67th YEAR.

HONESDALE, WAYNE CO., PA., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1910.

NO 70

OFF FOR PHILLIE

TRAMPER TABER, ON WAY FROM AUBURN TO QUAKER CITY, GOES THROUGH WAYNE COUNTY AND EATS AND SLEEPS AT WINSTONE AND HONESDALE—AVERAGES OVER 20 MILES A DAY.

A tall, lathy, pleasant-faced young fellow with eyeglasses and a cane walked into the Wayne hotel at 6 o'clock Wednesday night and said he was walking from Auburn, N. Y., to Philadelphia and guessed Honesdale would be a good place to stop over night.

Mr. Taber walked from Auburn to Chenango Forks, N. Y., from Chenango to Deposit, Deposit to Scott centre, Scott to Lake Como, Lake Como to Winstone, where the tired but confident trumper slept Tuesday night.

"How many miles a day do you walk on an average?" Mr. Taber was asked.

"About 22 or 23," he replied, "but it all depends. Some days I feel like getting in 30, and I do it. Other days, passing through a beautiful strip of country or meeting friendly farmers, I stop to look and talk. There is no money inducement to get up my speed. I'm out for fun and health."

"How about the expense of such a trip?"

"Well, it is fairly expensive. It costs me $2 or $3 a day to keep going, for I stop at good hotels when I can."

"How are your feet?" butted in a bystander on the hotel piazza. Mr. Taber laughed.

"Only one blister," he said, "and that one's coming nicely. I cut it open and treated it, and then I put on cohesive plaster. That's the best way."

"What do you think of Pennsylvania roads?"

"Some of them are good, but the average road in New York goes ahead of them. They post notices warning drivers not to keep right along in the same rut and to use wide tires. The good roads sentiment is powerful in the lower tier of York state counties."

Mr. Taber will start today for Stroudsburg. His baggage was shipped there from Chenango. He is due in Philadelphia Sept. 15.

"But I can't tell you the precise day when I shall hang up my hat in the city of Brotherly Love," he added. "I may find some village that appeals to me and stop over there for a day or two."

He thinks Wayne county is a beautiful region. Unlike Edward Payson Weston, Mr. Taber is out solely for the fun of the outing. Unlike the veteran trumper, too, he lopes from the hip, does not swing his arms and shoulders violently, and does not howl and swear at everything that gets in the way of his pedestrian progress. His walks, which have taken him through many states and to hundreds of interesting places, are taken goodnaturedly and Mr. Taber says he has hundreds of acquaintances in New York and Ohio and Michigan and California who want him to call again.

LARKIN AND WATER WAGONS.

Prohibition Candidate for Governor Asks City Sprinklers as Advertisement.

SCRANTON, Sept. 1.—Madison F. Larkin, prohibition candidate for governor, wants to use the city sprinkling wagons in the Labor day parade to advertise his candidacy on the cold-water ticket.

Mr. Larkin made his request at the office of Director of Public Works C. V. Terwilliger. He said he understood the city had six water wagons and so wanted to use two of them.

"I will cover the sides of the wagon with posters," said Mr. Larkin. "We will bring up the rear of the Labor day parade just after the industrial division."

The request was taken under advisement by the director. The fact that Scranton's first candidate for governor would take advantage of water wagons to urge his candidacy, and especially at the tail end of a Labor day parade, shows that Mr. Larkin is alive to the power of advertising.

Local Option and Anti-Saloon Talks.

Prof. Bromley Smith of Bucknell university will speak on "Local Option" Sunday at Calkins at 11 a. m., at Milanville at 3 p. m. and at Tyler Hill at 7.30 p. m.

Rev. C. H. Brandt, district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, will occupy the pulpit of Damascus M. E. church Sunday, Sept. 11, at 11 a. m.; at Gallilee at 2.30 p. m., and at Abrahamsville at 7.30 p. m.

BERRY IN CHURCH?

