FALLSDALE.

Extreme cold for October weather. Ice formed here last Tuesday night, it being our first frost.

Our farmers are vying with each other on the big potato yield; also on who can produce the largest tubers. A. E. Sisson began with a half bushel of extremely large ones. They beat those at the fair all hollow.

Owing to a shortage of water the electric light plant is running with steam power most of the time.

On Thursday Mrs. Schultz and daughter, Florence, started for a trip to the Pacific coast. They will pass about three months in California with the former's son.

The cold wave reminds us that the pleasures of out door life are most at an end for this season and soon the most inviting place will be close by the fireside. There is a general preparation for the winter—the ladies are house-cleaning, the patience of the sterner sex is again being tested by putting up stoves, several are having their houses in town painted and reroofed with galvanized roofing. NEXT MONDAY NIGHT.

That is the Date When "The Isle of Spice" Will Be Seen Here.

The piquant musical mixture, "Isle of Spice," which is to be produced at the Lyric on Monday, Oct. 25, contains more distinct song hits and musical numbers than any production on the stage to-day. Among the most notable and which are sure to be whistled and hummed by everyone, are: "The Goo Goo Man," "The Broomstick Witches," "Peggy Brady," "Little Maid of Nicobar," "You and I," "How Can You Tell Till You Try," sung by a very clever quartette and many others. The comedy is abundant, music catchy and tuneful, stage settings and costumes fresh and handsome, the chorus decidedly pretty, and the "broilers" snappy and graceful in their various dance evolutions. The book and lyrics were written by A. Love and George E. Stoddard, while Paul Schindler and Ben M. Jerome are jointly responsible for the music. The production was staged by Herr Gus Schike, acknowledged to be one of the greatest stage directors of the present day. Chas. A. Pusey is playing the leading comedy role.

Court News.

The Grand Jury convened on Monday. H. J. Conger was appointed foreman. Judge Searle's charge to them was remarkably clear, and forcible, his manner of delivery would lead one to suppose he had been charging juries for years, his concise, pungent, advice, together with his clearness of expression, left the jurors no doubts as to the proper manner of discharging their duties to the commonwealth and will be very helpful to them in reaching an equitable conclusion in the many cases to be brought before them.

Theodore Brunig is Dead.

Theodore Brunig, a very prominent business man of this place, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Driscoll, of South Church street, yesterday morning. Deceased was 42 years of age. He was born in Carley Brook and resided at that place for a number of years. Mr. Brunig was employed in the grocery store conducted by Henry Grambs. He afterwards purchased the business which he successfully conducted for the past twelve years. Mr. Brunig has been suffering from Bright's disease for some time and for the past two weeks has been confined to the home of his sister. He is survived by his father, Fred Brunig, of Carley Brook; also one brother, William, of Carley Brook, and one sister, Mrs. John Driscoll, of this place. The funeral will probably be held on Friday morning.

Fire at Whites Valley.

On Wednesday evening, October 13, the young people who were being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Miller discovered fire in the little town of Whites Valley, a half mile below them. By the use of the telephone it was located in the north wing of H. S. Fisher's residence. The alarm was given and all rushed to the scene only to find the fire beyond control. The plate glass in the door was quickly broken and several rushed to the sleeping apartments and found them unoccupied. The smoke was so dense it was with difficulty they descended. The heavy oak door soon yielded to the sledge and the parlor, hall, library and bath room furnishings were rescued from the flames. The young men showed great bravery and worked heroically until fire fell on their hands. The house was carefully closed and locked at 7 o'clock and H. W. White walked around the building at nine o'clock. Between twelve and one o'clock several passed, returning from the party, without seeing any sign of fire or detecting the smell of smoke. At twenty minutes of two the north wing was a mass of flames beyond control. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were staying that night at the Allen House, this city, and the little son and daughter were with their grandmother, Mrs. H. W. White. How it originated is a great mystery as there was no fire in the house for several hours before it burned. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Dangerous Rubber Bands.

Elastic bands are tabooed in a certain large office in New York city, and employees are requested to dispense with the rubbers altogether or to keep them with great circumspection.

The reason for the precaution is that the bands are known to be hardly less slippery than the dreaded banana peel, with the same propensity for causing severe falls, especially in conjunction with the oiled wood floors of modern buildings.

A valued woman employe of the office in question had a severe fall owing to one of these mischief makers, which resulted in an injury to hips and spine which has incapacitated her for all active work for some time to come, if, indeed, it does not prove permanently crippling.

Stoves in the Shoes.

People who are troubled with cold feet may take heart. In Germany there has been patented a contrivance described as a "heatable shoe."

The heel is hollowed out, and in this hollow is a receptacle for a glowing substance similar to that used in Japanese hand-warmers. Between the soles, imbedded in asbestos covers, is a rubber bag which is filled with water.

The heating substance in the shoe keeps the water warm, and it circulates while the wearer is walking thus imparting a pleasant warmth to the foot. A small safety-valve is provided, so that the bag cannot burst.

The warmth given by the sole never rises above 70 degrees Fahrenheit and will last about eight hours. It is claimed that the sole is not unreasonably thick, being only slightly thicker than that of a wet-weather shoe.
