The recent rain came in good season for the potato and oat crops. There are some fields of oats out, but no damage is expected.

The damage done the house of A. M. Black by lightning a week ago was settled by the Wayne Mutual adjuster Wednesday.

Miss Sarah and Miss Lee will be the local school teachers next year.

Has Pennsylvania a State Treasurer?

Secretary of the Commonwealth McAfee has filed a demurrer to the amendable bill in equity of Attorney George E. Etter of Harrisburg to restrain that official from printing the names of any candidates for state treasurer on the official ballot this year. The purpose of this suit is to determine the length of the term to which State Treasurer C. F. Wright is entitled by reason of his appointment by Gov. Stuart.

The demurrer was submitted to Attorney General Todd at his camp in Maine before being filed. It sets forth that Secretary McAfee "by protestation and not admitting any of the matters in the bill of complaint" demurs to the whole of the bill. He claims that the death of Treasurer-elect J. A. Stober caused a vacancy in the office and that under the constitution the general election of Nov. 8, 1910, is the appropriate time for electing a successor to Charles Fred Wright of Susquehanna, now serving as treasurer by appointment of the governor. The provisions of the constitutional amendments, adopted last year and referring to the time for electing a state treasurer, do not cover the case of a vacancy happening more than two months preceding the general election of 1910, it is averred.

Heptasoph Day at Lake Lodore.

Northeastern Pennsylvania from Nanticoke to Forest City and White Mills have a membership of over 3,000 in the Improved Order of Heptasoph. The order is 32 years old this month and the Heptasoph Fraternal association of Northeastern Pennsylvania have arranged for a big outing of the members and their families at Lake Lodore Wednesday. Special trains will leave Wilkes-Barre at 7.30, stopping at all stations. A special train will leave Hawley, stopping at White Mills and Honesdale, to take members from that vicinity. A great game of ball will take place between White Mills and the crack nine from Archbald. The association is giving a prize of $50 to the winning team. The White Mills band is going to help boom the order.

Supreme Archon Morris G. Cohen of Pittsburgh and Supreme Secretary Frank E. Plaitner of Baltimore have given positive assurance that they will attend this outing and make addresses. District Deputy W. L. Allen of Peckville has charge of the games and has arranged contests for men, women and children. Lynott's orchestra of Carbondale will furnish music for dancing. It will be a day of pleasure for all who attend this Heptasoph outing Wednesday.

Knox and His Family at the Gap.

Delaware Water Gap resorts have been entertaining very prominent people this season. The Kittatinny seems to have the larger share of this class of business. The excellent appointments of the house are features that prove attractive to guests.

Hon. P. C. Knox, secretary of state, and Congressman Dalzell were recent visitors there, and the secretary's wife, Mrs. P. C. Knox, and P. C. Knox, Jr., and wife arrived at the Kittatinny Sunday of last week and remained until Monday afternoon, when they left for Massachusetts to join the secretary, who is the guest of President Taft at the latter's summer home in Beverly.

The Knoxes are very much pleased with the Water Gap region. The young man, it will be remembered, was married while attending Yale and it was feared it would cause a family break, but there was a reconciliation between the father and son, if it can really be said there was a break, and now all are happy. The party traveled in an auto.

LAST WEEK IN SEPTEMBER.

Selected for This Year's Annual Tri-County Fair.

The third annual fair of the Tri-County Fair association will be held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 26-29. A large program of events is being arranged. There will be racing the last three days of the fair, pulling matches, a ball game and numerous other diversions in addition to the display of stock, farming utensils, etc., which it is expected will be larger this year than ever before.

Work is now in progress on the premium book, which will probably be ready for mailing about Sept. 1. Liberal premiums will be offered prize winners for all kinds of stock, farm products, fancy work, culinary products, and farming implements. The directors are determined not only to make the coming fair the best in the history of the association, but to place it at once on a par with any country fair in the state.

People Aroused to Value of Game Birds.

"The fact that there are more game birds in Pennsylvania today than there have been for many years," said Secretary Kalbfus of the state game commission "is not due to the efforts of the game commission alone but to the awakened interest of the people of the commonwealth in the birds. They are now realizing that the birds are the best friends of the farmers and that to protect them benefits the state at large."

"I will speak at the Delaware Water Gap hotel upon the birds of this state. There is no meeting there of sportsmen or of any association, but I have simply been asked to address the people of the hotel. This is an indication of the awakened interest in the birds of the state. Frequently I am asked to address gatherings of people who have no interest in birds but do not belong to any association which has for its object the care and protection of our winged friends."

Hidden Streams.

Reference has been made frequently within the past few years to the progress of scientific investigation concerning subterranean streams and rivers. It is a subject of constantly growing importance in connection with the irrigation of desert, or partially desert, regions. The manner in which streams which once flowed on the surface of the earth have buried themselves from sight in places where calcareous rocks abound is well illustrated by the subterranean waters of the valley of Jehoshaphat, near Jerusalem. As Mons. P. Sallier points out, the exploration of these hidden streams in a region covered with places sacred to three religions—Christian, Jewish and Mohammedan—is confronted by peculiar difficulties. But enough has been discovered to make it certain that beneath this dry and barren-looking district flows an abundance of water, and some of the fountains famous in Scripture story owe their existence to this subterranean source.