CAN'T SEEM TO GET PERMISSION TO PREACH FROM PULPIT IN LANCASTER COUNTY—GOOD STORY TOLD AT EXPENSE OF KEYSTONE GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE AND HIS DISTRICT COMMITTEEMAN.

TERRE HILL, Sept. 1.—While B. W. Weaver was calling on his neighbor, Mr. Kline, the Keystone party committeeman from that district called and asked Mr. Kline, who is one of the trustees of the church, if he could have the use of the church for W. H. Berry to preach in. Mr. Kline asked him if Mr. Berry was a preacher. The man said yes—that Berry was a local minister going from town to town Sundays to preach and that he had the consent of the other trustees, but it was up to Mr. Kline and whatever he said they would agree to.

Mr. Kline then asked:

"Why does Mr. Berry want to come here?"

"Why," the man answered, "he is going all over the state to preach and he wants to preach in Lancaster county."

Mr. Kline then said:

"Why, yes, we would like to hear Mr. Berry very much, but we would like to set the date."

The man said that would be all right.

"Well, then," Mr. Kline said, "we will wait until after election to hear Mr. Berry."

The Berry man said:

"Oh, that will never do! He wants to come before election."

"Well, then," Mr. Kline said, "this church is dedicated to religion, not to politics."

Berry will not come.

IN HOME TOWN OF TENER.

Republican State Campaign Will Open Saturday Night.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 1.—Saturday night at Charleroi the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania will be officially opened, when Congressman John K. Tener, candidate for governor, will address his home people. Afterward there will be considerable public speaking and the orators will appear in every section of the state.

Gov. Edwin S. Stuart will make four addresses in behalf of Mr. Tener, speaking at Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Scranton and Altoona. What Gov. Stuart has to say upon the subject will be heard with much interest, for there is no man in the state in whom the people have greater confidence.

James Scarlet whose splendid record in the prosecution of the state capitol grafters is known to every voter in the state, will also make several addresses for the Charleroi candidate. It will be recalled that the Keystone ticket sought Mr. Scarlet, but he refused to have anything to do with the disappointed crew of office-seekers composing that organization. Lieut. Gov. Murphy, Thomas F. Murphy, Senator Sproul and Senator Crow will be among the Republican campaigners.

CARBONDALE'S NEXT GAME.

Murtaugh's Pets Will Take on Chadwick Team Next.

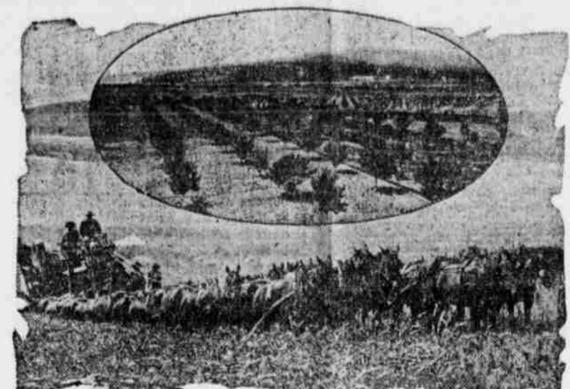

CARBONDALE, Sept. 1.—Manager Murtaugh has completed arrangements with Harry Tighe, manager of the Chadwick team of New York state, to play here Sunday. The Chadwick team is one of the fastest amateur aggregations in lower New York, and a good game is expected. Mr. Tighe, the manager of the Chadwick team, is a former resident of this city and has many friends here. He plays on the Chadwick team and had some reputation as a ballplayer when he resided in this city some years ago.

Manager Murtaugh is making arrangements with Dr. Knapp, manager of the Forest City team, for a series of three games. Forest City succeeded in winning two of the three games played with the locals this season, but since the local team has been greatly strengthened "Nick" is confident of winning a series from the Forest City boys.

BENNETT TO STUMP MAINE.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Representative William S. Bennett spent yesterday in town with his family, who are summering here. He has just returned from the Tioga county fair, which was held at Newark Valley, and was the guest of Congressman John Dwight, the Republican whip of the house of representatives, whose home is at Dryden. Mr. Bennett delivered an address on the fairgrounds. He will leave the latter part of this week for Portland, Me., to take part in the Congressional campaign in that state.

