

POULTRY NOTES BY C.M. BARNITZ RIVERSIDE PA. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED

MY MARY ANNER'S PIANNER. When the days seem sorter dreary An' of work I'm gittin' weary...

Then's the time my Mary Anner Jist tunes up her mouth pianner An' she sings an' trills like angels up above.

When the devil comes a-sayin': "Come along an' do some playin'."

Then's the time, thank God, my Mary, Like an angel or some fairy,

An' I turn an' lick the devil, An' I keep my head jist level,

Let's have more like Mary Anner, With her love an' mouth pianner,

THAT WHITE BUGABOO. The government microbe experts certainly make a bugaboo out of their so called "deadly white diarrhea" scourge.

Many of our chicks died with this disease in our early experience in the poultry business, but now we don't see one case to the hundred, and we hereby give you the principal reasons:

Our White Wyandotte breeders bubble over with vigor and give us strong, plump, livable chicks.

We use no cheap, claptrap hatching and brooding machines, apply lots of moisture and aren't afraid to cool eggs.

We never inbreed, mate old stock generally, and one side of the pen must at least be two years old.

Hatching eggs are carefully selected, kept in a cool place, are never over ten days old when set, are regularly turned by rolling with the hand, chicks aren't helped from the shell, and puny, weak, deformed chicks get a quick quietus.

We aren't afraid to open the incubator door during the hatch and don't "moylecoddle" the chicks.

We take them from the incubator quick as possible and sleep them in baskets and feed them in boxes for a few days, so when they go to the brooder they know how to eat, are hardened to the air and can go right into the scratch room to exercise for their food.

We get our chicks out on the ground as soon as they get their legs and know their brooder. This prevents leg weakness. Our brooder is colony style, with drumless hover, top heat and is bedded with leamy sand kept sanitary and well ventilated, the front door being open for air soon after the chicks are in, weather permitting.

We start brooders at 90 degrees, which includes heat furnished by chicks, and gradually taper down according to need of chicks, always avoiding extreme either way, as an overheated chick gets bowel trouble as quickly as one that is chilled.

On a cool night we warm up hover to make it more inviting. On a chilly, windy day we heat up when chicks are out, even if the heat has been shut off, unless chicks are too large.

We dry off the chicks if caught in storm and warm the brooder during steady rains to prevent dampness and try to keep our birds from getting wet, for that means diarrhea unless they are well grown and feathered and also causes gapes.

We feed only dry, sweet, ground grain, starting them generally on a good chick food, cracking our own wheat and white corn and giving just enough to keep them a little hungry.

They also have, before them sharp hard grit, charcoal, good, sweet beef scrap and pure water, and we never change feed suddenly. Last, but not least, we knock the lice. Our chicks neither have white diarrhea, gapes nor leg weakness. Try our plan and be convinced.

DON'TS. Don't let the poultry house be dark and gloomy when whitewash will make it white and light.

Don't let turkeys, ducks and hens run together. They do better when all of one feather.

Don't kick the horse if he tramps a hen in his stall. That's no place for a hen at all.

HOME DRESSMAKING By Charlotte Martin.

ONE PIECE JUMPER WAIST.

Pattern No. 5435.—This is one of the most stylish and simple jumpers... It is very easy to make as the only seams are those under the arms. It slips on over the head or may be made to close in the back.

LITTLE GIRL'S COAT.

Pattern No. 5414.—For a thin or medium weight coat this design is very attractive. The yoke and back are in one piece, the sleeves being cut with the fronts.

Cut in 3 sizes, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 8 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

ONE-PIECE CORSET COVER.

Pattern No. 5446.—A straight upper edge makes this dainty design particularly suitable for flouncing as shown in the front view. A ribbon is run through the scallops to fit it around the top.

Cut in 5 sizes, 32 to 40 bust measure. Size 36 requires 1 1/2 yards of flouncing 18 inches wide.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS. Send FIVE cents for each pattern desired to Charlotte Martin, 402 W. 23rd Street, New York. State No. of pattern and size wanted.

(Copyright, 1909, by Rev. T. S. Linseott, D.D.) Paul's Second Missionary Journey—Athens. Acts xvii:16-34.

Golden Text—God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. John iv:24.

Verse 16—Can any true man, at this time, see the folly and sin which thousands so eagerly follow, without his spirit being stirred?

Verse 17—Notwithstanding that we all, necessarily, have trades and callings to pursue, should, or should not, our chief concern be the tremendous issues involved in spiritual truth, and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 18-21—The Epicureans and Stoics had a contrary philosophy of life, state briefly what they each taught.

Which brings the more lasting happiness, and develops the nobler character, a life devoted to the pleasures of sense, or a life devoted to service for others, and to self-denial?

What as a matter of fact, is the substance of what Paul taught?

Should we lend a respectful ear to all new theories of life, and eternity, or reject them without examination?

Verse 22—Which is the better man, an active skeptic, or an indifferent and thoughtless Christian?

Which is preferable to be ever speculating about God, or to have no thought concerning him?

