WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1910.

Japan has now over 150 cotton mills in operation, the number of employees being 400,000.

What would happen in this country if the tariff bars were lowered, as demanded by certain public men representing sections having few if any textile industries, must be obvious.

In the words of Representative McKinlay, of California, "Tear down the tariff walls, and you strike a blow at American industrialism which is the foundation of our progress as a people."

The strike situation has now reached a condition that calls for only a recording of events as they occur. Both men and manufacturers have had their sides thoroughly ventilated in the papers so that the general public ought to know now the exact condition of affairs.

The significant question, all speculation aside, is: What does union labor expect to gain by such a proceeding? The leaders in a movement of this kind certainly do not hope to enlist the general public in a sympathetic boycott with any such far-fetched grievance as the basic motive.

The whole affair smacks too much of the puerile and partakes too much of the methods of the pettifogger to be seriously considered. Organized labor weakens its cause by listening to and indorsing the champions of such tactless crusades.

The defeat of George W. Aldridge for Congress in the Rochester, New York, district last week attracted wide attention because that district is normally Republican by about 10,000, while this time Havens, the Democratic candidate, was elected by about 6,000.

It won't do for the Democrats to crow too loudly. It wasn't a partisan victory. It was a Republican revolt on a moral issue.

That election was not a rebuke to any of the bed-rock Republican principles. It was simply and solely a popular uprising against an undesirable candidate and his methods.

There are as many Republicans in that district to-day as ever, and the very fact that they demand that candidates must be men of integrity will add to their majority when next election takes place.

Mr. Taft, who a year or two ago was made an honorary member of the Steam Shovel and Dredgmen's Union, is now threatened with expulsion from that order because it has been arranged that at the time of his visit to St. Louis on May 4th a part of his entertainment shall consist of a trip to a ball game in which the American League team from Cleveland, Ohio, will participate.

The labor unions of the United States, it transpires, have put the Cleveland organization upon its "unfair" list because, it is alleged, non-union laborers were employed in the construction work on its new grandstand at Cleveland.

The manifesto to Mr. Taft takes the form of a resolution adopted by the Central Trades and Labor Union of St. Louis. Just why it should be assumed that Mr. Taft, being a member in good standing, has not secured notice via the general bulletins and list of "do not patronize" organizations regularly sent out, is not made clear.

It would seem unnecessary, if not unusual, in a body where the equality of the membership must be taken as an assured fact, that such special attention should be accorded an individual. It cannot be taken as granted that the solicitude of the St. Louis body is due solely to the desire to obviate the necessity of fining the President the $5 which is fixed as the penalty for patronizing an "unfair" ball team.

There is no Death! What seems so is transition; This life of mortal breath Is but a suburb of the life elysian.

Men and women guard too zealously those matters of personal liberty and the individual right to choose how they shall worship, by whom and where they shall be amused, what they shall read and how they shall vote, to be influenced, coerced or even advised by any body of men who seek to dictate because they assume the power, no matter by what mistaken process of reasoning.

WHY YOU TALK NONSENSE IN YOUR SLEEP.

In a paper on the mechanism and interpretation of dreams, read recently before the neurological section of the Academy of Science, Morton Prince of Boston stated that dreams are in reality psychoses, or types of delirium, and are characterized by the same general symptoms, if one may speak of symptoms aside from disease.

One woman mentioned by him always dreamed that she was surrounded by a myriad of cats, and she would usually awake when they seemed to be attacking her or when she was thrown helplessly among them.

Such facts, he said, may explain in a measure the curious and apparently utterly illogical single words and statements coming from the lips of those in delirium, but it will always be found that, just as in many hallucinatory states of the insane, the mind is working at a tremendous rate, much faster than the organs of speech can record the ideas, and hence what comes to our ears from the dreamer is simply a mass of nonsensical words.

Democrat prayer: "O Lord, now that everything is coming our way, purge every Democratic soul of hot air and vainglory and insert large installments of common sense in every Democratic cranium, and O remember, Lord, our proneness to make fools of ourselves just when we have the world by the tail and a down-hill pull, and see that we don't get in bad this time."

TAFT IN TROUBLE.

Entered Into Rest

Mrs. Edmund B. Hardenbergh (nee Susan Kimble Pellett), passed from this life, Saturday, April 30th, at 6:20 a. m., the morning breaking for her in Paradise! She suffered from a serious affection of the heart for many years, but her life was prolonged by the unremitting care of her loved ones, with the aid of expert medical skill, until stricken with paralysis at 3:30 Friday morning when the light slowly flickered out, consciousness remaining until almost the last, when the out-worn body sank into coma.

Funeral services were held at the house at three o'clock, Monday afternoon and interment made in Glen Dyberry cemetery, the Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, Bishop of this Diocese, and the Rector, the Rev. Albert L. Whittaker, of Grace Episcopal church, officiating in Episcopal service, and impressively reading Mrs. Hardenbergh's favorite hymn, "Hark! Hark, My Soul! Angelic Songs Are Swelling," and the beautiful poem which follows.

There is no Death! What seems so is transition; This life of mortal breath Is but a suburb of the life elysian.

Whose portal we call Death. She is not dead—the child of our affection, But gone unto that school, Where she no longer needs our poor protection And Christ, Himself doth Rule.

In that great cloister's stillness and seclusion, By guardian angels led, Safe from temptation, safe from pollution, She lives, whom we call dead.

Lumbermen in Conspiracy.

Washington, May 3.—The supreme court has held the Grenada Lumber company and some seventy-five other retail lumber dealers in Mississippi and Louisiana to be a conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce and in violation of the Mississippi antitrust statute. This affirms the judgment of the Mississippi supreme court ordering the dissolution of the trust.

Terrible Croup

My little boy, who is four years old, has suffered a lot with croup. On several occasions we thought he was gone. After trying all the old time remedies and most of the new, I came home one night at midnight, and my wife said, "The boy has the croup again—suppose you get a bottle of Hyomel." "More junk," I said, "but we will circulate our money so they all will get some."

I hastened to an all night drug store, brought it home. In five minutes he was breathing easier. In fifteen minutes he was sound asleep. It broke the croup so quickly it scared me.

Anyone wishing to cure the croup of a child, I hope will give Hyomel a trial. Wishing you the best of success, which you surely deserve, I remain, Jos. E. Clark, 204 6th St. S. E., Washington, D. C., Oct. 7, 1909.

Hyomel is a remarkably effective remedy in case of croup and it should be in every home where there is a croupy child. Full instructions how to cure croup comes with each outfit.

Complete Hyomel outfit including inhaler costs $1.00 at drugists everywhere and at G. W. Pell's. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs and colds.

CONFEDERATES PLAN BIG PEACE JUBILEE.

Plans for a golden peace jubilee to be celebrated by Union and Confederate veterans of the Civil war in New Orleans in 1915, were proposed to the Dixie warriors at Mobile, Ala., by the Louisiana delegation of the Confederates now holding their reunion. The idea met with instant favor among the veterans, and plans for the jubilee will probably be taken up with the Grand Army of the Republic as soon as details can be worked out. It is the idea of the Louisiana delegation to celebrate the fifty years of peace during the proposed Panama canal exposition which New Orleans is planning for 1915.

It is likely that Gen. George W.

Gorden, of Tennessee, will be elected the new commander-in-chief of the veterans. Commander Evans has determined to retire, and it has been practically settled that the Tennesseean will be his successor. Gen. Gordon has been the commander of the Tennessee division for several years.