Western Farmers Gather Golden Grain; Are Ready to Pick Apples

The harvest season is in full swing in the far west, and hundreds of great combined harvesters drawn by many spans of horses are cutting the golden grain, separating the chaff from the seed and sacking it ready for shipment to the big flour mills of the east. Apples, too, are nearly ready for the pickers in the northwest, and the orchardists expect one of the largest crops in the history of the industry. Homes for 7,000 families will be provided in central Washington this fall by the opening to settlement of more than 1,000,000 acres of land on the Yakima Indian reservation, and, as all this will doubtless be devoted to the raising of small fruit, vegetables and grain, a few years from now will probably see still greater activity in the newest part of the United States.

SHARPER SKINS A PRIEST.

Fr. Walsh of Forest City Out, He Won't Say How Much.

STROUDSBURG, Sept. 1.—William McDermott, held in Buffalo for extradition to the jurisdiction of the Monroe county courts on the charge of a diamond robbery and obtaining money by false pretenses, is also wanted for larceny in Forest City, the complainant being Rev. R. H. Walsh of St. Agnes' Catholic church. Father Walsh wrote the Monroe authorities that McDermott worked him in a confidence game. He was sent out to make a purchase, but instead borrowed money from the merchant and with what was given him by the priest he made a hasty exit.

Father Walsh says that if McDermott had his just deserts "he would be put in a penitentiary and kept there."

TREATED FOR A BAD FOOT.

CARBONDALE, Sept. 1.—Frank Burnett of Waymart was admitted to Emergency hospital Tuesday, where he will undergo an operation. Mr. Burnett had his foot injured several months ago.

GIANTS GET CRANSTON.

Man Who Started Diamond Career In Carbondale Makes Good.

CARBONDALE, Sept. 1.—Manager McGraw of the Giants has announced the purchase of Billy Cranston, who played in this city, from the Denver team of the Western association. Bill has been putting up a star game and batting over .300 for Denver, which team is now leading the league.

Cranston is playing short. He was released when a general all-around cleanout was made in Kansas City a few months ago. The Kaw City nine was in bad shape and a whole new infield and pitching staff was signed.

It will be remembered that Bill got his start in this city with the old Association team.

Sullivan's Fair Receipts Increased.

The Sullivan, N. Y., county fair receipts this year are about $400 in excess of last year and more than any other year in the history of the society. They are divided as follows: Gate receipts $1,686.07; grandstand $201.55; privileges $588.50; advertising $63.00. Total $2,539.12.

PLATFORM OF STATE GRANGE.

The platform for the state grange, to be carried out by the legislative committee, was adopted by the executive and legislative committee of the grange just before the adjournment of its sessions at the Bolton house, Harrisburg. The platform, copies of which will be widely distributed among the Grangers of the state for action by the local granges, is as follows:

"The Pennsylvania State grange stands squarely for the following principles, which we want adopted and enforced. To this end we earnestly recommend that each grange set apart a number of meetings for the discussion of these questions and report their action to the worthy master of state grange before the coming annual meeting of the state grange. The legislative committee was formed to aid in securing the passage and enforcement of laws of which we approve and the influence of your committee in securing legislation depends primarily upon the fidelity of the membership in selecting favorable legislation and in urging them both directly and through your committee to vote for these principles. A thorough discussion of these questions will do much to clarify sentiment and a definite report discloses the unity of the opinion.

1. Equalization of taxation—(a) By relieving real estate of taxation by increasing state appropriation for local purposes, viz: schools and roads. (b) A law to pay school districts the minimum salary of teachers for the minimum school term. (c) An appropriation from the state to townships of 100 per cent. of tax raised by townships for road purposes up to $25 per mile. (d) The enforcement of the constitutional provision for taxing all classes of subjects uniformly.

