

EXEMPT NEW YORK

Direct Nomination Compromise With Hughes.

WANTS TO CORRAL CITY VOTES

Collin H. Woodward in Albany With Amendments to Cobb Bill Which Practically Free Metropolis From Operations of Measure.

Albany, N. Y., June 27.—Governor Hughes, with a view to corraling more New York city Republican legislative votes for the Cobb compromise direct nominations bill, has agreed practically to exempt New York city and all of the counties in the city from the operations of the bill, not only every fourth year, when a mayor is to be elected, but every year.

Collin H. Woodward, secretary of the New York county Republican committee, came to Albany with amendments to the Cobb compromise bill introduced at the special session by Senator Cobb and Assemblyman Green, which accomplish this purpose. Not only that, but other amendments favored by Chairman Griscomb and Secretary Woodward permit delegates to be elected from any district, whether they live in the district or not, and provide that a committeeman for a district need not live in the district he represents.

These provisions also will apply only to New York city. Governor Hughes and Majority Leader Cobb in the senate have agreed to the Griscomb-Woodward amendments, which in effect make the Cobb compromise direct nominations bill apply only to the localities outside of New York city. Some of the Hughes adherents point out that the Democrats should favor this bill, as the direct primaries bill introduced by Senator Grady, with Assemblyman Fritsbie, which was prepared by the Saratoga league, also eliminates New York city from the operations of the bill upon the ground that New York city is not in favor of direct primaries of any sort or description.

The senate and assembly have been adjourning from day to day since last Tuesday in order to make legislative days to count in the constitutional three days' printing of bills. The next business session of the senate will be held next Thursday night. The next business session of the assembly will be held next Thursday morning.

Speaker Wadsworth has telegraphed to the members of the judiciary committee to be here tonight to consider the direct nominations bills and the ward election law amendments. The members of the assembly ways and means committee and of the taxation committee have been telegraphed to be on hand tomorrow morning to consider the bills referred to these committees.

Republicans Discuss Situation.

New York, June 28.—Quite a bunch of New York state Republicans were today talking over the dire situation in the extraordinary session of the legislature at Albany. Assemblyman Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., of the Second district of St. Lawrence sent word that he could not be on hand, as he would have to be in Potsdam, where he was renominated for the assembly yesterday later in the day. Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff of the state committee and Speaker Wadsworth had a talk over the situation. It developed that Chairman Woodruff had had similar assurances from President Taft to those which Speaker Wadsworth received from the president to the effect that the president was greatly interested in legislation in New York state and in all other states looking to primary reform, but that the president did not favor any bill in any state which would abrogate the convention system. It was decided therefore not to make any change in the program of the Republican state organization's attitude at Albany, but to consistently and insistently pursue the course adopted in the regular session of the legislature—that is, to oppose any bill which would do away with the convention system. In view of the decision it was not considered necessary to consult with ex-President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay.

CALL LITTLE BOYS BURGLARS.

Pittsburg Police Arrest Three Brothers For Series of Robberies.

Pittsburg, June 28.—Many daring burglaries are charged against three brothers, the youngest seven years old and the oldest under fifteen, who are now locked up.

The boys are Elmer Ansoott, fifteen; George, thirteen, and Francis, seven. Eight Mount Washington homes are said by the police to have been entered by them in the last three nights, when much booty was taken and hidden in an abandoned coal mine just across the Monongahela river, which they used as a bandits' cave.

Girl Killed in Runaway.

Malone, N. Y., June 28.—Miss Blanche Dalsell of Trout River, a stenographer employed in Montreal, was killed at Trout River in a runaway accident while driving two friends to Constance.

Looks like ever'thing in the world seems right if we jes' wait long enough.

PLOTTING TO KILL

San Miguel's Friends Say He Is Marked For Death.

GUARD CUBAN CONGRESSMAN.

Attack Upon Representative by Fellow Member of Lawmaking Body at Havana Causes Belief in Murder Plot Story.

Havana, June 28.—Congressman Antonio San Miguel is being closely guarded by his friends today. They insist that there is a plot to assassinate him. The attack upon Congressman San Miguel yesterday by Congressman Manuel Lores has caused many to believe the story of the plot, and there is intense uneasiness among the members of the Cuban congress.

Just before the house of representatives reopened yesterday afternoon Congressman Lores approached Congressman San Miguel in the chamber. Amicably enough Senator Lores said to Senator San Miguel, who is the owner and editor of the Lucha, the most influential newspaper in Cuba:

"Hello, San Miguel, I am glad to see you here."

Before Senator San Miguel, a Spaniard by birth and a naturalized Cuban, could reply Lores whipped a revolver from his pocket and shot at him.

Quick as Lores was, General Cullazo, a congressman, was quicker. He threw himself on Lores and spoiled his aim. The bullet missed San Miguel, but sped very close to the head of Gonzales La Musa, leader of the minority in the house.

In a turmoil of excitement Lores was disarmed, and his friends hurried him away.

