A dispatch to the New York World, from Carbondale, under date of March 15th, says: Literally, a large section of this city stands over an inferno. Fire has been raging in the mine of the Penn Colliery for several years. The expenditures the company made fighting the fire forced it into bankruptcy. Since then the flames have raged in fury unconfined. The fire is close now to the surface of the ground, through which noxious fumes and gases escape. The flames have spread under a great part of Carbondale. It is certain they are eating away the pillars of coal the miners left to support the surface. Should they fall, many houses must be engulfed in a veritable Hades. Only one resort is left to the citizens: to ask Governor Stuart for State aid to extinguish the fire. The State Supreme Court sustained the finding of the lower court that Carbondale cannot spend $80,000. It will cost that sum at least to attack the fire; the city is within $60,000 of its legal indebtedness. The request to the Governor will be put on the ground that a public calamity threatens. If State aid is refused all that remains is to wait for the ground to cave in.

IN THE DAYS OF THE AEROPLANE.

The movement to spread a safety net over Fifth Avenue, to protect persons walking and driving thereon from being hit by lunch baskets and other objects dropped overhead by aeroplanes, has been gathering headway ever since the mayor's silk hat was jammed over his eyes by a squash falling from an unknown height.

The Maine farmers complain that the aeromobilitists are now filling the skies in such vast numbers as completely to obscure the sun for five or six hours a day, with the result that the frost is not likely to get out of the ground before September.

The legislatures of Connecticut, Massachusetts and North Carolina are expected to pass drastic regulations forbidding and penalizing the atrocious sport, so fashionable among aeromobilitists, of trolling for cows. Thirty-two cows were caught by passing air-cars two miles back of Mark Twain's home last Sunday, the tackle being a three-inch cable with an anchor baited with a bale of hay at the end of it.

The relief car has started from the Paris Life Saving Station for the rescue of three aeromobilitists, whose car burst on Friday night. The occupants immediately took to their parachutes, but, these being out of order, refused to fall, with the result that the travelers have been stranded eight miles up in the air ever since. It is expected that they will be got down in safety.—Harper's Magazine.

THAT DANCE HALL NUISANCE JURORS ALL SENT HOME

Court Adjourned on Wednesday— Judge Staples Grants a Divorce— Court Will be Held Here Next Week.

In the divorce proceedings of Joseph H. Yarns, respondent, vs. Sadie H. Yarns, respondent, in which case the respondent sought a divorce on the grounds of wilful and malicious desertion, Judge Staples granted a decree of absolute divorce, as prayed for in the libel.

On Tuesday afternoon the evidence for the defense in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Hyman Miller was heard. The evidence of the Commonwealth's witnesses was given in an earlier edition of this paper. Attorneys Kimble and Rowland appeared for Miller.

The following witnesses testified in Miller's behalf: C. A. Seig, H. H. Smith, Thomas Gallagher, James McDonald, Mrs. Smith, Arthur Frick, Elizabeth Myers, Ed. Smith, Hyman Miller, J. E. Keesler, J. H. Green, and Jacob Rorbacker.

The evidence of the defense tended to show that Miller conducted a dance hall in a proper manner. That the hall was closed always at the time required by law and that Miller was at all times very strict in requiring the strictest order and decorum to be observed at all dances conducted at his hall. Evidence was also introduced as to the excellent reputation born by the defendant and regarding his good standing in the community in which he lived.

The jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" and directed that two-thirds of the costs be paid by the defendant, and the balance by the prosecutor, J. B. Krauter. Part of the verdict placing one-third of the costs on the prosecutor, was set aside by the court and the county directed to pay same. Costs will amount to about $500.

In the matter of the Commonwealth vs. William Zen Zen, No. 15, October Sessions, 1907, upon motion of R. M. Salmon of Searle and Salmon, attorneys for appellant, rule granted on Annie Brethaupt to show cause why the sum, ordered to be paid to her weekly, should not be reduced.

Wednesday morning Judge Staples heard the trespass case of Sophia A. Mittan vs. Frank J. Hunkele. Attorneys Simons and Kimble appeared for the plaintiff and the defendant was represented by C. A. McCarty. Count for breaking plaintiff's close, consisting of forty-five acres, situated in the township of Palmyra, and unlawfully cutting and carrying away a large quantity of pine, oak, chestnut, and hemlock logs, lumber and timber growing thereon, contrary to the act of March 29, 1824. Damages laid at three hundred dollars. Pleas: Not guilty.

The following jury was impanelled to hear the case: Clark Spencer, B. S. Hull, P. J. Keesler, Harvey Daniels, Arnold Sluman, August Laabs, C. D. Tarbox, R. L. Woody, Julius Keltz, I. W. Kipp and Spencer C. Bates.