2. The initiative, referendum, recall—(a) As it applies to all branches of local government and to all matters which affect the public in the different units of government. (This means local option on all subjects as well as upon the traffic in liquor.)

"1. We favor the parcels post.

"2. We favor the election of United States senators by popular vote.

"3. We favor conservation of timber and mineral lands.

"4. We are opposed to ship subsidy.

"5. We are opposed to a centralized bank.

"6. We are opposed to American-made goods being sold cheaper abroad than at home."

OLD GRAVITY BOYS ROWLAND IS DEAD

WILL MEET AT NAY AUG PARK SATURDAY TO TALK OVER THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS OF NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA RAILROADING—ARIEL MAN ON COMMITTEE.

SCRANTON, Sept. 1.—The "Old Gravity Boys," who years ago piloted cars from Hawley to Port Blanchard over the Pennsylvania Coal company's system and over the Delaware & Hudson between Honesdale and Olyphant, are getting ready for their annual reunion, to be held Saturday at Nay Aug park, just out of Scranton. It is expected that several hundred former employees of the two roads will gather to talk over old times and relate the experiences of those good old days.

These annual meetings always prove enjoyable. The association was formed several years following the abandonment of the Gravity system and each succeeding year finds much enthusiasm manifested at the reunion. The Gravity men from every town along the routes of the Pennsylvania and the D. & H. will, it is expected, attend this event. The president is A. C. Snyder of Dunmore. Deputy County Controller Charles P. Savage is the secretary. New officers are to be elected at Saturday's meeting.

The committee arranging for this reunion is composed of S. A. Dietz, P. J. Foster and E. A. Wonnacott of Carbondale, William D. Bigait and William E. Borrell of Dunmore and Albert Shaffer of Lake Ariel.

William Katz Takes Scranton Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Katz, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Katz, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Freeman, Samuel J. Katz, Mrs. E. A. Katz and Joseph Katz have been at Harvey's lake, near Wilkes-Barre, today to witness the marriage of William Katz, one of the best liked young business men in Honesdale, and Miss Maud Morris of Scranton, who were united at noon, Rev. Salsmann tying the knot.

The happy couple, after the wedding feast and other festivities, which are being held this afternoon, will go for a wedding trip through New York state, their itinerary including Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Upon their arrival in Honesdale they will commence housekeeping in the Steinman house, which has been fitted up in the finest sort of shape for their comfort and convenience.

Honesdale, Scranton and other relatives and friends gave Mr. and Mrs. Katz a great many very substantial evidences of their confidence and good wishes. The bride is an estimable young woman, whose friends in Scranton and outside are as numerous as her acquaintances. Honesdale friends expect to give Mr. Katz a welcome he can always remember when, about Sept. 12, he comes home with his bride. He is a member of the Greater Honesdale Board of Trade and as soon as placed on the membership committee he went out and got 25 business and professional men to join the organization and pay $2 apiece for dues. Like all the Katz people in Honesdale, he is public-spirited.

BOYS FINED $5 EACH.

They Stoned Non-Union Man and Shouted "Scab" at Him.

Emil Herbeck and Attorney P. H. Hoff, the Herbeck-Demer people's lawyer, called on Justice Robert A. Smith this forenoon at 11 o'clock and got warrants for Peter Goodlin, Benjamin Breidenstein and Charles Vicinus, who were charged with disorderly conduct in throwing stones at a non-union workman and shouting "scab" and other names. The alleged offence was committed about a fortnight back.

Detective Spencer went after the trio, all glass shop employees, and had them in front of Justice Smith at 2.30 this afternoon. They had no counsel, and they all promptly pleaded guilty. The three witnesses were told they could go.

Mr. Hoff urged the court to give the boys the fine limit.

"This thing," he said, "has been going on too long. There has been too much of this business of shouting 'Scab' at men who don't belong to the union. The peace and dignity of the community these young men must be taught to respect. A $10 fine for each of them would be none too much."

Justice Smith gave the three a sharp lecture and fined them $5 apiece. He told them some man with real estate must guarantee the payment of $8.91 within five days.

