A RICH MAN'S DIFFICULTY.

* * * By Rev. Dr. John R. Mackay. +++

Text: Jesus said unto him, Go sell whatever thou hast, and give to the poor; and come, take up the cross, and follow me .- Mark, x., 21.

* * * Here we have a drama that almost merges into a tragedy. It is full of power; it quivers with intensest inter-

Two young men face each other. The distinguishing quality in one is the bearing of a cultured, well bred gentleman. The distinguishing quality of the other is the strength and dignity and beauty of the soul that shines in every feature of His face. In the face of the one is a great expectancy; in that of the other is the strong reserve power that invites the cry of human need. The one is a pupil, the other is the master.

Jesus took his hand and, lifting him up to that level where man looks into the eyes of man, said, "Put away, sell those things that are between you and your fellow man and take the same pathway I am taking; then you will truly realize the vision that has come to your soul." These words created conviction, for they voiced the message of his own soul. He felt that was the door through which he must pass, and that on the other side of it would be new joy and new power. But the price was too great. In a silence as of the grave he turned sadly toward home.

This is no condemnation of riches. There is no moral quality in mere money. Our saying that money is the root of all evil is only partially true. It is true only in so far that money awakens the worst forms of selfishness in us-it touches springs and sources of soul poison as nothing else does. If there is anything else that will touch a deeper depth and awaken a worse form of selfishness, then that is the root of all evil. Jesus enunciated a great principle and did not tie up mankind to a narrow rule.

Life must have a vision, an ideal. A vision is an outline of possibility. "To live," to "truly live," is to bring energy, every activity, every thought to bear upon the filling in of that outline. It is to see a "gleam" and follow it. To see that vision is to see the purpose of God. To set out to realize it is to feel the presence of God in the life. This gives true bigness to the soul and to the life. The man who is too big to consider small things is also too small to consider big things. We must have telescopic men and men with telescopic minds. Too many are microscopic men-intense upon little things without seeing their inter-relationship or their relationship to a centre. In religion the order must never be inverted-it s vision, that we may see how the parts relate to the whole; outlook, that we may helpfully and truly get inlook. Wealth needs vision, and this Jesus gave this young man.

Vision finally changed him. Tradition says the young man followed Jesus later. This is easy to believe, for no true soul can ever get away from its vision or from the love that awakened it. Both were here. Every beggar he met, every struggling worknan he employed, every ill clad, ill fed child he saw, every tired looking mother and every form of sorrow or suffering would daily awaken his vision anew. It would be with him as he rested on his own luxurious couch, as he sat at his own richly ladened table, as he put on his own comfortable garments, as he balanced his weekly accounts—the vision would pour in its light and suggestions on these. And so this vision, this love of Jesus would follow and appeal and plead until the heart and life became shot through with the Christ spirit. selfishness was driven out his soul set free to follow the gleam and the true toy of ennobled manhood became the young man's possession.

What to Pray for.

We are too much afraid of faith. Christ was afraid that his followers would not have enough faith; he did not seem to be afraid of too much. "We must not be fanatios," we say; "we must not ask God to work miracles." But a miracle is only an evident work of God. God has not ceased to work, and we need not trouble ourselves about his methods. We can safely leave that to Him.

But what must we pray for? It is the heart that prays, and every desire of the heart may well be a subject of prayer. Prayer for its gratification or its suppression.-Christian Advocate.

God's Child.

You are in God's world: you are God's child. Those things you cannot change. The only peace and rest and happiness for you is to accept them and rejoice in them. When God speaks to you, you must not believe that it is the wind blowing or the torrent falling from the hill. You must know that it is God. You must gather up the whole power of meeting him.-Phillips Brooks.

God's love is not rounded out until nd to it.-Malthie D. Babcock. the ten years all right, all right.

HE NEVER SPOKE AGAIN.

Vow Made By the Ventriloquist's Dog When Deserted.

The following story is told of a ventriloquist, now famous, but at the time of this happening, so poor that he used to walk between the cities where he was to appear. On one of these tours he came to Philadelphia on foot, and on the road he picked up a miserable little dog "because it look-ed so much like he felt." The story will explain what became of the dog.

The first house he came to was a saloon, and of course he wanted a drink. He had no money, but went in anyhow to see what he could do. The proprietor, who was a German, said, "Well, what will you have?"

He said, "I'll take a little whiskey," And then turning to the dog, he askel, "What will you have?"

The answer came very promptly, "I'll take a ham sandwich." The German was so surprised he almost fainted. He looked at the dog a moment, and then asked, "What did you say?" The dog replied, "I said I'd take a ham sandwich."

