CRISIS IN FRANCE

Land In Ferment on Fall of Glemenceau Ministry.

RAISED ALGECIRAS SPECTER.

That Caused Overthrow of Man Called the Nation's Absolute Master.

Paris, July 21.-France is in a ferment today over the sudden fall of the Clemenceau cabinet under such dramatic circumstances.

The resignation of the ministers came at the conclusion of a violent debate over the canal scandals, extending over several days. M. Delcasse, chairman of the investigating commission, led the attack upon the naval administration, especially during the incumbency of M. Pelletan and M. Thomson, former ministers of marine. But M. Pleard, who succeeded M. Thomson, had promised in the name of the government to complete a series of reforms, both in the administration of the department and the methods of construction, and the chamber was ready to vote confidence in the government when an incident occurred which changed a complacent majority into a bailled and raging minority.

Premier Clemenceau, who always has been an adversary of M. Delcasse, smarting under the criticisms and doubtless overconfident of a majority which on July 15 upon the general policles of the government was 182, taunted the ex-minister of foreign affairs, who was thrown overboard by the Rouvier ministry at the dictation of Germany during the crisis of 1905, with having led France to humiliation at Algeciras.

The specter of that chapter of France's foreign history, in which Delcasse was sacrificed, was a fatal error. Instantly there was an uproar of dissent from both sides of the chamber. Delcasse flung back the taunt in Clemenceau's face with bitter words, declaring amid cheers that France had gone to Algeciras in the interest of Hot words were bandled back and It was a veritable duel between two enemies. M. Delcasse intimated that Clemenceau had inspired articles in the foreign press during the crisis, but the latter emphatically denied the imputation. The premier seemed for the first time in his par-Hamentary career to lose his head. Finally M. Deleasse, as he was entering upon an explanation of the situation of 1905, drew himself up proudly and said:

"I shall say nothing further on that subject. I have nothing to fear. Nothing in the past, nothing in our common memories of twenty-five years embarrasses me. If I look back I see I have left something besides ruins." Then turning directly to Clemenceau he said: "You were president of the 1906. naval investigating commission of 1904. Your unsparing attacks upon every government during twenty-five years seemed sufficient guarantee that you would find the root of the evil. What were the results, I ask?"

M. Clemenceau, now evidently in a rage, tried to parry the thrust by returning to the charge.

"Your policy as foreign minister." he shouted, "led us to the greatest humiliation France has experienced in twenty years."

Another storm of hostile cries arose, several deputies crying, "It is an outrage to say that." But the premier tried to assume his old cynical air. "Oh, no false indignation, I pray you," he exclaimed. "You brought us to the verge of a war without military preparation."

Again the tumult was redoubled. "Yes," he shouted above the roar, "the whole world knew that the ministers of war and the navy, when the question was put to them, replied that France was not ready. I have not humiliated France. Delcasse has done

The scene when the premier took his seat was indescribable. Amid the wildest excitement the vote was taken, and when it was announced that the government had been beaten 212 to 176 of the Confederacy," will be held here Clemenceau clapped his hat on his head, pulling it far down over his in the hearts of the residents of the eyes, and stalked out of the chamber, followed by the other ministers, in token that he intended to resign.

M. Clemenceau went immediately to the Elysee palace and told the story to President Fallieres, who seemed stupefied at the incident which caused the fall of the cabinet, but he accepted the resignation of the premier and his ministers. There is but one opinion in Paris today, and that is astonishment that an old parliamentary warhorse like Clemenceau should have committed political suicide by his awkwardness in recalling the Algeciras specter upon the eve of adjournment, when the government was assured of a majority on the naval question. The premier's action drove about fifty members of the Republican "bloc" into a combination with Right and Extreme Left. unhorsing the man whose ministry has been the longest in the history of the Third Republic and who for three years has been absolute master in President Fallieres will consult with the presidents of the chambers today as to Clemenceau's successor in accerdance with the usual custom. The vent a crash.