ANNIVERSARY OF WRECK.

John Kinsilla and M. F. Fritz Only Survivors of Accident.

On Aug. 13, 1888, on the Erie, occurred the great railroad wreck at Shohola, when engineer John Kinsilla was pinned under his engine and disfigured for life. He was taken to Port Jervis on a stretcher, and it did not seem possible for him to recover, so badly injured was he. But he did, and for a number of years he continued to pull the throttle over the Delaware division. Mr. Kinsilla's fireman, Alexander Newman, was killed.

Of the Erie men from Port Jervis who were in that horrible wreck of 22 years ago only Mr. Kinsilla of that city and Engineer M. F. Fritz of Honesdale, now on trains 28 and 143, survive.

A heavy fall of rain caused some rocks to slide on the track and derail two trains.

Montrose Youths Try Strike Breaker's Life.

When charges of rioting against two men were not pressed in court at New London, Conn., it became known that these two participants in the outbreak of strikebreakers, brought there by the Central Vermont recently, are members of prominent Pennsylvania families.

They are Samuel M. Allen, a law student and son of District Attorney Allen of Montrose, and Edward Ames, a clerk, whose uncle, W. E. Burdick, a prominent attorney, was in court.

ABOUT TOMATO STALK BORERS.

Mow Weeds Early in Summer Months and September, Says Surface.

A Justice of the peace in Juniata forwarded to State Zoologist H. A. Surface a tomato stalk which, he said, had been attacked by a pest new in his section and one that is causing much damage.

Professor Surface gave the following information, which will be found useful to all who are growing tomatoes:

"The insect which you sent to us in the stalk of tomato is known as the stalk borer. This borer through the plant, and, as you say, soon destroys it. I have many reports of this pest each year boring in the stalks of tomatoes and various other plants, as well as sometimes corn."

"As this borer lives mostly in the stalks of large weeds, it is very important that the large weeds be mowed during the early part of each of the months of July, August and September, so as to destroy these borers before reaching maturity. This, together with the pulling and burning of infested plants, and the burning of vines of tomatoes and potatoes, as soon as the crop is gathered will do as much as anything toward helping you to keep it in subjection, and in preventing much more serious damage from it another year."

"This is one of the destructive pests of potatoes, having recently increased considerably in this state, but if the stems of potatoes and tomatoes are sprayed well with either Paris green or arsenate of lead, this should kill the larvae before they enter the stalks and just after they hatch from the egg on exactly the same principle as the Codling moth is killed by the arsenical poisons on the apple by hitting it when starting to eat its way through the fruit."

Pure air both indoors and outdoors is absolutely essential to health and longevity. Never allow yourself to remain in a poisoned or vitiated atmosphere.

FOOD COMMISSIONER BUSY.

Has Had 332 Cases Under Several Acts Since Jan. 1.

Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust states that since Jan. 1 there have been 332 cases terminated under the several food acts, 188 under the oleomargarine act, 21 for the illegal sale of ice cream, 3 for the sale of milk containing formaldehyde, 19 for the sale of milks and cream otherwise adulterated, 20 for the sale of rotten eggs and 81 other cases under the general and other special food laws.

The total receipts of the office, including fines and oleomargarine licenses from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1, were $30,853.32. The results of the work for the year thus far have shown a very marked improvement in the purity and in the labeling of food products, especially in the condition of the market milk as to preservatives greatly improved, so that today the use of preservatives is extremely rare. Likewise the pop drinks, which until recently were largely sweetened with saccharin, are now rarely found to contain that coal tar preparation.

It is notable, however, that in Philadelphia particularly there has been considerable sale of "rots and spots" by dealers in eggs and rather frequent use of coal tar dyes to color cakes. In ice cream the chief point of failure to conform with the state law has been due to a deficiency in butter-fat.

Human Life For August.

The remarkable story of Miles Polindexter, the standard bearer of insurgency from the far West, who has become a national figure in his first term in Congress, is one of the leading articles in Human Life for August.

"Shall There be a Monopoly of the Air?" is a question that far-seeing men are beginning to ask, realizing that it is likely before long to overtop all others in world-wide interest and importance. Hiram Moe Greene handles this subject in masterly fashion, and offers an original and practical solution.

Roosevelt's battles in the political arena at the outset of his career, always as the fearless champion of the common good, are of profound interest as told in Alfred Henry Lewis's great serial, "The Story of Roosevelt," in this issue.

The second in the series on great American captains of industry appears in this number, and the story of Heinz, the "condiment King," is an Arabian Nights wonder tale of a man who has reared an industry of truly astounding proportions from the humblest of beginnings.

The great free West recruits its reform leaders from all ranks, but the story of Rody Kenenah, blacksmith and state auditor of Colorado, is certainly one of the most unique ever written.

The love of pictures is as old as the race itself, and there is a wealth of them in this issue. Crisp, scintillating editorials on people in the limelight and numerous thumbnail sketches of the great and near-great complete this excellent number.