Hans thought it wonderful that a dog should be able to talk, and asked who had trained him, how long it had taken, and wound up with, "How much will you take for him?" "Oh," replied Mr. Ventriloquist, "I wouldn't sell him at any price, but I am a little hard up, and if you will lend me fifty dollars I'll leave him with you till I bring back the money.'

"All right," said Hans, "I just want him for a little while so I can show him to some people I know around here."

So everything was settled, the money paid, the dog left with the proprietor, and as the ventriloquist went out he turned and waved his hand to the ' 3 and said, "Well, good-bye, Jack. I'll come back soon."

The dog looked at him, and said, "You mean, despicable man, to sell me for fifty dollars after all I've done for you! So help me Moses, I'll never speak another word as long as I live!" And he didn't.

Tit for Tat.

A few days ago two young ladies hailed a trolley, entered it, and found only standing room. One of them whispered to her companion:

"I'm going to get a seat from one of these men. You take notice."

She looked down the row of men and selected a sedate gentleman who bore the general settled appearance of a married man. She sailed up to him and boldly opened fire:

"My dear Mr. Green! How delighted I am to meet you! You are almost a stranger. Will I accept your seat? Well I do feel tired, I heartly admit. Thank you, so much."

The sedate gentleman-a total stranger, of course-looked, listened, then quietly arose and gave her his seat, saying:

"Sit down, Jane, my girl. Don't often see you out on a washing-day. You must feel tired, I'm sure. How's your mistress?"

The young lady got her seat, but lost her vivacity.

Buying Fodder for the Newlyweds. The newly married couple had just moved into their new home. On the morning after their arrival a baker called to solicit their trade. He found the young wife in the kitchen. After explaining that his wagon deliv once a day, the baker asked, "And may we have your trade, madam?"

"And about how much bread will you want each day?"

"Well, I don't know exactly. You see, there are only two of us." Then doubtfully, "Would five oaves a day be enough, do you think?"

APPROPRIATE ATTIRE.

Angelina-Doesn't young Mr. Casey wear striking clothes? Genevieve-Well, why shouldn't he? Ain't he a knocker?

Bringing It to a Climax. "I know what's passing in your mind," suddenly said the maiden as the habitually silent caller stared at "I know, too, why you are calling here night af er night, appropriating my time to yourself and keeping other nice, young men away.

want me to marry you, don't you?" "I—I do!" gasped the young man. "I thought so. Very well; I will."

All Wants Supplied. Book Agent-Can I sell you a copy

Feared Their Women.

Gaston Boissier of the French academy has been making a study of the suffrage movement, and tells, in "Cicero and His Friends," how much afraid the Romans were that women. who had such great induence in the home, would begin to exert as much influence in the state. Cate was especially bitter against women, and Livy makes him say: "Remember all these regulations our ancestors made to subject wives to their husbands. Shackled as they are, you have trouble to manage them. What will happen if you give them their liberty, if you allow them to enoly the same rights as yourselves? Do you think you will then be their masters? The day they become your equals they will become your superiors."

Rabbinical Wit.

An English rabbi was asked if there was any weighty reason against having a clock in the synagogue. "By no means," was the reply. "Have your clock, but put it outside the building, and then you can tell how late you come to the service." Two rabbis were passing the beautiful synagogue in which one of them officiated. "How I envy you!" said the first. "You must be in a paradise." "Hold, must be in a paradise." friend!" the second explained. "In the original paradise there was only one serpent, but in this congregation are many of them."

Easy!

Six-year-old Ray's teacher was endeavoring to give some very simple instructions in fractions. She added, "If Jane has six eggs and uses half of them to bake a cake what part will she have left?" Quickly came the answer, "The shells!"

Stagnation Means Defeat.

One grows or stagnates. Stagnation is not good for any one. To be in touch with the progress of the world one must keep in touch with the life that makes it progress, and every man and woman plays some part in this.

Increased Petroleum Production. The petroleum production of the United States in 1908 has been estimated at between 175,000,000 and 180,-000,000 barrels, an increase of five to nine per cent., as compared with the production of 166,000,000 barrels in

"Where do the Hottentots live, Mary?" a public-school teacher asked one of her pupils. "I don't know, 'm," said Mary, primly. "Ma won't let me visit any of the people in this neighborhood."-Youth's Companion.

"When a man gives it out that he is not seeking a nomination," observes Old Man Phocks, "it is generally because he thinks the nomination is breaking its neck chasing him."

Two Americans meeting in Europe, one of them said, "I am from Jones' Siding."

"And I," said the other, throwing out his chest, "am from Chicago."
