REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Judge Robert Von Mosehizsker, of Philadelphia.

AUDITOR GENERAL,

A. E. SISSON, of Erie.

STATE TREASURER,

Jeremiah A. Stober, of Lancaster.

JURY COMMISSIONER,

W. H. Bullock.

Governor Hughes in his address at Lake George in speaking about politicians, said: "Never mind if you are called a politician, the word is not dishonorable. Go into it for what you put into it, and not what you think you can get out of it. To be an American citizen, with honest purposes and high resolves is to have the richest privilege on earth." Simmered down a little more it means, "Boys, your business is all right if you will stop grafting."

We note that ex-congressman, C. F. Wright, is the prime mover before the Public Service Commission of New York State for permission to establish a Public Service Corporation at Port Jervis, having for its object the furnishing of Light, Power, Trolley Service and other adjuncts necessary to a city's growth and development. Port Jervis is to be congratulated on having a man of Mr. Wright's standing interested in this movement for no one stands higher than he does for doing things right and giving everyone a square deal. He is a man who wears well in any community.

THE VACANT JUDGESHIP.

We did not publish the picture of the possible next Judge of Wayne county for the reason that we have not a picture of every member of the Wayne County Bar. Each member of our bar, has no doubt a very strong argument to prove that he would fill the position to the entire satisfaction of at least one prominent person of our community, and to the perfect delight of at least one family and many of the relatives of that family. One thing we admire about our lawyers is, the extreme solicitude they have for the interests and future welfare of each other and especially for the man who will have to bear the heavy burden of having this appointment conferred upon him, as they all unite in saying that an appointee in a case of this kind, always has failed to receive the nomination or to be elected to succeed himself, and consequently almost every one practicing at this bar is willing to take the curse off the other fellow by accepting the appointment. When we called the attention of one of our legal luminaries to the fact that the Hon. Ralph Little, of Susquehanna county, accepted the appointment of Judge to fill a vacancy caused by death, receiving the appointment on Friday, the thirteenth day of the month, shortly after walking under a ladder on his way to be the thirteenth guest at a dinner given by the "cross eyed" men of Susquehanna who never won a bet, and was afterwards elected to succeed himself by a large majority, the aforesaid legal luminary replied, that "it was irrelevant, immaterial and incompetent" and should be stricken from the records.

Unjust Bargains Condemned. There is no worse species of usury than an unjust way of making bargains, where equity is disregarded on both sides. All bargains, in which one party strives to make gain by the loss of the other, are here condemned - Calvin.

"Old Home Week" Happenings End

THE GREATEST AWAKENING THE TOWN HAS EVER HAD

A Credit to Our Business Men's Association, Merchants, Manufacturers, Firemen, and City in General.---Over 22,000 Here on Firemen's Day

CIVIC DAY.

Civic Day was the first large day in the program of Old Home Week. The parade, which started at two o'clock was the finest seen in North-eastern Pennsylvania in years. The line-up follows:

- Six Marshals.
- Honesdale Band.
- Grand Army Post.
- Business Men's Association.
- Red Men.
- Knights of Columbus.
- Maccabees.
- Junior Order of American Mechanics.
- Drum Corps.
- Maennerchor.
- Ancient Order of Hibernians.
- Fraternal Order of Eagles.
- Lawrence's Band.
- Central Labor Union.
- Floats:

A Eberhardt, High School, Murray Co., Perber Bros., Katz Bros., Durand-Weston Shoe Co., Central Brewing Co., American Knitting Co., E. H. Pohle, F. A. Jenkins, W. T. McIntyre, H. Freund, Fowler Milling Co.

Speakers in Carriages. Twenty-five Trimmed Carriages.

Many Decorated Turnouts.