Deed from G. G. Waller et ux to J. R. Mittan offered in evidence by plaintiff to show title to the land on which the timber is alleged to have been cut.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Mittan, then took the stand and testified that she was the widow of J. R. Mittan and had lived on the farm in question for twenty-eight years and was familiar with all the lines and corners on the farm. She derived this knowledge from her husband who assisted in the survey of the land. The timber had been cut in a lower corner of her land. She noticed the cutting on August 24, 1908, and on August 27, 1908, saw Ed. Hunkele and William Hendricks there with team; they had a load of logs. There was a wire fence along a part of the line. Hunkele had entered within the wire fence. There was no heavy timber on Hunkele's side of the line.

Wm. Hendrick testified that he was working for Hunkele in August, 1908, and that he cut timber at the place specified at Hunkele's direction. Frank Hunkele showed him where to cut three separate times. The cut timber was taken to a skidway on Mrs. Mittan's land. Timber was cut into ties, etc. Counted 350 pine ties, about 25 railroad ties and 250 cut ties. Witness cut yellow pine and some chestnut. Ed. Hunkele and Charles Hunkele helped him to cut. Does not know of anyone else who cut timber there. On cross examination, witness stated that he believed he was cutting on Hunkele's land. He tried to buy the lumber from Mrs. Mittan because Hunkele instructed him to do so. The logs were skidded onto Mrs. Mittan's land.

Fred Mittan, son of the plaintiff, testified that he knew all the lines on the farm. Was with Frank Soete on September 7, 1907, when he ran the lines. Found that the cut extended 390 feet on his mother's side of the line. Eighty-eight trees of varying diameter had been cut. Trees were yellow pine, white pine, oak, chestnut, hemlock, etc. Found Hendrick and Ed. Hunkele cutting there in August, 1907, and stopped them. Some logs were still there, some had been taken to White Mills. A road runs near the line and it was impossible for Hunkele to make a mistake in reference to the line. Witness also testified as to a prior difficulty with Hunkele in regard to cutting over the line. Cross-examined—Soete ran one side of the line and an end. Hendrick, Will Rowland and William Gibbs were present at the survey. Hunkele hired the surveyor. Witness stated that he measured the logs found at the dock in White Mills and compared the diameters with the stumps found in the cutting. He found corresponding measurements. Sold a part of the timber found at the dock to Minor Brown.

Adam Jecko corroborated Mittan's testimony in regard to the number of trees cut. Stated that he was with Fred Mittan on August 25, 1908, and counted stumps. As they counted each stump it was marked to avoid a double marking. They counted 85 stumps and measured them. Jacob Slonser also gave testimony in corroboration of the alleged number of trees cut.

Christian Kitzner testified that he worked for Hunkele in August, 1908, cutting ties and props. Hunkele told witness that whenever he saw a good stick he should get it and drag it on Hunkele's land.

C. A. Wilmath was called and qualified as an expert lumberman. He estimated the value of the timber cut at $230.

Mrs. Henry Fisher, a daughter of Mrs. Mittan's, corroborated the testimony in regard to an earlier dispute with Hunkele in regard to cutting over the line.

The defense then called Frank J. Hunkele, the defendant, to the stand, to testify in his own behalf. Hunkele testified that he instructed his men to cut timber in a swamp, admittedly on his own land and that the cutting on Mittan's land was contrary to his orders and against his express warning not to trespass or cut over the line. That as soon as he discovered where the cutting was being made, he had it stopped. That the value of the timber was small.

William Gibbs, Mrs. George Rowland, and Mrs. Gibbs testified to hearing Hunkele tell Hendrick not to cut over line but to cut in the swamp.

Henry Van Frank testified to offering Fred Mittan twenty-five dollars for part of the timber alleged to have been cut. Cross-examined: Stated that he had no idea how many trees were cut.

The jury brought in a verdict for $200 for the plaintiff in the above case.

In the case of William J. Ramble vs. Pa. Coal Co., action of assumpsit, the following jury was drawn: Wm. Riley, William Colwell, Bert Bassett, Thomas Meagher, A. J. Platt, Thos. Rutledge, Frank Haustenstein, Clifford Blair, Thos. Ridd, Clifford Gray, Wm. Rockwell, Ralph Dillon.

In this case a compulsory non-suit was granted by Judge Staples because it appeared that the plaintiff's case rested largely on an alleged verbal contract with E. M. Beyea, land agent for the Coal Company, and that the said E. M. Beyea had no authority for the making of such contract. The court granted a rule on the defendant to show cause why non-suit should not be stricken off, returnable the second Monday, April, 1910.

Ramble was represented by attorneys Greene and Kimble; O. L. Rowland and C. P. O'Malley appeared for the Coal Co.

The other cases scheduled for trial this week have been either settled or continued by agreement. The jurors were discharged Wednesday afternoon.

The day chosen is March 19th when "tags" will be given as souvenirs to those who, by their gift, will help to make our dear old Keystone state white.