At 3 o'clock P. J. Moran, who offered to help the boys out, was telephoning to their friends to keep the three young men out of jail.

C. W. Seaman of Carbondale spent Sunday with Honesdale relatives. Mrs. Seaman and daughter, Marcenia, who have been visiting friends the past week, returned with him Sunday.

POPULAR LAWYER MOURNED BY HUNDREDS OF FRIENDS IN TWO COUNTIES—ONE OF THE MOST GENIAL AND WINNING OF MEN, HIS KINDLY PRESENCE WILL BE MISSED UNIVERSALLY.

Orville Lafayette Rowland—"Cap" Rowland his hundreds of friends affectionately called him—died Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 at his home, 309 Tenth street, of congestion of the brain. He had been alling several weeks and for four or five days before the end came his condition was critical. Hope was abandoned Tuesday noon, when Dr. H. B. Ely and Dr. F. W. Powell, the attending physicians, told Mrs. Rowland and the children that the husband and father of their home could not possibly get through another night and might breathe his last before sundown. The wife, son and daughter of Mr. Rowland were at the bedside when the struggle ended.

Never a man to complain, Mr. Rowland kept up and dressed as long as he could and did not go to bed until Saturday. Up to that time he had lain down a good deal, but always went to the table regularly for his meals. He lost a good deal of flesh lately. When in his proper condition he weighed something like 195 pounds, but he lost 10 or 15 pounds during August.

One of Mr. Rowland's closest friends was Dr. Harry B. Searles. To him he said on the street one day last week:

"My head bothers me all the time. I don't know what's the matter with me."

Dr. Searles advised him to see his physician without delay and Mr. Rowland did that. He was advised to rest and take things easy for a time. Soon after that he went to bed.

There was no man in Wayne county who had more warm and devoted personal friends than Orville L. Rowland. He was an exceedingly genial, frank and companionable man, and he was free from the smallest suspicion of professional crookedness. Many who knew him well say he was far and away too tenderhearted to be a lawyer. He bated to see people in trouble. He generally advised people to steer clear of the law, though he could have materially augmented his income by steering them into it. All his brother lawyers respected his high moral standards and the thoroughness of his legal learning. One of them, who is not quoted by name, said today:

"Rowland, like all of us, was sometimes approached by parties with a crooked scheme to put through. They would ask him, say, how $2,000 could be made by this trick or that. He invariably gave them a patient hearing, for Rowland was always patient, and then he'd say:

"Yes, that thing can be done, but don't count on me to help you do it."

Mr. Rowland's mental equipment for the law was very noticeable, even to laymen. He had a very retentive memory and an excellent command of clear, idiomatic English, though he never tried to be a fancy speaker. He was eminently peaceable in temperament and disliked to engage in disputes outside the necessary arguments of the courtroom or to hear wrangling on the part of others. It was frequently said of him that he could calm discordant factions with fewer words than any other man in Wayne county.

In outdoor sports Mr. Rowland was particularly interested. He loved to shoot and fish, and every fall he made it a point to drop law business for a fortnight in order to go over into the woods of Pike county and rough it. He was a good shot and handy with rod and line. He was an ideal hunting and fishing companion and men that had been in the Pike woods once with "Cap" Rowland were always eager to go again.

Mr. Rowland had just turned his half century. He was born at Rowlands, the Pike county village that long ago was named for the family, Nov. 21, 1859. His father was George H. and his mother Katherine Rowland. He went to school at Rowlands and was a diligent student. At 15 he entered Wyoming seminary and at 19 graduated. He had decided to be a lawyer and from Wyoming he went to Albany, N. Y. Law school and studied three years.

Mr. Rowland's wife was Harriet Julia Genung, daughter of Ezra and Nancy Genung of Honesdale. The wedding took place here on Sept. 12, 1888. Rev. George C. Hall, at that time settled over Grace church, tying the knot. Mr. and Mrs. Rowland had two children. Harold Genung, their son, has lived here all
