GROWTH OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Mr. George Allan England Asserts that the Movement is Always Gaining Ground.

In a very striking article entitled "The Leaven of Woman Suffrage Around the World," published in Lipincott's, Mr. George Allan England says:

"The average American seems to have hardly more idea about the magnitude of this wave elsewhere than he has about the mountains on the moon, perhaps not so much. For any good telescope will show those mountains plainly, whereas the capitalist press as a rule very carefully suppresses or distorts and ridicules the news in re woman suffrage abroad. The limit of knowledge of the average man barely exceeds this: that here at home we have four States where universal suffrage prevails, that there are vigorous demonstrations now taking place in England, and that 'women vote in New England.' Beyond this, his information is not likely to go, although his facile criticism and ridicule might indicate a broader scope.

"As a matter of plain fact, that is not half the story. So rapid is the advance of the suffrage wave elsewhere than in free America, chivalrous America, that almost before one can record it in cold type some other new development turns up. Let us just take a brief bird's eye survey of the situation as nearly up-to-date as we can bring it.

"New Zealand, of course, we all know about, where women meet men on terms of entire political equality at the polls, and where their influence has been so salutary.

"Australia has not lagged far behind. As far back as 1902 the so-called 'Federated States' granted full national suffrage to women. Last November even the somewhat backward State of Victoria ceded. All the women of Federated Australia therefore now enjoy full municipal, state, and national suffrage.

"So, too, the activity in Finland, where the suffrage was gained only three short years ago, yet where the powers of evil are already trembling in their boots.

"Conservative England some years ago here and there granted the municipal suffrage to a varying extent, and no observer to-day doubts very seriously that the parliamentary suffrage is almost at hand. The projected 'betrotal boycott' and 'marriage strike' ought certainly to have some weight with perfidious Albion, if nothing else will!

"Denmark succumbed last year to the demand for municipal suffrage. At the Copenhagen elections in March, the women took an active part in the fight, at least a third of the votes being cast by them. According to official statistics the election returned 9,882 male councillors and 127 women ones. The battle is still on there in true Valkyrie style.

"Sweden has already capitulated. The Riksdag has recently passed a bill which enables all the inhabitants of the country, over twenty-four years of age, to vote. So the unlimited woman suffrage is there already an established fact.

"In Germany womankind seems to be under a ban, so far as Old-party politics are concerned; but nevertheless they are in great numbers adherents of the Social-Democracy there. Once this militant party attains the power which now it is reaching out for, to the consternation of Conservatism, its women can at once turn their activities from revolutionary party politics to national affairs.

"In Russia, Cuba, Spain, Japan, even Turkey, the agitation is going on vigorously. Iceland has it, too, and in no passive form at that. The suffrage movement is always gaining ground, never permanently losing. Its outcome is, to my mind at least, positively certain. As women are forced out into commercial and industrial pursuits, and are obliged by the growing power of industrialism to abandon the home, 'that sphere of woman,' no other possible outcome can result than just this fight—and the winning of the fight. Behind it are powerful economic reasons; and economic determinism, though it grind as slowly as the mills of the gods, always grinds exceedingly small."

A TURBAN FROM PARIS.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

GUNDA THE DANCER

When Gunda, the big Indian elephant at Bronx Park, New York, isn't busy munching carrots or attending to his duties at the receiving teller's window of his personally conducted bank, he generally will be found swinging his gigantic frame easily backward and forward with a rolling rhythmic movement strongly suggestive of dancing. Keeper "Baldy" Thuman, at any rate, declares it's dancing, and he ought to know, for no human being knows the big chap and his ways as well as he does.

Among the visitors recently to the antelope house where Gunda is making his happy home pending the completion of his own palatial mansion a quarter of a mile north, were a pretty young school teacher and her class of a score of little girls. Gunda was just as glad to see them as they were to see him, and the big fellow had the time of his life while the peanuts lasted. After he had passed about a dozen quarts of the toothsome goobers down into his capacious interior and had collected all the pennies in sight and added them to his store, seeing nothing further coming his way and feeling entirely satisfied with the world in general and himself in particular, he began to swing forward and backward on his toes with his wonted grace and ease.

"O-o-o-oh!" shouted all the little girls and the pretty teacher in unison, "he's doing 'The Merry Widow Waltz!'"

"You're all right, old boy," whispered Keep Thuman into Gunda's ear after the encore, "give me a soul kiss. Gunda responded by laying the end of his trunk lovingly against his keeper's cheek.

Retreat of a Lion.

An Englishman who passed five years hunting in Africa, gives a graphic account of a scene that he once witnessed there. He was out elephant hunting, and his party consisted of 250 natives. That was a large and imposing force, and one would think that so great an array would terrify even the wildest and most ferocious beast.

Sudden, the hunter saw a big lion coming slowly but defiantly out of the brush, its eyes blazing with fury and its tail nervously lashing its sides. Not a bit abashed was it at the array of hunters that confronted it, but it came boldly toward them as if seeking to force a combat. It is hardly necessary to say that the natives, every mother's son of them, fled from the beast like a flock of frightened sheep. In the panic that followed eight of the hunter's dogs were allowed to escape from the leash.

The dogs instantly faced the lion, but that kindly animal, seeing that its bold bearing had routed its human enemies, became uneasy about its cubs and their mother, and turned toward the brush through which they were retreating. It did not run, there was no showing of the white feather in its action; it just walked calmly and majestically away, growing fiercely at the dogs, which trotted along on each side.