W. W. Wood was marshal of the carriage division. Those to take part were: Masters McArdle, with pony cart trimmed in national colors; Master Gavitt, of White Mills, and Miss Mildred Ward in a Shetland pony go-cart; Misses Margaret Weaver and Mae Wood, in a beautifully trimmed go-cart. The decorations were in pink. Next followed Cashier Edwin E. Torrey, the oldest living native-born citizen; Andrew Thompson and Andrew Thompson Fuller. The surrey was trimmed with sunflowers and golden glow. Mrs. McArdle and Mrs. Joseph Chambers drove a beautifully trimmed wagon in green. Miss Florence Kimble and Miss Frances Marsh, the latter of Towanda, were in a carriage decorated with hydrangeas. Mrs. J. D. Weston's turnout was trimmed in red and green, Messames M. L. & O. H. Braman driving, and Harold Rowland, as attendant. Mrs. E. Taylor held the reins over a handsome black horse and wagon, which was artistically decorated with yellow flowers. Misses Vera and Reta Murray drove a neatly trimmed carriage. Miss Elsie Jacobs' turnout consisted of white and purple ribbons and made a very presentable appearance. Miss Mae Robinson's wagon was trimmed with yellow glow flowers and looked very attractive. Miss Mollie Menner's and Miss Nellie Hulstizer's wagon was decorated in red. Mrs. J. S. Brown's turnout was trimmed in purple. Miss Anna Brown and Mrs. William Loring drove a wagon artistically decorated with golden rod and clematis.

Heard Speeches at Court House

After the parade there was a large assemblage of people who gathered at the court house to listen to former Mayor Dimmick of Scranton. Mr. Dimmick gave his talk upon the reminiscences of the town. He said in part: "I have never seen a more beautiful picture in Honesdale than the splendid parade which speaks words of praise for your civic pride and civic enthusiasm. I will paint one picture of the past—a story of the men, women and children who developed this fair town." Mr. Dimmick then gave a personal reminiscence of the town as he remembered it, telling about old Central Park with its heavy hay crop, absence of paths and fountain, an occasional person passing through it and of the Ham brothers; of his visits with Father Doherty, referred to Judge Waller's sparkling team and Hon. W. M. Dimmick's Jersey black and white team; referred to the Honesdale National Bank when it was the only bank in this section of the country and had a monopoly of it. Out of the loins of that bank jumped the mighty vigorous competitor—the Wayne County Savings Bank. Associated with this bank in my estimation was one whom you have recently laid to rest, and in my judgment he was not only the salt, but saints of the earth, Horace C. Hand. Mr. Dimmick spoke of the recent discoveries and referred to his trip about a year ago, while receiving a message from home while out 700 miles on the water. Put your streets in good condition, have everyone as clean as your sidewalks. This will add dollars and cents to the square foot of real estate in your borough. Rochester is noted for its flowers." (Applause).

At the head of the column of march was Captain James Ham Post, No. 198, G. A. R., with thirty men. This is the largest number of veterans that have been in any procession in this town for ten years or more.

In advance of the column was J. Ed. Cook, Senior Vice Commander of the Post, who served during the war in Company M, 17th Penn. Cavalry. On the present occasion he represented the Cavalry Forager, and besides his weapons he bore some chickens and other supplies that would be made to do service in the messpans and camp kettles when the column halted for the night.

Then came a float which had been prepared and decorated by Hon. John Kubbach, chief Burgess, and placed at the disposal of the Grand Army. It contained the Post cannon, which has habitually done duty on the morning of Memorial Day, and a battle flag, with a color guard of six veterans, with stacked muskets. Next was a carriage containing the Post Commander, Henry Wilson, and four other veterans. This carriage was jocularly described by the veterans as the ambulance, but its place in the line was not that usually occupied by an ambulance.

Next was the large livery omnibus of Fred Rickard, suitably decorated with the national colors, and containing nineteen veterans, with stacked muskets, and the post flag. The veterans were from various parts of the county, and among them were William Bone of Binghamton, N. Y., and Marlow Brandamore, of Scranton, both former residents of Honesdale, who served during the war in organizations sent to the front from this county.

The gray-headed men and their appearance suggested hard service, and recalled the days from '61 to '65, when they bore a part in the war for the union and aided in its preservation.

Their progress in the line of march was attended with continuous outbursts of applause to which they responded by frequent salutes.