Is belief in and a longing for God, peculiar to Christianity?

May a heathen who has never come into touch with Christianity, find out, and know, the true God?

What then is the advantage for a true hearted heathen, coming into contact with Christianity?

Verse 23—Can one man who knows God, be the means of imparting that knowledge to another who desires to know him?

Verse 24—How do we know that God made all things?

God does fill heaven and earth with his presence; but does he not also dwell in temples that are made in which to worship him?

Verse 25—While God does not need the support of man's hands, does he not desire the worship and love of men's hearts?

How does God give to all "life and breath, and all things?"

Will we in heaven be able to see God, in any different way from the way in which it is our privilege to see him now?

Verse 26—What is the evidence that all races of men, sprang from the same original stock?

Has God had anything to do with the national, and geographical, divisions of the globe, as they exist to-day?

Has God had anything to do with our present individual conditions?

Verse 27-28—What is both the chief joy and object of life?

Is it possible for every man to find God if he will but seek him, and what is the only condition for seeking him?

How do you conceive of the thought that "in him we live and move and have our being," can you illustrate the thought with air, that is both in us, and around us?

Verse 29—Can any work of art represent God to any practical advantage?

Verse 30-31—What makes the need for repentance?

In what way will Jesus judge the world?

Verse 32—Why did some mock when they heard of the resurrection?

Verse 33-34—Did all who were true to God accept Paul's message, and were all untrue to God who rejected it?

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. W. O. Smith of Chicago shaved her husband every other day for a month, thereby earning $1, which she donated to foreign missions.

Mrs. George Westinghouse, Jr., who was Miss Brocklebank of England before she married an American, is famous for her devotion to sports and athletics.

Mrs. Frank B. Vrooman, daughter of General John C. Black of the civil service commission, has paid $3,000 for the pew next to that occupied by Mrs. William H. Taft in St. John's Episcopal church, Washington.

Mme. Uru, wife of Vice Admiral Uru of the Japanese navy, is, like him, a product of American educational institutions, she having graduated from Vassar and he from the Naval academy at Annapolis.

Mrs. George Dewey has studied the arranging of trophies to advantage, and the entire second floor of the mansion in Sixteenth street, Washington, is filled with souvenirs of the most stirring part of the admiral's naval career.

Mrs. G. Howland Shaw was elected president of the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Extension of Suffrage to Women at its annual meeting, which was recently held in Boston. The vice presidents elected were Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Miss Anna L. Dawes, Mrs. Charles Elliot Guild, Mrs. Charles D. Homans, Miss Agnes Irwin and Mrs. Henry W. Whitney.

Humor and Philosophy By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THERE are people who act toward you as if they had invented you and controlled all the rights appertaining to you.

In some men among the vestigial organs might be mentioned the brain.

A good liar has the start for being a bad man.

An interesting person is one who easily believes everything that you say.

Nothing unexpected can befall a woman because she expects everything.

Learning by experience is supposed to be certain, but even experience passes some of us up.

It is safest to let the other fellow define religion.

When in doubt, move.

His Special Date.

Hold. Ancient party, Ever you try To banish All the noise That marks The Fourth day Of July! Consult your friends, The boys, Just let Them vote Upon a bill Abolishing the day, And I imagine That it will Be carried All one way. To persons Over eighty-three It patent Is and plain The nation's Glorious jubilee Should sober Be and sane. The crackers They Would put in snook And banish All the drums And have The celebrating folk Sit round And twirl Their thumbs. That is not As we understand The way It was designed, And to the Crackers And the band We'll have To be resigned.

Not Asking Much.

Patrick had no sooner settled himself in the barber's chair than he was fast asleep. Some time later he was awakened by the tonsorial artist.

"All right, sir," said the barber. "I've given you a shave."

"Shave?" repeated Patrick. "I didn't want a shave. Put the whiskers back and give me a hair cut."

Just Exercise.

A six passenger, sixty horsepower automobile, going like a lady headed for the bargain counter, ran over a man. He got up and walked away. Spectators marveled. "Aren't you hurt?" they cried. "How did it happen?"

"Hurt nothing!" he replied. "I am just over being hazed at college."

High Crime.

"She went up in a balloon with him." "Did she enjoy the thrill?" "Do you mean when he kissed her above the clouds?" "And didn't it make her mad?" "Well, they didn't have a falling out over it."

Useful Attainment.

"A chauffeur should be a mind reader." "So he could tell which way to turn out?" "Not that so much. So he could know if the man he was about to run over carried a gun or not."

More Deserving.

"I am going to the ball game." "What for?" "Just to kill time." "Why waste your ammunition when the umpire is there?"

Unfitted.

"What is George going to be?" "A pharmacist." "A farm assist! That will never do for him. He doesn't know the first thing about farming."

Twins.

The dentist gives you double pain; He fills your teeth with skill, And e'er the molars cease to hurt He sends around his bill.

No Spender.

"Yes; he always has money in his pocket." "I notice he keeps it there."