As the hunter had been left alone by the stampede of the natives, he thought it wise not to bother with the lion, for fear of unpleasant consequences, so he called off his dogs and watched the lion disappear in the undergrowth covering his retreat of his family with the air of a conqueror.

Potter Wasps at Work.

The family Eumenidae, or solitary wasps, contains some curious workers. Some are miners, and dig solitary tunnels in the earth; some are carpenters and cut channels in wood and then divide the space into chambers by partitions of mud. Some build oval or globe-like mud nests on branches or eaves. This home may be partitioned into several tiny rooms into which are put various small insects captured by the mother wasp upon which the young wasps feed.—St. Nicholas.

Little Bobby—Uncle John, does hair grow on your face because you shave?

Uncle John (who is bald)—Yes, Bobby. Little Bobby—Then why don't you shave your head?

BELLS OF MEXICAN RANCH.

Date from the Sixteenth Century and Highly Prized by Indians.

The ranch of Jocotlan, belonging to the Indians of the district, comprises 50,000 hectares of very rich land. The pride of the Indians is two old bells that hang in the tiny churchyard.

They date from the year 1550 and it is rumored, are cast with gold and copper and silver. They bear the date and some words in Latin. Of their history nothing is known. It seems probable that they were cast up by the sea or taken from one of the old Spanish galleons, as Jocotlan is only a day from the coast.

This immense ranch has a history. After the war of independence it was handed to the Indians of Jocotlan, who now number 200. This gift was further ratified under the government of Comonfort in 1857.

Many have desired to get these bells, but the Indians will not part with them at any price.

At the Milliner's.

An Atchison woman who has a sincere desire to be economical, says the Kansas City Journal, took a blue feather, some velvet, and a rose to a milliner, asking the milliner to furnish the shape and trim it. The woman was proud of the feather, the velvet, and the rose, as they were as good as new, but the milliner cast just one glance at them, and then the woman began to apologize. "Apologies are not necessary," said the milliner icily. "You surely don't expect me to use anything like that!" And the woman didn't. Another woman said to her milliner, bravely: "I want a hat that doesn't cost a cent over five dollars."

Boats Towed by Autos.

The first successful towing of canal boats by automobile was accomplished one recent Sunday on the Lehigh canal. Owing to the liability of the tow-line to snap in the effort to start, George B. Plummer, a Camden automobile expert, equipped a seven-ton motor truck of 45 horsepower with spiral springs. Six barges with 800 tons of cargo were taken from Allentown to Bethlehem in an hour. Present lock capacity and speed limitations considered, it is estimated that automobiles compared with mules will handle double the number of boats in half the time.—Philadelphia Record.

First Honeymoon in Air.

Even the honeymoon in the air is not a new idea. M. Flammarion, the distinguished French astronomer and aeronaut, took his bride for a honeymoon trip in a balloon on August 28, 1874. Mme. Flammarion relates that though she had never been in a balloon before, she felt no trepidation when she took her seat in the car along with her husband and his scientific instruments, at the gas works of La Villette. They were accompanied by M. Flammarion's brother and the aeronaut, M. Jules Godard.

"Hicksites" vs. "Friends."

Hicksites are a numerous body of rationalistic Quakers in America, founded by Elias Hicks (1748-1830), who in 1827 seceded from the Society of Friends and created a schism in that body by his promulgation of Unitarian doctrines. About one-half of the "Friends" in America adopted his views. The Hicksites deny the miraculous conception, the divinity and the atonement of Christ, as well as the inspiration and authenticity of the Scriptures.

Watch for the Blind.

A Swiss watchmaker of Neuchatel, who recently invented a watch for the blind, has been flooded with orders. The watch has no glass, and its face is of enamel. The hands are invisible and are placed inside the case. The figures work automatically, appearing a little above the enamel face as the hands pass underneath. A blind person can with a touch of his fingers tell the time in an instant. The watch costs from $4 upward.

Serving His Sentence.

"I ain't seen de boss man fer de longest. What you reckon he gone ter?" "I thought you knowed what he gone. He went round de country talkin' ever' day an' Sunday, an' de fust thing he knowed dey give him fifty days in de legislature an' he won't be back 'twel he serves his time out."—Atlanta Constitution.

Theft of Cottages.

A curious story comes from Potteries of the theft of a whole block of small cottages which had become vacant. The process one by one, and the floors and other woodwork followed. Finally the walls were razed, and nothing now remains but the foundations.—Home Chat.

Expert Opinion.

An English paper propounds the query, "Should a man marry his landlady?" The answer to this would seem to depend on the number of weeks the man is in arrears. Death and matrimony cancel these little obligations.—Chicago Tribune.

Deluded.

Many men suffer from the delusion that they are the masters in their own households.—Charleston News and Courier.

Trustless.

"Folks dat trusts in love at fust sight," said Uncle Eben, "is terrible apt to finish by not bein' able to see each other wif a spy glass."

Are You Bilious?

Biliousness means that your liver is sick and out of order. You are cross or cranky, can't eat, have a bad, nasty tasting mouth, and are sick all over. To neglect biliousness will result in congestion, loss of appetite, torpidity and bad feelings. Restore the liver to health by using Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills, which cure biliousness in one night, give your liver healthy action, assist digestion, clean up your furred and coated tongue, and give you new life and energy to tired nerves.