There has been some criticism of the G. A. R. formation, on the theory that the color sergeant should have marched on foot at the head of the column, carrying the colors. The experience of those who directed the formation should permit the presumption that it was in accordance with military usage. Had the Post been marching, the colors should have been carried at the head of the column. But the body of the Post being in vehicles, it would not have been in keeping for the color bearer to march. The battle flag, with the color guard, were in the leading "float," and this was the head of the column, and the proper place for the colors. The cavalry forager represented a separate command, moving in advance.

FIREMENS' DAY.

The boiling over point in Old Home Week festivities was reached on Wednesday when an army of firemen from Port Jervis, Hawley, Scranton, Carbondale, Forest City, Jermyn, and Dickson concentrated their battalions in marshal array and joined the firemen of Texas township and our own fire department in a parade through all the principal streets of the borough. There was nearly one thousand men in line, and made the largest parade of firemen Honesdale ever witnessed. The crowd who patiently stood upon the sidewalks was a record breaking one in point of numbers and appreciation.

The gong sounded at 2 o'clock as a signal for the great parade to start. The following companies were in line: Hawley Fire Co. with forty-two men; Alert Hook and Ladder company, forty-eight men; Forest City Fire company, forty men; Chemical Fire company, fifty men; Excelsior Fire company of Port Jervis with thirty-five men; Dickson Fire company with twenty-three men; Hendrick Hook and Ladder company, twenty-eight men; Protection Engine Company No. 3 with forty men.

Speech of Welcome by W. W. Wood.

I have been selected as the mouthpiece, or rather I am the nozzle man to-day, with instructions to pour out a stream of kind words that will express our joy and delight at having as our comrades to-day the men of Excelsior Hose company of Port Jervis, and the men of Hendrick Hook and Ladder company of Carbondale. But gentlemen, the nozzle is not big enough, and the connection between the nozzle and the hearts of the men of Protection No. 3 is not strong enough to stand the pressure. If it were, I would overwhelm you with words and expressions that I know would convince you of our heartfelt appreciation of your kindness in coming here to-day, to help us make this celebration a success.

The word WELCOME is one of the biggest and grandest words in the English language, but it is not half big enough to-day for the men of Protection No. 3, to express their love and esteem for the big-hearted firemen of Port Jervis and Carbondale. We have no short-remembered men on our role. We do not believe we have any ungrateful men, but we do know that deep down in the hearts of the men of Protection No. 3, and engraved upon the tablets of their memory is the recollection of the magnificent reception, bounteous entertainments, and gorgeous care which you bestowed upon us when we visited your cities, and we wish to state right here, that these days are red-letter days in the history of Protection No. 3, and we bid you not only welcome to our borough, but we bid you welcome to our homes, and to our hearts. We also bid you welcome to the broad grounds of the fraternal tie that binds us together as fellow firemen.

We are proud to be associated with a body of men who are ready at the top of the bell to respond to the help of those in distress. We are proud of men who willingly sacrifice health, and even life, in order that they might preserve and save the property of rich and poor alike. You belong to an association which makes no distinction of race, creed or color in your efforts to help. Our only enemy in this great world is the demon of fire. Again, we thank you for your unselfishness. We know that you have left your business, your homes, even went down deep in your pockets, and come up here to help us as brother firemen to celebrate this home coming week.

Again, bidding you welcome, and hoping that this visit will solidify, and make stronger the love and attachment that we bear for one another as firemen.

Mayor Kubbach, being introduced, made a short address and concluded by saying in the words of the poet, "The town is yours."

The Knights of Columbus won repeated applause all along the line of parade for their excellently designed and magnificently decorated float in the Civic Parade, and by many it was considered one of the best in line. Every float and every organization deserved the plaudits of the sightseers which was so generously given. It was universally remarked by strangers and many home comers that Honesdale is a larger and more up-to-date town than they had any idea of. The impressions carried away by the thousands who were with us will be of great help in the future development of our borough. One lady from the vicinity of New York City, who witnessed the play at the Lyric and who had taken in the civic and firemen's parade, also the frolic during the evenings on our streets, said this comes near being like a small-size New York than any place she had ever visited.

