chosen for the memorial is a tract of four acres at Hancock and Pleasanton avenues, close to the high water mark of the war, and it is hoped to complete and dedicate the monument by October 1, 1910. All survivors of the battle who fought in Pennsylvania regiments will have their fares paid by the state, if they will attend the dedicatory services.

The design calls for tablets around the base of the monument. These will be of bronze and number 86 in all, containing the names of all soldiers who fought in the 86 Pennsylvania organizations engaged in the battle and who answered roll call at the muster for pay on July 3, 1863, the day before the battle opened. These names are being copied in the record and pension bureau of the war department.—Times.

Killed by Fall from Bridge.

John Golden, of 709 Alder street, Scranton, died at the State hospital at midnight, Friday, as the result of injuries he received in a fall from the Spruce street bridge early the same morning.

Up until a short time before he died, Golden's condition was not considered serious. More or less mystery surrounds the young man's fall from the bridge. Early Friday morning Patrolman Thomas Casey of the South Scranton precinct was attracted by a coat lying on the bridge walk over the Laurel Line tracks. Thinking that possibly someone had fallen over the rail, he investigated and found Golden unconscious on the tracks, about forty feet below. The young man was removed to the State hospital, where it was ascertained that he had a compound fracture of the right leg. It is thought now that he also received internal injuries, which resulted in his death.

DEAR, KIND LITTLE EVA.

Tells Why She Turned Against Thaw.

Before leaving White Plains for New York Thursday evening, Evelyn Thaw discussed her testimony. "If the Thaw family had done the right thing by me, I would never have taken the stand to testify against my husband," she said. "But they wouldn't guarantee me the allowance I asked for when the annulment proceedings were begun. If they had done that, I would have been far away from here to-day and Harry would have a better chance of getting his liberty."

"I don't know what I shall do now, I have no idea what my future course will be. I must go out and get a living somehow. I can't go back to the stage. My notoriety would prohibit that. The public would say I testified against my husband to make myself notorious. I will try to get work as a model. I can do it, too, I am sure. "Often I feel sorry I ever saw Harry Thaw," she plaintively remarked.

Begin Business as Separate Co. Aug. 1st.

It is expected the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal company will begin business as a separate company on August 1. Vice President E. E. Loomis will hold that office in both companies, as it is understood that under the law there is nothing to prevent him from holding both positions. The one thing the company cannot do under the Supreme court decision is to transport coal; it can mine coal, but being a public commodity cannot ship it.

The new company is a buying and selling company. The railroad places the coal in the cars, the new company buys it and ships it over the road and then sells it, the railroad company getting 65 per cent. of the firewater price. The only coal department official directly affected by the change is H. A. Smith, the coal sales agent, who pays the railroad for office rent in the new station at Scranton.

Much Fireworks and Noise—Little Wetness.

Sunday last a big thunder storm, one which deluged the surrounding country visited this locality, and gave Honesdale the go-by, as usual with the exception of a few bucketsful. We were favored with the racket, and with but little else. It surely begins to appear that we are being discriminated against. However we rejoice with those who rejoice. Nothing really small about us, if we are drying up.

Train Crews Cut Down.

A notice has been issued by the Delaware and Hudson company that hereafter the middle brakeman on each train crew will be dispensed with. A number of the men formerly employed as "middle man" have been placed on the extra list.

The change will throw quite a large number of men out of employment.

AUTO AND CARRIAGE CRASH.

Two Ladies Thrown Out—Mrs. Dunkelberg Injured.

At 5:45 p. m. Thursday, Mrs. Elizabeth Dunkelberg and daughter, Mrs. Frank Stark, of Seelyville, were driving on Main street in this place, and, when near the northern approach to the State bridge, their carriage was struck by an automobile, driven by Mr. Wyman Kimble who came down Park street. He turned to the right, but Mrs. Stark, who was driving, became flurried, and also turned to the right. Mr. Kimble to avoid a collision then turned sharply to the left. So also did Mrs. Stark. Then the crash came, the auto striking a rear wheel of the carriage and overturning it. Mrs. Dunkelberg was thrown out upon her head and left shoulder and sustained a severe shock and bruises. Mrs. Stark escaped uninjured. The injured lady was taken to the drug store of William Peil, near the scene, where Dr. Powell attended her. She was soon after removed to her home, and, at last report was recovering from the shock and bruises. No blame is attached to Mr. Kimble for the accident.