name of Leon Bourgeois, former premler and former minister of foreign affairs, is most frequently mentioned. but his age and health are against him. M. Briand, minister of justice; M. Poincare, former minister of finance; M. Millerand, former minister of com merce; M. Pichon, minister of foreign affairs; M. Barthou, minister of public works, and M. Delcasse are also mentioned in the order named. The Socialists naturally are overjoyed at Ciemenceau's downfall. M. Jaures, the Socialist leader in the chamber, said. "With Clemenceau disappears the most dangerous man in the republic." The Delcasse Leads Dramatic Debate chamber of deputies adjourned until tomorrow.

Kept Closing the Circuit with Their Bodies and Routing Out the Firemen.

Summit, N. J.-There is a red ant colony in this city that has been sending in false alarms over the fire alarm telegraph system and getting the firemen out of bed two and three times at night right along. City Electrician Walter F. Shapter stood watching their researches the other night while the firemen were jumping in and out of bed as the whistle blew, and stopped for nearly an hour.

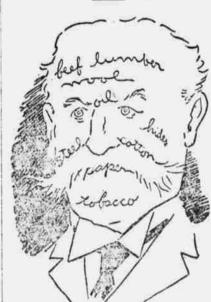

Shapter had been searching for the cause of the pranks of the fire alarm and had no success. But finally he opened up box 38, at Waldron avenue and Whittridge place, which is in the locality where the trouble seemed to exist, and there the whole secret was revealed to him.

"There must have been about a thousand ants in that little box," said Shapter, "They almost filled it, Most of them were scurrying around seemingly with no object, but when I looked closer I found they were carrying the dead away. Forming long lines, they would run up to the bottom of the box where there was a heap of dead ants, each one would pick up one of them and struggle out of a crevice down the pole to the ground. At first I could not imagine what had killed them, but as I watched I saw the whole thing.

"While one detachment of the army was carrying away the dead another detachment was lining up for another sacrifice. First a group would form on the metal plate at the bottom of the box. Others would take positions ahead of them, and as the line stretched out I saw they were heading for an exposed part of the circuit just above. As soon as the line was completed and the last little red ant took his position, tail in the grip of his follower and fore feet at the exposed part, the circuit would be shorted and the whole of it would be going through their little bodies. There was a flash and a sort of a click. The whistle blew in the distance and there was a heap of dead ants at the bottom of the box on which the carriers at once began to busy themselves.

"Fascinated, I watched it for nearly an hour and I couldn't tell you how many ants I saw go to their death. I marvelled at it and tried to guess what their object was. I'm sorry the men were bothered by the whistle, but I am glad I saw that wonderful sight."

RATTLER YIELDS TO RATS.

Snake Killed by Two Rodents Intended for His Breakfast.

Dalton, Ga.-Two big gray rats fought a battle with a rattlesnake here and the rats won. The snake was purchased by a grocery firm for a window display. Early in the morning two big rats were obtained as food for the snake.

When the rats were placed in the cage with the snake it made no effort to molest them. A crowd gathered to witness the snake and the rats, but it was over an hour before the rattler moved to attack.

The rats showed flight from the start. While the snake was after one the other would be plunging its teeth into the snake's body. After an hour the snake succumbed. One rat was nearly dead, while the other apparently was unharmed.

As a tribute to its valor, the unhurt rat was released. The rattler measured seven feet in length.

Painted Husband's Nose

Indianapolis, Ind .- In the trial of a divorce suit Mrs. Dora Rost, who was the defendant, testified that for years she had been compelled to paint her husband's nose before he went to The presiding judge was greatly surprised, and asked the witness to explain. "Mr. Rost drank so hard that his nose got red, and I was afraid he would lose his position because his employers would know he was drinking," said the woman.

"Occultos" is a Mystery. London.-Something really mysterious, something to arouse the curiosity and the interest of everybody, is being exhibited at the Collseum. It is a full-sized figure of an old gentleman, and is called "Occultos." You can take his head from his body and remove his legs, and you see nothing beyond a few springs, and yet this model when put together will give long verbal answers to questions, and will move his head and his lags.