The notables who graced our Home Week festivities with their presence:

- Hon. J. Benjamin Dimmick, ex-Mayor of Scranton.
- Hon. H. B. Swartout, the ideal Mayor of Port Jervis.
- Hon. Abe Sahn, Mayor of Carbondale.
- Hon. Russell Dimmick, Mayor of Dalton.
- Hon. William Ames, Mayor of Hawley.
- Chief H. F. Ferber, of Scranton.
- Chief E. J. Harding, of Port Jervis.
- Chief F. Collins, of Carbondale.
- Assistant Chief Fred. Grenewald of Port Jervis.
- Assistant Chief Joseph Harding of Port Jervis.
- Ex-Chief Peter Rutan, of Port Jervis.
- Ex-Chief J. C. Farnham, of Port Jervis.
- Ex-Chief Anthony Lump, of Port Jervis.
- Ex-Chief C. J. Terwilliger, of Port Jervis.
- Ex-Chief Al Marsh, of Port Jervis.

- Hon. Judge H. B. Fullerton.
- Hon. Chas. Munnich, of Port Jervis.
- Hon. Wm. P. Kauffman, School Commissioner.
- Hon. J. J. Bippus, Port Jervis.
- Hon. Michael F. Colgan, Port Jervis.
- W. H. N. Thompson, of Montgomery, N. Y.

The press was represented by Emerson D. Owen, Scranton Tribune; Mark V. Richard, Port Jervis Gazette; Merritt C. Speidel, Port Jervis Union.

The dedicatory exercises of the new High School building was held Thursday morning in the commodious assembly room. Mr. A. T. Searle presided. After the opening prayer by Rev. W. H. Hiller, addresses were delivered by James H. Torrey, Esq., of Scranton, C. B. Shaw, Honesdale's first High School principal, Rev. Dr. W. H. Swift and R. M. Stocker. Exercises were closed by Rev. Father Hanley pronouncing the benediction.

The Alumni dinner and exercises were participated in by over two hundred of the Alumni. The dinner was excellently served, the addresses were greatly enjoyed, and a general good time was the lot of all those who attended.

MRS. PEARY ON HER WAY.

She Goes to Sydney, C. B., to Meet Her Husband.

Portland, Me., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Robert E. Peary, wife of the American explorer, left Casco Bay today with her two children en route for Sydney, C. B., to meet her husband. "I have no idea what Mr. Peary's plans will be," said Mrs. Peary, "but presume that he may go right on to

MARIE AHNIGHTO PEARY.

[She was born farther north than any other white child sixteen years ago and was known as the "snow baby."] Washington and report that he has discovered the north pole to the navy department.

She dutifully refused to comment on Dr. Cook's statements. She appears to realize the seriousness of the present situation between her husband and Dr. Cook and does not want to mix in the controversy.

With a trunk and two suit cases Mrs. Peary, Marie, her sixteen-year-old daughter, and the lively flaxen haired lad Robert junior boarded a steam launch at Eagle Island. But one steamboat captain recognized the wife of the man whose name has been spread broadcast over the civilized world. He saluted the launch and waved a hearty goodby to the family.

Little Robert Peary takes a big American flag which he will present to his father.

LONDON PAPERS SEVERE.

They Charge Dr. Cook With Attempting an Imposture.

London, Sept. 9.—The direct challenge to Dr. Cook's story that he reached the north pole April 21, 1908, issued by Commander Peary has given a marked impetus to the tendency in scientific as well as popular circles to regard the claims of Dr. Cook with more than suspicion.

"This dramatic message from Commander Peary," says the Standard, "throws down in the most emphatic manner the fabric of imposture built up so elaborately by Dr. Cook." The Pall Mall Gazette remarks: "So far as Peary is concerned there is no question whatever of the accuracy of his statements. The veteran explorer's word is believed. Dr. Cook has not supported his story with proof."

The Daily Chronicle flatly charges Dr. Cook "with having fabricated all the statements with which he supported his claim to have reached the north pole" and adds, "We charge him with attempting an imposture upon the world and with the knowledge that he could not long sustain the pretense."
