—Why the price of meat keeps rising may be answered by stating that the population of this country grows every year about two in a hundred, which means that in a city like Philadelphia thirty thousand mouths are added annually. Thence it was started east, when it was noticed that it lapped over so far that it could not pass engines on the other track. In order to use this engine on the Wyoming division orders for a single-track line were issued, but this not proving satisfactory, the engine was returned to the Delaware division.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. S. S. Spears, an aged and esteemed resident of Hawley, died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Avery, at Brooklyn, N. Y., where she had been visiting the past few weeks Sunday morning. The remains will be brought here for interment. She is survived by her husband and two daughters.

Mrs. Cella Slaughter died at her home on Cliff street on Wednesday morning after a lingering illness. Deceased was seventy-five years of age. She was born in Ireland but came to this county a number of years ago. She was the widow of the late Robert Slaughter. The survivors are one son and three daughters. The funeral will be held Saturday and interment will be made in Glen Dyberry cemetery.

Right Reverend Monsignor McAndrew of Wilkes-Barre, died suddenly on Wednesday morning of heart trouble. He was born in New York City in 1852, moved to Hawley where he spent his young manhood days, winning the love and esteem of all who knew him. He was ordained in 1877 and has labored earnestly and very successfully in the regions surrounding Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, making for himself a reputation as a man of God that is imperishable. He was a man of deepest and broadest charity. Race, creed, or nationality made no difference with him. In his eyes all mankind was created after the image of God, and he lived toward his fellow man accordingly. Although he possessed great energy, his health had been virile. He had a weak heart, and when the ceremony attending the investiture of his new office took place, he contracted a cold which resulted in neuralgia, which attacked his heart, resulting in death.

Fire in a Cemetery.

It is something unusual to have a fire take place in a stone yard or a cemetery. Last Sunday afternoon the Middletown (N. Y.) fire department was called out to subdue a fierce fire that was burning in St. Joseph's cemetery, that city. It was caused by the dry grass and brush taking fire. Two 35-gallon tanks of chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

MODEL ORCHARDS.

A Model Orchard to be Established in Every Community. The State Department of Agriculture announces that it proposes to establish a model orchard in every fruit growing community throughout the State, similar to the work it has been doing on the farm of Fred Fassett, of Meshoppen township, for some time. The plan, as announced by Prof. Surface, State Economic Zoologist, is to invite applications from farmers who would be willing to follow instructions and conduct their orchards in an up-to-date manner. Applications first received will be given the preference. The State promises to guarantee the farmer from all possible loss resulting from the carrying out of the ideas of the Department as applied to the conduct of the orchard. It will also pay part of the cost of spraying, apparatus, etc. All that is asked in return is that the State be allowed to conduct demonstrations of a public nature from time to time, hoping to convince the fruit growers of the expediency of adopting the latest and best methods.

Boy Killed While Cleaning Rifle. Passaic, N. J., Nov. 18.—Kenneth Starr, sixteen, accidentally shot and killed himself while cleaning a Flobert rifle at his home here.

A NEW AGREEMENT MADE.

Big Eddy Telephone Company Makes New Traffic Contract With Consolidated Telephone Companies of Penn'a.

The Big Eddy Telephone Co. which is organized on the farmers' mutual plan and which operates more than 600 telephones and several exchanges in Wayne county and whose rural lines extend well into Sullivan county, New York, has made a new agreement for a period of years for the interchange of business with the Consolidated Telephone Companies of Pennsylvania, thus renewing an agreement of some years' standing which has worked to the entire satisfaction of both companies.

The new arrangement give the subscribers of the Honesdale exchange district of the Consolidated Telephone Co. favorable rates into the Big Eddy Telephone Co's territory, while the latter company's subscribers enjoy telephone privileges that they have not had heretofore. The new arrangement is therefore mutually advantageous and will encourage both companies to do all that is necessary to meet successfully the rapidly growing telephone needs of this community.

The following Pennsylvania points can be reached over the Big Eddy Telephone Co's lines, viz: Abrahamsville, Atco, Beach Lake, Boyd's Mills, Bramans, Calkins, Damascus, Equinunk, Fallsdale, Galilee, Girland, Indian Orchard, Kellams, Lookout, Millanville, Rileyville, Rutledge, Tyler Hill, Torrey and West Damascus; the following N. Y. State points can also be reached, viz: Callicoon, Cochecon Center, Hankins, Lake Huntington, Narrowsburg and Tanners Falls, all of which points are located directly on the Big Eddy Company's lines, which furthermore connect with a number of other rural telephone lines in Sullivan county.

