It is better to be an honest man in one language than a liar in five.

Take care of the idle poor! The idle rich will take care of them-

Without the atmosphere, besider the inconvience to breathing, a great many peculiar things would be observed that would seem very extraordinary to us. The sun would rise straight up in the morning into a sky as black as chony, traverse a black sky and sink down to rest at night into a black bed. No beautiful glories of the sunset and sunrise would appear, no blueness of sun gradually growing brighter, but one that would rise as a flery orb and remain thus all day. No twilight and no daybreak could cheer De singin' and de feastin' us, for there would be nothing to diffuse the light. Unless the sun shone directly on a thing we could not see it. Thus our houses would have to be made of some transpareut substance or else be artifically It ain' so great a credit lighted in the daytime. No soothing shades would appear in the landscape, but everything would stand An' dar is several folks I knows out boldly and clearly, every object easting dense black shadows that would render invisible any one entering them. No voice or music could be heard, for there would be no medium to carry it. No birds or insects could flit about in the trees and above us, for there would be mothing to enable them to utilize their wing motion. No clouds would be seen in the intensiy black sky, and no thunderstorms or high winds would be possible. No vegitation could exist, and no animal could live. In fact, this old earth would be as dead as Hector as far as activity was concerned.

It costs each person in the United States only $1.65 a year to go to bed early and sleep sweetly with a sense of security born of the subconscious knowledge that if his house starts to burn an army of fire laddies will hustle around and put out the fire. Wherefore, the census bureau which discovered this fact as the result of an investigation of the fire departments and fire locaes of 158 of the largest cities in this for fear on this score. In Berlin is costs 26 cents; in London 19 cents, and in Milan 17 cents. The United States geological survey has made some computation to show that this difference is because the building restrictions in Europe are greater than in this country, that there are more fireproof buildings and that the cost of maintaining the fire departments is not so great. It is not because American fire departments are expensive administers. When it comes to conserving the country's resources or, better yet, its assets, the toll of fire tells a fearful lesson. During 1907, the 158 largest American citles lost more than $48,000 .-000 in their fires, covered by insurance amounting to $42,000,000.

Governor Hughes of New York has made an excellent Governor, and deserves great credit for his energy shown in efforts to reform politics in New York. He has been earnestly advocating a primary law which will lessen the dictating influence of the political leaders, and give the common people a larger opportunity to determine who shall be candidates for the different offices. He now comes out in a letter in which he practically states that an exception should be made in the matter of several state officers which heretofore have been elected and Hepburn act has power to regulate the which he thinks should be appointed by the Governor. This may be alright, but if somebody else had suggested such an innovation what a howl would go up from those people who are tuned up to yell hysterically at any proposition which does not come from one of the sanctified. If the people can be trusted to nominate candidates for one office, why not trust them to nominate for all offices? It looks as if the Governor has a very high estimate of his ability to do some things which the sovereign people might make a

The Scranton newspapers are very profuse in publishing the faces of her noted men, "and their names are legion," and we are looking for that mixup which is customacy and sure to come in printing offices, and we will not be surprised to see under the head of a Peruna or Duffy malt whiskey advertisement the features of some of Scrapton's favorite sons. If this is to happen, brethern arrange so that it will not happen while the present revival is in operation. There is a Devil in every printing office and it would be well for those whose pictures have been used to fill space in their home journals to arrange to have the electhe heavens would be seen, no red tros of same placed where the Devil cannot get them.

WHAT CAUSED MRS. STETSON'S DETHRONEMENT.

The fierce light that beats upon the leaders in any great religious controversy has, of late, focussed its rays upon one woman in particular-Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, the foremost exponent of Christian Science in New York City. Human Life for January contains masterly story of this extraordinary woman. Devoid of newspaper sensationalism, but presenting facts and live details hitherto unknown to the outside public, Mr. Gillmore's article traces Mrs. Stetson's checkered career from girlhood, and tells the story of how, alone and unknown, she unfurled the banner of Christian Science in New York City. the coldest and most indifferent city in the world, and in seven years had raised a million and a quarter dollars, and attracted a throng of devoted followers among the most wealthy and influential citizens. The secrets of her success were a radiating personality, boundless ambition, and a genius for leadership that threatened to overshadow that of