The attack on Senator San Miguel is said to be the result of a duel being called off which had been arranged between San Miguel and Senator Moleon, one of the supporters of Lores in the house. The seconds arranged the quarrel, and the principals did not meet, an outcome which displeased Senator Lores, it seems.

New York, June 28.—Senator San Miguel is well known in New York and Washington. He has enemies in Cuba. He was of the opinion, even after Palma was elected president of Cuba, that Cuba's annexation to the United States was the only step that would insure permanent peace and prosperity to the island.

While some of the members of last year's Cuban congress started a movement to increase their salary from $300 to $400 a month and others were trying to make their relatives employees of congress, Senator San Miguel announced his intention to devote his salary to the education of five youths of Pinar del Rio province. Some of the native congressmen were deeply chagrined that a naturalized citizen should exhibit a higher degree of patriotism than they.

General Rodriguez, then mayor of Havana, challenged Senator San Miguel to a duel some years ago. Rodriguez considered an article in the Lucha as libelous and attacking the integrity of the mayor's office. The Lucha published a statement disclaiming any intention of attacking the mayor's character, and the duel was not fought.

PECK JURY DISAGREES.

No Verdict in Insurance Case After Forty-five Hours' Deliberation.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 28.—The jury in the case of Willard H. Peck, former secretary of the People's Mutual Life Insurance association and league, charged with perjury, reported to Justice De Angelis that it was unable to agree and was discharged.

The jury had been out since Saturday at 4:30 p. m.

Two Dead in Race Riot.

Jackson, Miss., June 28.—Menger details have reached here of a race riot near Harrisville, Simpson county, on Sunday, which has cost two lives, and from which more trouble is expected. Armed posses of several hundred white men are now in search of negro fugitives.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Bush, Who Is Playing Sensationally For Detroit.

Shortstop Owen Bush of Detroit is the sensation of the American league this season. His fielding and timely batting are helping the Tigers to win many games. Bush is only twenty-one years of age and is the smartest man on the Tigers. In 1907 he was secured from the South Bend (Ind.) team by Detroit. In 1908 he helped Indianapolis to win the pennant, and that fall he joined Detroit in time to enable the Tigers to win the championship. His work in twenty games was a big factor in Detroit's success that year. In 1909 Bush played in 157 championship games and had a fielding average of .925. His record showed 308 putouts, 567 assists and 71 errors, an average of a trifle more than six chances per game.

Pacer Dan Patch Retired.

Dan Patch has been permanently retired from the racing and speed exhibition stage. M. W. Savage, his owner, is authority for the statement that Dan Patch will never again be asked to start in attempts to lower the world's records. He says that this greatest of all horses has done his share of work and that his life from this time on will be spent in enjoying a well earned rest, in watching other harness horses struggle to lower his record and in perpetuating his greatness through his get. While the champion will not be called upon to make any of the mighty efforts that have made him famous, he will still do some traveling and during the summer months and fall will be an attraction at a large number of fairs all over the United States.

Big Baseball War Brewing.

According to a rumor, a big baseball war is brewing between the National and American leagues, and it is scheduled to break at the end of the present season. It is said the National will break away from the American next fall and instead of the two working in harmony, there will be keen competition between them.

If this should come to pass it might furnish better and cheaper baseball, but it would not last and eventually would prove bad for the game. Wars of such a nature invariably fail, and some master hand gathers in all the profits.

National Athletic Meet.

In preparing for the A. A. U. national athletic championships, which will be held in New Orleans this year, a quarter mile cinder track is being constructed which is expected to be the equal of any in the country. It is being modeled after those at the Jamestown and St. Louis expositions. It will have 220 yards straight away for hurdles and the furlong dash. The inner field has football, gridiron and basket ball courts and several jumping and vaulting pits.

Homer Michigan's Track Captain.

Joe Horner of Grand Rapids is captain of the Michigan track team for next season, although he cannot be said to have been elected to the place. Horner and Ralph Craig of Detroit were conceded to be the men between whom lay the honor of the captaincy. The men were so popular that the others on the track team refused to vote and left it to Craig and Horner to decide who was to be captain. They left it to the toss of a coin, and Horner won. He is the intercollegiate champion shot putter.

Changing Teams Sometimes Helps.

Every time a veteran player changes from one team to another a club has to adopt an entirely new set of signals. Tim Murnane says that the continual switching of players from one team to another has been an education all around.

USE FOR A TELESCOPE.

Interesting Discovery One Woman Made by Use of the Glass.

"I thought it was a pretty fair sort of telescope for one that wasn't very big," said Uncle Elias. "I rigged it up in the attic by the high north window and had it fixed so it would swing around easy. I took a deal of satisfaction in looking through it, the sky seemed so wide and full of wonders, so when Hester was here I thought I'd give her the pleasure too. She stayed a long time upstairs and seemed to be enjoying it. When she came down I asked her if she'd discovered anything new."

