DREHER.

On the southern exposures the snow has about all disappeared in this section of Wayne county, but there is enough on the northern hillsides to keep the air cool for some time yet and likewise put a check on early ploughing and sowing. The farmer that is up-to-date is not idle and is apt to find many jobs of work needing attention, some of them left over from last fall, that were caught in the first snow and staid caught all winter.

There is so much printed of late in regard to trimming, pruning and spraying fruit trees that it requires a person to carry a vest pocket memorandum that he may know the proper time to perform each of these very important duties. and ORCHARD INSTRUCTION HAS COMMENCED IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist, commenced this week to give demonstrations, with lecturers on Mrs. R. E. Lake visited friends in orchard management, in such Pennsylvania orchards as have been taken in charge by the Division of Zoology of the Department of Agriculture, to be shaped into "Model Orchards," to serve as object lessons in fruit culture in the different counties of the State.

With the exception of three counties (Elk, Fayette and Fulton), there are from two to five such orchards in every county, according to its size as well as its importance as a fruit growing district, or a total of over two hundred. In fact, York county has six. While these orchards will be used primarily for demonstration and instruction purposes, another class, designated as Supervision Orchards, (numbering over five hundred), will be under the care of the Division of Zoology. whose owners will receive suggestions and help, from time to time, so as to obtain the best results.

Meetings will only be held in the Public Meeting Demonstration Model Orchards." It is proposed to hold three such meetings during the year, for the purpose of demonstrating methods of fruit culture, viz: prining, spraying of trees, cultivation and fertilization. There will be lectures pertaining to horticulture at each public meeting, and State Zoologist Surface will endeavor to attend at least one meeting in each county. His places and dates will be announced through the press.

The meetings of the first series, now in progress, will be devoted mainly to spraying for the control of the San Jose Scale and similar pernicious insects, but pruning and other orchard methods will taught. Besides Professor Surface being in attendance, or one of his assistants from the office of the State Zoologist in Harrisburg, two of the State's orchard inspectors will be present at each meeting, rain or shine

The dates of the meetings, and the places where they will be neld, will be announcd through the newspapers each week. Everybody interested should attend the meeting easiest of access, because of the valuable information to be obtained by a personal observance of the improved methods, that will be shown and explained, of dealing with insect pests and fungous diseases, as well as of managing an orchard.

Gum exudes from the trees. Having been told to dig for worms, or borers, he did so, and located one or more each time.

State Zoologist Surface wrote, in regard to the trouble, as follows: 'The peach tree which you describe appears to have been injured by bor-The best thing to do for such pests is to remove them whenever they are present. Do this by means of a knife or wire. If there is gum which has brown specks like sawdust mixed in it, it is due to the effects of the borer. If, however, the gum does not have such saw-dust-like mais not the cause of its production. Gum may exude from a tree from one of several causes. 'An old tree that is injured needs very much to be stimulated. You can do this by cutting it back and fertilizing and cultivating it. 10u should give it a dressing of wood ashes and ground bone or acid phosphate rock, with some barn-yard manure added. You can buy a 'complete' fertilizer of any dealer in fertilizing materials, and thus give it a ration more nearly balanced. If posdble, loosen the soil around it early Miss Florence Keen returned home in the spring, and, if the weather is dry, water it occasionally. It may possibly have San Jose Scale on its branches, and this can be determined only by examination with a microscope. If you wish to send specimens to me for examination, I shall be promptly.

SPRAYING MATERIALS

A fruit grower at Hanover, in York county, who has been spraying the trees in his young orchard with limesulphur, heard that oil sprays being used by the Division of Zoology of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture for demonstration pur-He wrote to Prof. Surface, the head of the Division, for information on the subject, and expressed himself desirous of changing to an oil spray from what he calls his good, but troublesome, mixture of lime and sulphur." State Zoologist

Surface replied as follows: You do not state what kind of trees there are in your young orchard, but if they are peach or plum you should not think of changing to the use of oils. I know where the and apple and have killed peach trees, and I cannot recommend them with certainty that they will always give good results. We are not using any oils whatever in our demonstration work, excepting raw linseed oil and white lead, which we use as a paint on the trunks of trees for the borers. This is to prevent the borers from laying their eggs there, rather than to kill them after they enter. "I note from your letter that you are having good results with limesulphur but you seem to regard it as troublesome. The difficulty is doubtless with the straining. This can easily be remedled by using a large funnel, containing a conical strainer of brass wire-cloth, with the cone pointed upright in the funnel, having from twenty-eight to thirty meshes to the inch. The material is strained thus very rapidly, and after it is once strained there will be no trouble as to clogged nozzles or bursting hose.

"If you should not wish to make your own home-boiled lime-sulphur wash, you can buy the concentrated boiled solution in the commercial form. Several factories are now making this and putting it on the market.

Not By Spirits Alone.

A red nose is by no means a sign of drunkenness, and is as common among teetotalers as tipplers. Indigestion is responsible almost more than anything else for red noses, while excessive tea drinking is apt to play havor with the complexion in general and with the nose in particular. Sometimes the congested nose is a sign of some serious disorder of the heart, or it may point to a sluggish circulation. The hable of Inhaling cigarette smoke and puffing it through the nostrils may contribute to the external wealth of color.

The Absent Mindedness of Genius. The absent mindedness of great shinkers is a well known phenomeson. When Morse had completed his wonderful telegraphic system he confessed to a difficulty which appeared to him almost insurmountable. "As long as poles can be used," he said to a friend one day, "it is easy. But what must be done when we come to a bridge? We cannot use poles there, and the wire would break of its own weight without some support." "Well," replied the friend, 'why not fix the wires to the bridge?" Morse looked at him thoughtfully for a moment, and then exclaimed. "I never thought of that. It's the very thing." This instance of mental concentration on one leading idea to the exclusion of all others is almost as remarkable as that told of Sir Issac Newton, who cut a hole In his study door to allow his favorite cat to come and go freely, and then cut a smaller one for the use of her kitten .- Dundse Advertiser.

Evolution of Marriage.

About the fact that polyandry, or the marriage of one woman to several men, was once a widely established usage there is no room for doubt. Cresar found it in Britain, and Tacitus is authority for the statement that it was practiced among the Germans of the early times. It is impossible to be exact about the chronological order of the various forms of marriage. In all equally married to one another. Then by polygamy, which was finally replaced by the present form-a system which may well be called "re-

THE D. & H. SUMMER-HOTEL AND BOARDING HOUSE DIRECTORY.

The Delaware & Hudson Co. is now collating information for the 1910 edition of "A Summer Paradise," the D. & H. summer-hotel and boarding-house directory that has done so much to advertise and develop the resorts in this section. It offers opportunity for every summer hotel or boarding house proprietor to advertise his place by representation in this book. The information desired is, as follows: Name of house: P. O. Address; Name of Manager; Altitude; Nearest D. & H. R. R. station; Distance from station; how reached from station; Capacity of house; Terms per week and per day; Date of opening and closing house; defeated Joe Sutton for the 18.1 chani | what modern improvements; Sports and other entertainments. This information should be sent at once to Mr. A. A. Heard, General Passenge: Agent, Albany, N. Y. Blanks may be obtained from the nearest ticket agent, if desired. No charge is made for a card notice; a pictorial advertisement will cost $15.00 for a fullpage or $7.50 a half-page. Our hotel people should get busy at once and take advantage of this. Don't make the mistake of thinking that your house will be represented because it was in last year, but make sure that you receive the benefit of this offer by forwarding the needed information without delay. Owners of cottages to rent are also given the same rates for pictorial advertisements, but, for a card notice, a mini-
