—H. T. Hudson, of Waymart, was in town Monday. He is better known as "Doc" Hudson, a nick name which he received when a boy and which has stuck to him ever since. He is now past 70 years and has been employed by the D. & H. Company ever since a boy; in fact, he has never worked for anyone else except this company. He spent over fifty years of his life working on the old Gravity road. When a little fellow, there was a big negro called "Doc" Wheaton employed on the road and whenever this big fellow would come over the mountain from his home at Carbondale, the men employed on the canal would holler to young Hudson, "Here comes Doc," and the youngster would run home and remain home until Wheaton had gone back. It was from this often recurring event that Hudson acquired his cognomen of "Doc" Hudson in now a tall, stalworth, rugged man in spite of his seventy years of hard work, and gives evidence that in his younger days he must have been a man of giant strength.

—The first accident to the large auto, now making trips between Hawley and Seelyville, took place on Friday afternoon while the car was on its way to Honesdale. When about two miles from Hawley, as they attempted to cross a small bridge, the front wheels went through and it looked as if the car would go down into the creek, but the passengers—three in number—and the chauffeur, all jumped out of the machine, and this probably saved the machine from turning over and going down into the ditch about fifteen feet deep. Word was sent to Honesdale and a wrecking crew, consisting of John Erk, Robert Murray, and Frank Erk, armed with jacks, crow-bars, block and tackle, hastened to the scene, and after working until Saturday morning, the car was placed on terra firma. The machine was but slightly damaged and resumed its trips on Saturday morning. The bridge has been repaired.

Telegrams to the leading florists of New York, Philadelphia, from distant friends for appropriate symbols of affection brought a profusion of beautiful flowers, and this with the magnificent offering of friends in Honesdale, White Mills, Hawley and other nearby places showed the high appreciation the lady was held in by her many friends who for years sympathized with her in her affliction and who loved her for her true womanly qualities.

—A test was made last Sunday in the Presbyterian church of an instrument which enables those whose hearing is defective to hear very plainly. The main transmitter was placed on the pulpit so that the Rev. Swift's voice was taken up and transmitted same as in a telephone to those in the pews who had receivers which they applied to their ears and thus many whose hearing was imperfect were enabled to hear distinctly every word that was spoken by the preacher. There were about ten receivers installed and used to the satisfaction of the users.

—To remember mother, to show honor to her who is the best beloved the world over, the white carnation, emblem of purity, will be worn by the people of the nation next Sunday—Mothers' Day. Growing out of the devotion of one woman who set aside the day on which her mother died to be an occasion each year consecrated to the memory of the departed loved one, the observance of Mothers' Day has spread with such rapidity that the second Sunday in May of last year, the first anniversary of Mothers' Day, found a nation kneeling at the shrine of mother-love. Mothers' Day was first observed on the second Sunday in May, 1908. The public is asked to wear a white carnation to properly observe this day. If mother is living, wear the carnation, but also sit down and write the good, old soul a kind letter, full of the affection that you surely have for her but have been too busy to tell her about very often. She will appreciate it more than all the carnations worn on succeeding Mothers' Days or piled above the coffin lid over her thin, worn hands. The way to observe Mothers' Day in spirit and truth is to keep in close touch with her as long as she lives, and assure her constantly of your affection and regard. Later, when under the daisies, she won't need it.

—The Seelyville Fire Company will have a ball in their hall next Friday night. adv.

—Kindly read the advertisement of the Clinton Cut Glass Co. of Aldenville. They are going to have an auction sale on Saturday, May 14th.

SATURDAY IS BIDDING DAY.

The Only Opportunity of Its Kind Ever Offered Here.

At the auction sale of building lots at Willow Park, East Honesdale, opposite the Erie Railroad depot, to be held next Saturday, May 7th, at 2 p. m., a man in a carriage will stop at a certain lot and ask what is offered. In a moment the sale will be made, and the auctioneers will move to the next lot, and then to the next, etc., until all are sold. This method of selling real estate is being introduced here by the Osterhoudt & Dykman Land Co., of Kingston, N. Y., who have been operating in suburban real estate extensively, and with great success for the past five years. To further advertise the sale of these splendid lots, the company has engaged both the local band and the Pipe and Drum Corps; the latter will give a parade concert through the principal streets on Friday evening of this week from 7 to 9 o'clock. On Saturday at 12:30 p. m. the band will give a concert at the Central Park after which they will parade out Willow Avenue to the Willow Park lots in time for the auction sale at 2 p. m. On arriving at the grounds each lady will be presented with a box of Schraff's delicious chocolates, and each gentleman with a good cigar; also before and during the sale, thirty $2.50 gold pieces ($75.00 in all) will be given away to those being on the grounds at 2 o'clock when the sale commences. A discount of 10 per cent. for cash will be allowed from the prices at which the lots are bid in for, or to those who do not desire to pay cash, as low as $10 down and $5 per month will secure a lot. Building lots adjoining this splendid tract cannot be bought for less than from $350 to $600 each and as the buyers at the auction make their own prices, some great bargains should be had, and with the rapid advance in valuation which always follows these sales, buyers will undoubtedly double their money or even better, in a very short time. The company states that you do not have to buy a lot or put yourself under any obligation whatever to get the candy and cigars, or to participate in the drawings for the gold pieces. Free coupons for which are now being distributed throughout the town. So better attend the sale, have a good time, and incidentally bid in a lot, either to build a home on or as a good safe and profitable investment. See large adv. in this issue.

WAYNE COUNTY ARMORY.

A large delegation of the prominent citizens of Wayne county called on the county commissioners on Tuesday and made a request that they avail themselves of the proposition made by the State Armory Board of Pennsylvania to place an armory in Honesdale for the benefit of the Wayne county members of the National Guard, the State Armory Board agreeing to place a building costing from $15,000 to $20,000, if the county would furnish the site. The delegation requested the commissioners to appropriate $1,000 and called their attention to the fact that the State Legislature had passed an Act giving them the authority not only to make this appropriation but furthermore recommended that the same be done. The attention of the commissioners was called to the fact that under the old enrollment act, Wayne county was taxed 50 cents on each male citizen over 18 and under 45 years of age, capable of bearing arms, and as we have an enrollment of 3500 this meant a tax of $1750 each year. The new National Guard act repealed this law and saved Wayne county this amount each year and consequently the members of the National Guard (Company E) of Wayne county, who by their voluntary services save this amount to the county each year, are entitled to a home. The commissioners went into session, and finding that the law had been properly quoted, and that they were under obligations to the citizen soldiery of the county, agreed to appropriate $1,000 towards a site, the citizens of Honesdale to furnish the balance.

It was the general impression of those who were present and listened to the arguments of the delegation, that the action of the commissioners was wise, and should win for them the commendation of the people of Wayne county.

She had to stop the song to get rid of him."
