Submarine Rams Gunbon. In Maneuvers.

VESSEL IS HURRIEDLY BEACHED

Bonita In Mimic Attack Disables Flagship of Flotilla-Sudden Appearance Entirely Unexpected-Submarines Supposed to Be Far Out at Sea.

Provincetown, Mass., July 12.-The narrow escape of the gunboat Castine from being sunk by the submarine Bonita called attention today to the fact that wonders in navigation beneath the waves are being quietly achieved which are as great, if not as spectacular, as the feats of aviators which are thrilling multitudes in many places. But as the navigators of the submarines operate beneath the surface of the ocean, the attention of the public is rarely attracted to their daring exploits.

The gunboat Castine, flagship of the submarine flotilla, was rammed by the submarine Bonita in the maneuvers and was beached to prevent her from sinking. No one on board was injured.

Two of the plates of the Castine were loosened. Her dynamo and boller compartments between frames No. 19 and No. 51 are flooded, but the bulkheads are said to be holding firm.

The accident happened in a mimic attack on the Castine by the submarines, the Bonita apparently misjudging the distance and striking the gunboat with considerable force. The men on both boats felt the impact and some were momentarily stunned. The Bonita escaped with the slight denting of a portion of her armor and the loss of a small section of her railing.

The "attack" on the Castine was entirely unexpected. Several members of the crew were in swimming when the Bonita suddenly rose beneath the gunboat and as she came up scraped her whole length across the bottom of the Water poured into the lower engine room and the dynamo room compartments of the Castine, flooding them and threatening to extinguish the fires under the boilers. The doors of the water tight compartments were Immediately closed and the Castine started at full speed for the shore. She reached the beach under her own steam and rested easily in shallow water. All her erew remain on board.

The submarines often disappear early in the morning and do not return the entire day, some of their maneuvers being on the surface and some beneath

At the time of the accident not a submarine was in sight, and it was supposed that they were all far out in the bay. The others did not return until two or three hours after the Bonita attorney. had struck the Castine.

President Approves Collector's Gubernatorial Boom.

DISCUSS NEW YORK SITUATION

Outlook For Republican Party This Fall Makes Prospective Candidate Somewhat Shy, but Mr. Taft Takes Optimistic View.

Beverly, Mass., July 12.-Perhaps William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York, didn't come up to Beverly to get the indorsement of President Taft on his embryo gubernatorial boom, but he got it just the same.

The president and the collector had a conference in one of the White House automobiles while the chief excutive was motoring over from the Evans cottage to the Myopia golf links. Later at luncheon at the home of John Hays Hammond they talked things over once again. The president suggested to Mr. Loeb that he enter the race. Mr. Loeb, on the other hand, was not enthusiastic over the prospect at first, but later admitted that after the frequency with which J. It was said that while the collector was not an eager candidate he would hardly for Boston and New York with the idea of seeing Governor Hughes on the return trip.

The conference with President Taft, Loeb's reluctance to get into the fight which politicians think is coming in New York in the fall campaign was based upon the belief that this is not going to be a good year in New York for Republican candidates. The president admitted that there was some sense in this, but was inclined to take the view that things were not nearly as bad as painted or as they appear now. The opinion here is that Mr. Loeb will eventually find his place at the head of the Republican ticket.

Just what President Taft might do to aid Mr. Loeb if he became a candidate is uncertain. On one of his recent trips through New York state the president told the people of Syracuse that he would be back there this fall to see the state fair. This would afford Mr. Taft an excellent opportunity. his friends say, to make his way of thinking known. #### FOOD PRICES AEROAD.

Eighty Cent Bacon In France-Ice

Cream $1.10 a Quart In London. In these modern days meat is the staff of life, and one finds that the staff costs as much abroad as at home, although over there they do not clamor about the price as we do. They merely do without meat.

The cuts are different and called by different names, and the grades are endless. In England the poorest folk can buy meat or meat bones for as low as 4 cents or even 2 cents a pound. And, too, there are often poor qualities in good cuts, and the British, with characteristic impertinence, refer to the worst qualities as "American," quite regardless of their origin.

The best cuts of beef cost in London -where they are given the unattractive name of rump steak-28 to 30 cents a pound, in Paris 30 to 34, in Berlin from 32 to 38.

Bacon is tremendously dear. In France choice brands may mount to 80 cents, and ordinary brands are over 30 cents. In Engand bacon is now about 30 cents, but is rapidly mounting, the increasing scarcity of pigs being responsible for this. Leg of mutton in England costs over 20 cents, in France 25 to 30. Milk in Paris is 11 cents a quart, in London 8 or 9. Plain water ices cost in London 85 cents a quart and ice cream $1.10. the portions being always minute. "It is bad for the health, don't y' know!

What? In England good coffee averages decidedly more than in America, 35 cents being a cheap brand. In France it is very much dearer, 40 cents a pound for a really good blend being a bargain and a "specialite" being over 60. All common coffees abroad are loaded with chicory, which costs 10 cents a pound and adds great deepness of color to the brew.

Good tea costs less in England than in America, ranging from 35 to 75 cents. In France it is very high and always medicinal in taste, and a dealer likes to ask over $1.25 a pound. Butter ranges in all three countries from, say, 30 to 40 cents.

Sugar in England is 5 cents a pound. In France it is a government monopoly and much higher. In London eating chocolate, almost as good as the well known New York or Philadelphia makes, costs 75 cents a pound.-Robert Shackleton in Saturday Evening Post.

The Height of Kings.

A remarkable feature about the physiques of reigning European monarchs is that they are nearly all shorter than their consorts. King George V. is several inches shorter than Queen Mary. The German empress is a trifle taller than the kaiser, who always insists on the empress sitting down when they are photographed together. Czar Nicholas II. looks quite small by the side of the czarina. Alfonso of Spain is a head shorter than Queen Victoria Eugenie, and the king of Italy hardly reaches to the shoulder of Queen Helena. The queen of Denmark, too, is a good deal taller than her husband. Exceptions to the rule are the king of Norway and the new king of the Bel-The latter is six feet two cians. inches in height and the tallest king in Europe.-London M. A. P.

In the past certain Australians made colossal fortunes by exporting millions of rabbits which they secured for nothing. As the story goes, Mr. Van Renselear's difficulty is to find a house big enough for his domestic battalien. They are not building in Ann Arbor to the scale of twenty-five persons for a single domicile. Not out there, as in our fortunate metropolis, do suites of thirty-two rooms and six baths offer themselves at modest rentals of "from $6,500 up." Not the worst intentional Michigan landlord, surveying the train of Van Renselear heirs and heirenses, of the finds it necessary to put up the sign, 'no children taken.

Four of the Van Renselear girls are ready for college. Each owns a cow and none means to let her pursuit of co-educational culture interfere with her duties in the dairy.
