ABOUT THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

Man Who Knows Him Well Describes Personality of John K. Tener.

Some very interesting words regarding the personality and popularity of John Kinley Tener, Republican nominee for governor, were voiced in an interview granted by Chief Burgess Henry E. Ancker in the den of his residence on Jefferson avenue, Bristol, says the Doylestown Intelligencer. Mr. Ancker, who was one of the state delegates who officially notified Mr. Tener of his nomination at Pittsburg July 23. HAS spoke warmly as to the capabilities of Mr. Tener who, in his opinion, will make a splendid run for the office for which he has been named by the Republicans of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Ancker said: "It was an enthusiastic gathering of active Republicans from every part of the state that met in the Americus club in Pittsburg to formally notify John K. Tener of his nomination for governor by the Republicans of Pennsylvania. He is regarded by those who know him as the most representative man in that section. He is a man of education, public experience and financial stability. Later in the day I took a trolley ride over to Charleroi, a town about the size of Bristol-Mr. Tener's home.

They certainly were boosters in that town; men, women and children were rejoicing with exceeding joy. It impressed me so much that I inquired around as to what Mr. Tener had done for the people that endeared him so to their hearts. They told me that since 1891 he has been identified with every move which had in view the improvement of the community and, while still a young man, he is looked upon more as a father than in any other way. He is identified with important business organizations in the Monongahela valley; he is secretary and treasurer of the Charleroi Trust company; he is vice-president of the Webster, Monesen & Fayette Rallway company, and he is president of the Mercantile Bridge company. They told me of his yeoman service for his constituents while in Congress and of his great work as a member of the rivers and harbors committee. They were already organizing a Tener marching club and a Tener glee club to participate in the Republican meetings of the com-

Where did you first meet Mr. Tener?" Mr. Ancker was asked. 'I met him first in the Lochiel hotel. Harrisburg," responded the burgess. "He is of a most prepossessing appearance and while modest and retiring is of an exceptionally strong character. I met him again in the Americus club, Pittsburg, and when I heard him close his speech of acceptance with the expression 'that the people's wish shall be my guide and their approval my greatest reward." I knew that

What do you think of Mr. Tener's chances?" asked the reporter. "If the people of this state will hustle I expect to see an old-fashioned, overwhelming Republican majority. I am not unmindful, howin the field. I note also that many of the more prominent men who have on previous occasions particlpated in the organization of so-called reform tickets are now holding aloof, recognizing the insincerity with which these mushrom parties are tainted, and because they fail to see what good excuse any Republican can have for deserting his party at a time when it has just established a fresh claim upon the confidence of this state. It must not be forgotten by those who interest themselves in public affairs that when Edward S. Stuart was nominated for governor precisely this same talk was heard, then, as now, and the people were assured that the election of Emory was essential to the safety and welfare of the state. Stuart was elected in spite of this opposition and he has admittedly given as good an administration as the state has ever had It is fair to assume that John K. Tener, a business man like Mr. Stuart, will do equally as well."

At that time a peculiar disease was killing the silkworms, bringing ruin to the whole silk country of Italy. Bassi, by the microscope, discovered the germ which is the cause of the disease. The germ later was named Botritis bassiana. Bassi believed and stated that human diseases were also caused by germs. Bassi's work was sneered at and poohpoohed by his fellow men and physicians, and he failed to make a lasting impression, thereby losing great glory for Italia.-New York Press.

The Orkney Islands.

"The member from the Orkneys" is the only man in the British house of commons who can say he sits for 200 islands. Only sixty of the islands are inhabited, but the constituency embraces more than 60,000 people.

The Orkneys were once given by Norway to England as security for a queen's dower and never redeemed. In the islands the voters must go to the polls by boats, and in some cases the distance to be traveled is eight miles.

VERY ORDINARY TEAM.

With Club That Is Inferior to Cubs and Pirates Under His Command. McGraw Is Making Great Showing Mathewson Only Real Star.

By TOMMY CLARK.

