

Notes and Comment

A NEW REFRIGERATOR.

Drawers Swing in and Out in Place of Having Shelves.

A different kind of refrigerator has been invented by a Georgia man and is shown in the cut. In place of the row of shelves with which the ordinary refrigerator is equipped this new one has a series of drawers, which swing in and out and which make the articles kept within much easier of access.

lower part of the refrigerator is equipped with drawers which swing in and out on a hinge at one side. They are rounded at one end and only come out a certain distance. That part of the bottom of the drawer which extends outside when the latter is moved to the limit of its outward range is solid, the other segment being perforated to permit the cold air to pass through more readily.

Hair Ornaments.

- Silver galloon bandeau fastened at the side with cluster of silver grapes and loops of silver. Large bowknot of black sequins mounted on wired black net. Filigree silver bandeau with osprey of silver wheat at the left front. Slender wreath and aigrette of holly leaves and berries. Crochet to go around Psyche knot or around the head in gold, silver, or oxidized tissue. Soft quills of gold blade grass with bow at side and bandeau of gold galloon.

The Girl Who "Booses."

Many girls are done out of a good time because they love to rule. They may not know they are domineering but their mates are aware of it and resent it.

This desire to manage other people's affairs is a common cause of blackballs in girls' clubs, though the victim rarely recognizes that reason and attributes her defeat to personal spite, lack of money or "pull," rather than to her temperament.

There is no better cause of unpopularity than a "bossy" disposition. Most of us have opinions of our own, and, even though they are not so good as those of our friends, we prefer to stick to them. It is irritating to have each thought, action or intention regulated by another.

For the sake of peace most of us are supine when with these managing people. We give in rather than argue, often are false to our better selves rather than fight it out.

This is bad for both. In one it fosters a desire to rule and an unpleasant trait is molded into tyranny. With the other acquiescence becomes a habit that weakens the power of decision.

Mothers who notice this desire to manage every one in a young child should break it up at once. It is a trait that has a phenomenal growth, and when once grown it is hard to uproot.

If you are a girl who loves to rule every one, stop and consider. What if you do think your methods better than those of your friend? Do not intrude them until asked for an opinion, then give it without sulking if some one else's plans are preferred.

Your friends may pretend to give in to you, but they do it grudgingly and they like you none the better for it.

Obstinate people may fight things out with you; other persons, less fond of friction, will shun you.

The would-be "boss" should take as a motto, "Live and let live," which in plain English means don't try to run the lives of those around you.

To Take Smell of Smoke from a Room. Fill a bowl with cold water and place in a room where there have been gentlemen smoking the last thing before going to bed. In the morning throw the water away and you will find the room to be quite free from the smell of tobacco.

THE PRINCE'S SPEECH.

Canning's Reason For Ignoring the Royal Audacity.

One of the best stories in connection with the history of the king's speech, delivered at the opening of each fresh session of parliament, says Every-body's, is told of George IV. when prince regent.

The prince, it is well known, took his responsibilities lightly and on one occasion is said to have bet Sheridan 100 guineas that either owing to the magnetism of his personality or the flutter which the occupants of the lords' chamber were in so little attention was really paid to the verbal character of the speech he was delivering that he could make any interpolation he liked without it being detected.

The bet was taken, and the prince regent agreed to introduce the words "Baa, baa, black sheep," in the middle of the speech.

"If anybody smiles or looks startled," he said, "I lose my bet." This exploit actually came off, and at the close of a weighty session, composed by Lord Liverpool, to Wellington's difficulties in Spain the regent cleared his throat, said, "Baa, baa, black sheep," hurriedly and went on without apparently exciting any remark.

Sheridan related the royal audacity to Canning.

"It is perfectly amazing to me," Sheridan said, "that no notice was taken. Didn't you hear him distinctly say, 'Baa, baa, black sheep?'"

"I did," rejoined Canning, "but as his royal highness looked you full in the face at the time I took it as a personal allusion, and my delicacy forbade me to think more about it."

A Delicate Point.

The Comtesse de Noailles, nicknamed Mme. Etiquette, bored Marie Antoinette very much by her particularity on minor points of conduct. One day Marie Antoinette's cooking spirit had its chance. She fell from her donkey and lay on the grass for a while laughing.

"Run as fast as you can," she said to the nearest attendant as soon as she could speak, "and ask Mme. Etiquette how the queen of France ought to behave when she tumbles off her donkey."

An Example.

