HAWLEY AND WILSONVILLE.
The writer has been reminded during the past three days of how many luxuries we all enjoy without giving any thought as to whom we are indebted. On Friday the watering trough at Wilsonville went dry. This frequently happens; not that the water supply is exhausted, as just a short distance north, beneath the darksome shadows of venerable boughs there bubbles a spring of pure water out of the leaf-strewn earth that has not failed during the past two dry seasons. But something goes wrong with the pipes and not many know that its only through the kindness of our obliging landlord, P. J. Keary, or one of his tenants that they are again put in working order with no recompense whatever excepting the inner consciousness that they have favored the public and what a favor it is these water-famine times to be supplied free of charge with this pure, unadulterated ale of Father Adam, better than Cognac strong beer or wine of any price. In view of the fact that people work better when expecting a reward would it not be well for those townships which derive the most benefit to hire some one to keep the water flowing and trough filled ever ready to quench the thirst of man and beast.

THE CENSUS MAN COMING.
Prepare for the visit of the United States Census officers next spring. The intelligent farmers of the country will need no urging in the matter of furnishing full and accurate information to the census agents. The farming interest of the country is its greatest interest and it should be adequately set forth in the national accounting in 1910. The mere counting of the citizens of the Republic is only an insignificant feature of the census. The real value of the census is to be found in the showing of the character and variety and the magnitude of the country's material, resources and industries. Make your part of that showing complete and accurate. You understand what is expected and required of you. Be ready and give it to the government agents when they visit your farm next spring.—New York Farmer.