"Yes," she says. "Why, it made everybody's house seem so near that I seemed to be right beside 'em, and I found out what John Pritchard's folks are doin' in their kitchen. I've wondered what they had a light there for night after night, and I just turned the glass on their windows. They are cuttin' apples to dry—folks as rich as them cuttin' apples!"

"And actually that was all the woman had seen! With the whole heavens before her to spy, she had spent her time prying into the affairs of her neighbors! And there are lots more like her—rich and without telescopes."—Christian Union.

The Poisons of Illuminating Gas.

The poisonous properties of coal gas are generally attributed to its content of carbonic oxide, especially as no other substance of known poisonous properties has been found in it, and patients suffering from coal gas poisoning show the symptoms associated with the inhalation of carbonic oxide, including the peculiar bright red color of the blood.

From experiments made by Dr. von Vahlen, at Halle, it seems probable that we must revise this view, for on making experiments with frogs, animals particularly resistant to carbonic oxide, it was found that they were poisoned far more rapidly by coal gas than by the corresponding amount of the oxide. Other experiments with dogs showed that the poisonous effect of coal gas was two or three times as great as that of the carbonic oxide it contained. Evidently there is some other constituent of coal gas which is poisonous, though what it is cannot yet be stated. Merely removing the carbonic oxide from coal gas will not suffice to render it non-poisonous.—Ironmonger.

Creeping Mountains.

Students who have made geodetic studies in the Himalayas and the Tibetan mountains have brought to light a very strange phenomenon, or one that must be regarded as very strange if it actually exists. It is no less than an apparent creeping of these gigantic mountain ranges, the mightiest on the globe, sidewise toward the south, with a consequent crumpling up of the Siwalk hills. It has long been known that there exist curious anomalies in the density of the earth under and adjacent to the Himalayas, but this suggestion of a creeping motion is novel. The surveys which are still going on may eventually disclose the real facts, but the operation on the Tibetan side are rendered difficult by the fact that access to Tibet is forbidden to foreigners, even when they come only in the name of science.—Youth's Companion.

Breakfast a Generation Ago.

Mush, we used to call it, and each child, bowl and spoon in hand, a big pitcher of milk hard by, awaited the cooking process as mother stirred and stirred the mass bubbled and bubbled, says the Portland Oregonian. The corn meal that went into it was taken from a big bin in a tin scoop and slowly shaken into the boiling water until the experienced eye showed that the mush was thick enough, and when done to the queen's taste it was ladled into the waiting bowls, the pitcher was brought into requisition, and the meal was over in short order. Breakfast food we call it now. It is gingerly shaken by the kitchen maid from a highly ornamented pasteboard box, simmered until by dint of calling and ringing the breakfast bell the children come fretfully to the table, when it is duly served, smothered in sugar and cream, sniffed at and left as a contribution to the slop can. Yes, it costs more this way, but we have got to have it. And so, of course, we have to pay the bill.

The Generous Arab.

"One day when in our wanderings we happened to camp near some rolling country the sheik and I rode off in search of gazelles," says a traveler in Arabia. "We found a large herd, and, being mounted on good horses, we managed to ride them down, throwing ourselves off our horses for the shot, then galloping on again. We killed six gazelles in about an hour and rode back to camp with enough meat for a big feast. It is the custom that whoever kills game should provide a feast for all his friends. On the occasion of these feasts I noticed that there was always a crowd of hangers-on waiting at the end for a scrap of food, half starved looking boys and ragged men. These were orphans whose parents had been killed or men whose herds had been 'lifted' by other Arabs, and as a result they were destitute, for the law of the Bedouin is 'survival of the fittest' in its strictest sense. But the sheik supplied food liberally, and I noticed that he always looked after the poor and fed the hungry."

A Life Saving Order.

Many years ago the American warship Delaware came near foundering off the coast of Sardinia while huffing through a heavy squall during a morning watch. The "unauthorized letting go of the fore sheet" alone saved the ship from going down with 1,100 souls on board. The first lieutenant, afterward Commodore Thomas W. Wyman, with difficult climbing succeeded in reaching the quarterdeck, where, snatching the trumpet from the officer in charge, his first order, given in a voice heard distinctly fore and aft, was, "Keep clear of the paint work!" This command to hundreds of human beings packed in the lee scuppers like sardines in a box instantly restored them to order and prevented a panic, they naturally feeling that if at such a time, with a line of battle ship on her beam ends, clean paint work was of paramount importance their condition could not be a serious one.

The Baby Stare.

Have you ever sat opposite in bus or train to a baby, say, from one to two years old? If you have you have been compelled to notice it. And unless you are a misanthropical person I guess you have caught yourself feeling uncomfortable under its wide eyed scrutiny of you. I think there is nothing more disconcerting than to be rejected by a baby after full and open cross examination. Babies and very young children have no humbug about them. I believe they see more than grownups. I believe they read our characters down to the very ground. While the young mother is interested to find that her baby is being admired that baby is reckoning up both the mother and the admirer, and when the jerky turn of the head comes the man that has music in his soul feels small.—London Scraps.