Pallid Faces Made Red by Applying Iced Pads After Washing Flesh in Hot Water-Lotions of Water and Zinc for Noses.

Sometimes the .implest litt:e alds will make a marked difference in a woman's appearance. For instance, one whose hair is unmanageble will find that by applying a mixture of one teaspoonfu. of glycerine to five times as mad water to loose ends of tresses these short strands stay neatly in place. In putting on the mixture it should be well shaken and then applied to the hair with a soft brush just before the dressing.

When short hairs are obdurate the the best me:h ds of training is to put them on curlers. Afterward they should be combed out until soft and fluffy.

Another simple aid to peauty is the ice bath that makes pallid cheeks red. To bring color into faces use two round pads a trifle larger than a silver dollar. They should be made from thick flannei covered smoothly with linea.

While these are soaking in iced water wash the face gently with warm, not really hot water.

Then as soon as the skin is dried, which should be done immediately after the laving, the pads are taken from their bath, shaken to throw off superfluous wet and placed directly on that part of each cheek where color is desired. The secret of success with this lies in the washing being done with really warm water and the compresses being key cold.

As simple remedies will help to beautify shiny noses that have such an annoying habit of refusing to be modified by powders, it is well to apply one of these liquid balms that may be made at home. A lotion that is said to effect a cure of the trouble is made of one ounce of distilled water, eight minims of distilled tincture of lavencer and two grains of sulphate of zinc.

This should be well mixed and applied about four times a day, never allowing it to remain on over night. Put it on with a piece of soft mus-

Dodging the Trail in the Dance. "Nobody ever told me that I was a good dancer," declared Edward M. Greenway, leader of cotillons. "But I'll tell you a compliment a young woman did pay me once. She said: You took me through that crowd without a collision and without any one treading on my skirt.

"Well, I never had a dancing lesson in my life. But I used to practice dancing in the days when women wore those great long trains, and it was not considered good form to pick them up. They trailed along behind several yards. Those were the days when you had to guide and keeping moving with your partner so as to keep that train following gracefully."

"But how did you practice?" "Used to tie two sheets to an ordinary chair and then dance in and out among a dozen chairs scattered over a dance floor."-San Francisco Chronicle

Why Women Ride Astride.

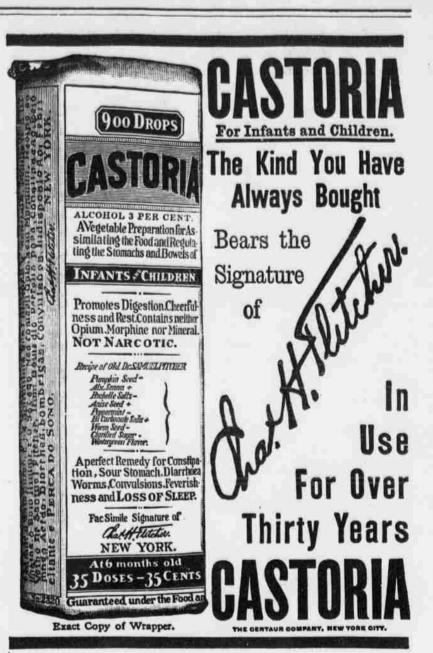

"It is the general opinion among the physicians with whom I associate," writes a correspondent of the New York Medical Journal, "that the fashion or women riding astride has not had its origin in fad so much as it has in the advice of physicians of our modern type.

"The fact that a person riding astride can have more freedo n from jar and jolt than one riding on a side saddle, should be a point in favor of the astride method, aside from the fact of it being safer and easier for the rider.

"The fact that it might be considered immodest by those who are not familiar with the astride method of riding is no reason why it should be condemned. The main reason why it is becoming more popular is beause that physicians in general see its good points over the old method and are thus advising it."