Thomas S. Boyd, local Superintendent of the Consolidated Telephone Co. was until recently the Manager of the Big Eddy Telephone Co's lines.

The merchants and professional men of Honesdale are naturally interested in the growth and development of telephone service in the rural districts, for it brings town and country into close business relation to the mutual advantage of both. For this reason the Consolidated Telephone Co's Honesdale, Hawley and White Mills directories contains a list of the Big Eddy Telephone Co's subscribers.

Weighed Over 40,000 Pounds.

A bluestone, said to be the largest that was ever sent over the Erie railroad, was shipped last Thursday. It was taken from Maxwell's big quarry at Pond Eddy, Pike county, and was consigned to parties at Newark, N. J. It was shipped on an O. & W. car built especially for such stones, and was placed in an angular position on the car, balanced on the lower side by heavy stone.

The stone was 15x17 1/2 feet, 10 in. thick, and weighed 20 tons. It was originally much larger in face surface, waq 17 inches thick and weighed 35 tons. It required five teams two days to haul it from the quarry. It is estimated that, when it is put into place, it will represent an expenditure of several thousand dollars.

Maxwell's quarry has the reputation of turning out the largest flag stones in this country. A stone, nearly twice the size of the one referred to, is now at the quarry.

THE CAMERA.

Some of the Wonderful Things of Which it is Capable.

The camera, which divides time into thousandths of a second and records the impressions of each, makes permanent pictures of events which pass too quickly for the dull human retina to recognize. It is only through the camera that the motions of the wings of flying birds and of the legs of swift running animals have been analyzed. To the camera the fuzzy drivers of the swiftly speeding locomotives stand out clear cut and stationary, while each flying drop of rain in the driven storm is distinct and seems frozen in its place. The tarpon fisherman, familiar with the first wild leap of the frenzied fish as it casts hook and bait fifty feet in the air, sees first in the finished picture the outstretched gills, the convulsive opening and closing of which had escaped his eye, however closely he may have looked for it.

Often the eye of the camera will decipher documents of which the writing had been substantially obliterated by age, and I have successfully copied with the camera the utterly faded photograph of a classmate of forty years previous and thereby been enabled to present to a grizzled veteran a likeness of his curly haired youth. Changes in the pigment of the skin undetectable by the eye appear with distinctness on the sensitive plate, and it is said that ample warning of approaching disease has been thereby given.

By means of the invisible rays lying beyond the violet of the spectrum objects may be photographed in the darkness and, with the aid of the so-called X-rays, through substances otherwise opaque. When from the darkness of night and storm the forked lightning flashes, the camera makes a vivid and permanent picture of each fiery trail. Creatures that travel by night can be "caught" in the brief blaze of a magnesium charged pistol, the flash of which is of too short duration for the creature to move or the dull human eye to recognize the subject.—A. W. Dimock in Van Norden's.

A Dangerous Spot.

Editor Citizen:— I wish you would occasionally remind the authorities of the very dangerous condition of the road near the residence of Carl F. Prosch. Young ladies coming from their work that are employed in Clark's, or the decorating factory, are in fear of being run down by team or automobile. The road is very dark, and only a narrow place to walk. Only a few evenings ago a young lady only saved herself by pressing close to the board fence when an auto came one way and a spirited horse the other. There may be some serious accident if it is not remedied.

Changes in the Carbondale D. & H. Shops.

Despite the fact that Master Mechanic Reed stated when he took that position that there would positively be no changes in the force at the Carbondale shops, the rumor that there was to be a general cleaning up is coming true.

Joseph Drennan, for many years foreman at the locomotive shops, was let out on Saturday, and it is freely rumored that a number of other heads will fall as soon as competent men are found to take their places. Mr. Drennan is already considering flattering offers from outside the city. He has been in the employ of the Delaware and Hudson company for many years. He was prominently mentioned for master mechanic when M. J. Powers resigned to go with the Denver and Rio Grand railroad.

The Horse in Winter.

The first cold snap that puts in its appearance the driver of a horse or a team hustles to a clothing store to purchase an overcoat, or searches the closets at home for last year's coat. Let these drivers remember that the horse they drive is just as sensitive to the cold as they are. When you buy an overcoat for yourself, buy a blanket for the horse and use it every time you stop. No matter if you only stop for five minutes, throw the blanket or lap robe over the animal's back to protect his kidneys.