For the last year or two fans and critics have been handing bouquets to Fred Clarke of the Pirates, Frank Chance of the Cubs, Hughey Jennings of the Tigers and Connie Mack of the Athletics for their great managerial ability and their wonderful success in keeping their teams in the thickest of the pennant fights year after year. While all four are entitled to all the honors that have been bestowed on them, still there is one other baseball pilot who is entitled to be placed in the game's hall of fame, and he is Johnny McGraw of the New York

For the last few years McGraw has been at the helm of a team that is no: equal in strength in any department to the Cubs or Pirates, yet he has man aged to keep the Giants in the thickest of the pennant fights. This year is no exception. There are no medals on the team that McGraw is trying to pilot to the top of the race this season, but he is right on the heels of the Cubs and

Now look over the team carefully and you will wonder how he has been able to keep it so high up in the race. Take the backstopping department, for instance. It does not compare with the Pirates' or Cubs' in any way. Schiel or Myers does not class with Kling. Archer or Gibson. Schlei is too old and Myers too erratic. Point out one great star in the infield. Merkle on first is not a crackerjack. Doyle on second makes more costly errors than any other second stationer. Bridwell is only a fair shortstop. Devlin at third is about the best of the lot, and he is on the toboggan.

After looking over the infield, gaze on the outer garden. Can you find a Cobb in it? I guess not. McGraw has the weakest left fielder in the National

Give him another crack twirler and a gingery catcher or let him have a Johnny Evers on his infield or a Ty Cobb in the out to inject life into his team and I'll bet he will capture the pennant from the Cubs or Pirates. #### MILLINERY HINTS.

Apt Advice of a Famous French Creator.

IN BLACK AND WHITE TONES.

It requires an expert milliner to decide at a glance what colors, styles, etc., are best suited to a client in search of an attractive hat. But those through pride or sheer love of the subtheir own plans may find helpful adof this famous seashore train. The vice in the theory of an illustrious French milliner on the simultaneous contrast of colors, especially in regard to bats.

> For those who are fair the white hat may be trimmed with white or pink flowers or, better still, blue. The dark person should avoid blue and prefer red, pink or orange.

> The light blue hat is especially suitable for the fair type of wearer. It may be trimmed with white flowers, ers, but never with pink, red or violet. can certainly not dispense with orange or yellow trimmings for it.

The green hat puts value on white carry other white flowers or red flow-

The pink hat should not be worn close to the head. It should be separated by the hair or by a green trim-White flowers, with plenty of leaves, have a good effect in the pink

The hat of a more or less dark red is only advised to those of a very rosy -too rosy, in fact-complexion.

Avoid yellow and orange bats and show hesitation and shyness in regard to the hat of violet, which is always unsuitable for carnations, except when it is separated from them either by the hair or by yellow trimmings. Be equally precautious in regard to yellow hats, which only dark persons can risk with blue or violet trimmings.

The foregoing is the advice of a learned man who has studied the question, and his theory is known to be influenced by it. It is given for what

What to Look For In Buying Beef. In buying ment it must be borne in mind that the price of a certain cut is protect the prisoners, and the sheriff not always a criterion of the food value furnished nor even superiority of flavor, says the Delineator. Take, for instance, the tenderloin, which is the most expensive part of all beef cuts. While there is no doubt about its tenderness, its flavor is really nil and must be enhanced in cookery by the juices from round steak or mushrooms as well as various high spicings. In selecting beef the following points are to be considered:

Insist on seeing the carcass from which the meat is to be cut. If it carries the stamp "U. S., Inspected and Passed." it is a guarantee from the government that the meat b healthy.

Choose fat beef. The fatter the beef the more tender. A prime piece of meat not only carries an outside covering of fat, but the leap meat will be marbled with small specks of yellowish white fat.

Beef and mutton that have been hung some time and kept perfectly sweet will be much more tender. Lamb and veal, being immature, spoil quickly and should be quite fresh.

Meat of any kind should have little odor. It should be firm and dry rather than moist.

Select your meat according to the use for which you intend it and the plumpness of your pocketbook. A general rule is that the market value of meat increases backward from the head, but decreases downward toward the leg. Those muscles which get but little exercise will be tender, while the neck and legs, which are in constant motion, are tough, but juicy. For roasts or broiled steak or chops the prime ribs and the loin will be best, while the neck and legs are better for broths. Tender muscles should be cooked quickly, but the tougher portions require long, slow cooking to soften the fiber.

When Heating Cloths. When hot cloths are needed, either for household or medicinal purposes instead of wringing them out of boiling water, with pain to the hands and possible sloppiness for the patient, heat them in the steamer and thus avoid wringing entirely.

The Era of New Mixed Paints!

This year opens with a deluge of new mixed paints. A condition brought about by our enterprising dealers to get some kind of a mixed paint that would supplant CHILTON'S MIXED PAINTS. Their compounds, being new and heavily advertised may find a sale with the unwary.
