"AN ARMY MULE."

"An Army Mule," a new serial story by Charles Miner Thompson, began in the February 10th issue of The Youth's Companion of Boston. The title of it is suggested by the blind and reckless obstinacy of the old soldier who is its principal character. His mulishness involves him and those about him in a succession of the most mystifying and distressing complications.

Sample copies of The Companion, including the issue containing the first instalment of this extraordinary story, will be sent upon request to any one who mentions this paper.