What is more disgusting than to see a horse shivering from the cold for the want of just a little attention! Do not think because the horse is a dumb animal that he does not appreciate it, for he does, and if you will study your horse you will soon see that he shows his appreciation in many ways.

A good thing to remember is to take the bridle to the house and warm the bit before placing it in the mouth of your horse. One way to impress this on your mind is, on a cold and frosty morning to stick your tongue out and touch it to the bit on the bridle. The first impulse will be to yank away, but if you do the result will be that part of your tongue will stay with the bit. Just imagine how the poor horse feels that is compelled to take a cold bit every morning. Be as kind to your horse as you can, for in this day and age his life is not always a happy one at the best.

Sherlock Holmes Was on the Job Just as Usual.

Slitting open his left forearm with a razor, Holmes was about to inject a bicycle pumpfull of cocaine, ether, water, and local-option dope, when the light of battle gleamed in his eyes and caused the cat to think dawn had come. "Some one is coming upstairs, Watson," he said. "I heard footsteps on the stairs, but— You wonder how I know our visitor is coming up instead of going down," interrupted Holmes, reading my thoughts. "It's childishly simple," he continued. "I fixed the second step from the top so that any one treading on it shot down the whole flight. The stranger hasn't fallen yet, and must therefore be coming up."

At that moment there was a crash. Holmes opened the door and stepped out. "Try again, my dear sir," he called out to the man who lay in a tumbled heap at the bottom of the stairs. This time our visitor was more successful. He entered the room and took a seat opposite the window.

"Did you have a good game?" asked Holmes.

"How did you guess?"— "Nothing, my dear sir," answered Holmes. "Your mouth has certain lines brought on by saying a vigorous word beginning with 'd,' and the transfer in your pocket tells me you are a golfer."

"Yes, I play golf. My name is McStingo," said our visitor. "I have come to ask you to solve the mystery of the lost golf ball."

Holmes brightened up. The old sleuth-hound instincts awoke. In a few moments he had the story from McStingo. Four thousand golf balls had been lost in two weeks.

"Are you prepared for a long trip, Watson?" asked Holmes, placing a revolver in his pocket. "Better take a Scotch glossary," he added.

I compromised on a flask of it. Reaching the ground, Holmes drew out a microscope and examined each blade of grass. "A cow has been here lately," he muttered.

"How did you know?"

He showed me a cowslip. Inquiries in the neighborhood showed that there was indeed a cow. She was the picture of health.

"That cow," said Holmes, "has swallowed the golf balls. You see that big ad. over there, 'Pills for the Pale.' She has taken the golf balls for pills, and the influence of mind over matter has caused her to grow well and give lots of milk."

On our return to the house Holmes turned the case over to Detective Night with the advice to get out a search warrant.

MARION SHIRLEY

"UNCLE DAVE HOLCOBE."

"A better sermon never preached." This is the opinion of the Rev. Theo. Denby of Denver, after seeing Wm. Lawrence in "Uncle Dave Holcomb." "The reformation of 'Hiram,' the village drunkard, the moral atmosphere of the home and life of 'Uncle Dave,' the innocence of his daughter 'Grace,' and the increasing faith of father and mother, the old hymns and songs my mother used to sing, took me back to my childhood days and I hope and pray that every mother who has a son or daughter will use her influence to have that son or daughter see the play." The company, headed by Mr. William Lawrence, is excellent in every respect and are excellent types of the homely New England life. Mr. Lawrence hardly needs an introduction. He is Denman Thompson's legitimate successor,—his voice, build and walk are exactly as Mr. Thompson's. Miss Marion Shirley will be his leading lady and needs but little introduction in this place, having played "Madge" in "Old Kentucky" and "Kate Brewster" in "Way Down East." She is a winsome, dainty, talented little actress and is a feature with the company. Will be seen here on Tuesday, Nov. 23. Special bargain matinee at 3 p. m. All seats, 25c.

He Would Take It.

An Irishman was sitting in a depot smoking when a woman came and, sitting down beside him remarked:

"Sir, if you were a gentleman you would not smoke here."

"Mum," he said, "if you was a lady ye'd sit farther away."

Pretty soon the woman burst out again: "If you were my husband I'd give you poison."

"Well, mum," returned the Irishman, as he puffed away at his pipe, "if you wuz me wife I'd take it."—Kansas City Independent.