A teacher was endeavoring to explain to her small charges the meaning of the word "congenial."

"Now, children," she said, "two people are congenial who like to do the same kind of things, who do not disagree, and it is a very strong indication of congeniality when two people think the same thing simultaneously. Can any of you, now, give me an example of two people who are congenial?"

"I can, Miss Mary," a little fellow shouted, waving his hand wildly.

"All right, Tommy," Miss Mary smiled, delighted that so prompt an understanding should have been manifested, as there were several visitors present. "Tell us who they are and what proved it."

"It's paw and maw," Tommy replied eagerly. "An' I know it, 'cause they thinks the same thing at the same time. Last night maw said she wondered how anybody with any sense could ever be fool enough to get married, an' paw said, 'I was having the identical thought, my dear.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Sleep.

Now, blessings light on him that first invented this same sleep! It covers a man all over, thoughts and all, like a cloak. It is meat for the hungry, drink for the thirsty, heat for the cold and cold for the hot. It is the current coin that purchases all the pleasures of the world cheap and the balance that sets the king and the shepherd, the fool and the wise man even.—Cervantes.

What He "Saved."

Peter Clay was a coachman. His master found him one winter morning lying on top of a snowdrift in the front garden quite drunk.

"Why, Pete, you scoundrel," the master cried, "what do you mean by getting drunk at this time of day? Your breakfast has hardly settled, and you're drunk!"

"Well, sir," Pete answered, rising carefully, "my excuse is that, sir, on the way home with a demijohn of whisky for my wife's rheumatism I fell on a cake of ice, sir, and the demijohn busted, and the good liquor all run out. It lay in little pools and puddles between the frozen ruts. I got down and lapped up all I could, sir. That's how I got overcome."

"You swinish scoundrel," said the master, "how much did you drink?"

"Well, sir," said Pete, "I guess I must have saved close on to a quart and a pint."

SNAPSHOTS AT CELEBRITIES

William Lorimer, Senator From Illinois.

It is said of William Lorimer, Republican boss of Chicago and United States senator from Illinois, that he never forgets a friend or breaks a promise. That is part of the secret of his success in politics. With this is a natural ability to manipulate men. In his personal habits Senator Lorimer is a model. He neither smokes, chews tobacco, drinks nor swears. He is also a member in good standing of the Y. M. C. A. Furthermore, he has a wife and nine children, and no breath of suspicion with regard to his domestic affairs has ever assailed the junior senator from Illinois. Likewise, until the recent disclosures regarding his election to the senate, no hint of unlawful acts has ever involved his good name. Now, according to the alleged confessions of three former members of the Illinois legislature, they were bribed to vote for Mr. Lorimer. Since the charges were made public the senator has been collecting data to disprove them and says he will do so at the proper time.

Senator Lorimer is a native of Manchester, England, and began his career in Chicago as a street car driver. Later he became an employee of the stockyards and at the same time interested himself in politics. As a politician he quickly forced to the front, and for many years he has been the undisputed Republican boss of Chicago. Seven times he was elected to congress and was a member of the house when chosen to succeed Albert J. Hopkins as United States senator. He was elected on the ninety-fifth ballot, fifty-five Republicans and fifty-three Democrats contributing to the result. He took his seat June 18, 1909.

Sugar Men and Uncle Sam.

The surprise of the trial of Charles R. Heike, secretary-treasurer of the sugar trust, was the appearance of Oliver Spitzer, superintendent of the piers of the trust during the years in which the sugar weighing frauds were going on. Mr. Heike, who ranks second in importance to President Washington B. Thomas in the affairs of the sugar trust, in company with five other employees, was indicted last January, charged with defrauding the government. The case is before Judge Martin in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court, sitting in New York city.

Spitzer was convicted last December and received a two year sentence at Atlanta. He claimed at the time that he was being made the scapegoat. Spitzer was pardoned by the president through the intercession of Henry L. Stimson, special prosecutor for the government.

Mr. Heike became secretary of the American Sugar Refining company in 1899, and his attorneys lay stress on the fact that the system of fraudulent weighing had been in force two years when he assumed office. He has fought desperately against being put on trial. He has even gone in vain as far as the supreme court of the United States. It is said he is the "highest up" man in the trust that the government will ever get to the bar, and yet it is asserted that he was merely a tool. The directors and officers under whom he acted cannot be brought to justice, it is said, because they covered their tracks too well.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.—By virtue of process issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of Wayne county, and State of Pennsylvania, and to me directed and delivered, I have levied on and will expose to public sale, at the Court House in Honesdale, on FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1910, 2 P. M.

All the defendant's right, title and interest in the following described property, viz:

All those two certain lots or parcel of land situate in the township of Dyberry, county of Wayne, and State of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows:

The first—Beginning at the northeast corner of land of John Nelson which is also the southeast corner of Conrad Pulis farm, at the end of a stone wall; thence by land of Danforth Keys, dec'd., and of Thomas Ballamy, south eleven and one-fourth degrees west thirty-six rods to a white ash tree corner, standing on the verge of ledge of rocks; thence along lands of the said John Nelson, above but near said ledge north fifty-six degrees west eight rods, north thirty-two degrees west eleven and one-half rods to a sugar maple, north eleven degrees west fourteen and eight-tenths rods, and north six degrees west twelve and six-tenths rods to end of stone wall above a high ledge which wall is the division line between land of John Nelson and of said Conrad Pulis farm, belonging to Daniel Hoel; thence by said division wall south twenty-six degrees east twenty-four and one-fourth rods to the place of beginning. Containing three acres and one hundred and forty perches. Being same premises which John Nelson by deed dated October 28, 1867, recorded in D. B. No. 35, page 79, granted to Thomas Ballamy.

The second lot—Beginning at a stones corner of Jacob Hole's land; thence north eighty-one and one-fourth degrees east along the same one hundred and forty-nine and one-half perches to a stones corner; thence north twelve degrees west sixty-six and one-half perches to stones corner of William Pulis; thence south seventy-eight degrees west along the same one hundred and twenty-three perches to a stones corner; thence south twelve and one-fourth degrees west sixty-three and one-half perches to place of beginning. Containing fifty acres more or less.

Being the same premises which Homer Brooks et ux. by deed dated April 23, 1855, recorded in Wayne County D. B. 23, page 522, granted to Thomas Ballamy.

The above premises are the same on which Thomas Ballamy died, seized, and which Charles Ballamy and Thomas H. Ballamy, his executors, by deed dated March 27, 1909, and intended to be recorded, granted to Gertrude M. Hartman.

On said premises are a two-story frame house and barn and over one-half of said land is improved.

Seized and taken in execution as the property of Gertrude M. Hartman at the suit of Thos. H. Ballamy, No. 58 March Term, 1909. Judgment, $1800. Attorney, Kimble.

ALSO

All the defendant's right, title and interest in the following described property, viz:

By virtue of the annexed writ of Fieri Facias, I have this day levied upon and taken in execution all the within described pieces or parcels of land, situate, lying and being in the township of Canaan, county of Wayne, and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

The first—Beginning at a stones corner, being the south-west corner of Lot No. 33, in the Elk Forest tract; thence south eighty-nine and one-half degrees east eighty-nine rods to stones; thence north, along lands of B. Feeney, eighty-nine rods to a corner; thence north eighty-nine and one-half degrees west eighty-nine rods to stones corner; in western line of Lot 33; thence south, along said western line, ninety-one and four-tenths rods to the place of beginning, containing fifty acres, be the same more or less.

The second—Beginning at the said corner of Lot No. 33, in Elk Forest tract; thence north forty-six rods to stake and stoner; thence west seventy-seven and one-half rods to line of land of R. Flemming; thence south, along said Flemming's land, thirty-one degrees east fifty-three and seven-tenths rods to a stake for a corner; thence south eighty-nine and one-half degrees east fifty rods to the place of beginning, containing eighteen acres and fifty-two and one-half perches, be the same more or less.

The third—Bounded on the north by land of Thomas Kennedy; on the east by land of James Nagle; on the south by land deeded to David Moylan; and on the west by lands of the heirs of Jessie Thorp, containing fifty acres, be the same more or less. Being the lands deeded to Andrew Lapushnock, by deed dated 8th June, 1908, and recorded in the office for recording deeds in and for the county of Wayne in Deed Book No. 97, at page 4178 as reference thereto will more fully and at large appear. Upon the premises is a frame house, barns, and other out buildings, apple orchard, and other fruit trees, and largely improved land.

Seized and taken in execution as the property of Andrew Lapushnock, terre tenant, at the suit of W. L. Ferguson, No. 171 Oct. Term, 1908. Judgment, $650. Attorney, Lee.

TAKE NOTICE—All bids and costs must be paid on day of sale or deeds will not be acknowledged.
