LOCAL MENTION.

Judge Searle goes to Wilkes-Barre Sept. 27 to hold court for several days.

Married, at the M. E. parsonage, Hancock, N. Y., Sept. 13, by the Rev. J. C. Coddington, Miss Nora E. Finkle to Jay L. Card, both of Winwood, Preston township.

Arrangements have just been perfected for continuing the new Dyberry state road 1000 feet further north. This will carry it to a point known as Nelson's bridge.

The rowdies have smashed another bench in Central park. The concrete benches that have been proposed for this and other Honesdale parks cannot come too soon.

John Burcher of North Main street is the champion tomato grower of this section. We saw last week a specimen of the vegetable picked from one of his vines, that weighed two pounds and three ounces.

State Highway Engineer Arthur W. Long of Scranton paid one of his latest visits to the Dyberry road Saturday. He left at noon for home, intending to go from Scranton to Wilkes-Barre, the home of some of his warmest friends, to pass Sunday.

A novel claim for $68.21 was filed against the state of New York by Emily Ennis of Newburg for damages to her drug store on Broadway July 7, due to a stray deer that had wandered into the city. She says in her papers the deer entered the store by breaking a glass in the front door, and that afterward it smashed a French plate glass mirror and one of the show-cases in the store, breaking various bottles of chemicals which were on a shelf.

The advertising and press committee of the Greater Honesdale Board of Trade want all buyers of tags to wear them until Oct. 5, the real Tag day of the Wayne county fair. The sale thus far has been generous and the 40 or 50 girls from high school, stores and shops are prosecuting a vigorous canvass. There are five good cash prizes for the lassies that sell the most "Remember you haven't got all your buttons until you get the Board of Trade buttons," said a member of the advertising and press committee Monday.

Romanthian M. Stocker, lawyer, editor, historian, churchman and poultryman, declares in response to inquiries that he did not positively agree to print gratuitously the prize ribbons for the poultry show at the Wayne county fair. It had been reported by some of his brother hen fanciers that he offered to do this job without money and without price to help a deserving cause along, but Mr. Stocker is emphatic in his statement that he only said he might do it when the matter was broached at a poultry meeting more than three weeks ago in Hawley. In course of time, he says, there showed up a man willing to print them for a couple of cents apiece and do an artistic job, and it is to pay for this, Mr. Stocker says, that the hat has been passed around among the Honesdale, White Mills, Hawley and Bethany poultrymen.

Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Tolley observed their golden wedding Friday evening at their home on East Extension street. Scores of friends called during the afternoon and evening to congratulate the couple and extend their best wishes for more happy years together. About 75 people shook hands with the venerable clergyman and his wife and the presents were numerous and appropriate, their Methodist friends contributing a purse of $50 in gold. Rev. W. H. Hiller, who made the presentation speech, praised the good lives of Mr. and Mrs. Tolley and wished them peace and prosperity. The children gave their father a gold-headed cane. There were three boys, Fred, Adolph and George, present, and the two girls. Rev. Samuel Tolley was married to Emily Perry at the Wesleyan church in Truro, Cornwall, England, Sept. 16, 1860. They resided in England 12 years, where five boys were born. They came to America in 1872, Mr. Tolley being a shoemaker. They resided in Providence five years, when they moved to Honesdale. Mr. Tolley commenced as an exhorter in the Wesleyan church before he was married. He took deacon's orders in Providence and came to Honesdale in 1877, where he took elder's orders. He preached as supply until four years ago, when he took a regular charge. He is now preaching at Campville, N. Y.

Secretary E. W. Gammell of the Wayne County Agricultural society will take in the Oneonta fair.

Married, by Rev. Will H. Hiller Thursday, Sept. 15, William P. Quick and Lydia Munson of Bohemia.

Horticultural Inspector W. H. Bullock of Dyberry is winding up orchard work in Berlin township and then will have an interesting report for print.

Miss Maud Robertson of Chester has been appointed superintendent of nurses at the Scranton State hospital, succeeding Miss Sarah Ebersole, who resigned several months ago. Miss Robertson is superintendent of the Chester City hospital and comes highly recommended. The position at the State pays $1,200 a year.

Mrs. E. C. Mumford on Saturday entertained informally in honor of Mrs. Sam Foster of Syracuse, N. Y., who is greeting Wayne county friends this week. Monday Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Mumford accompanied Mrs. John D. Weston in the Weston car to Forest lake, where the well known hospitality of the Weston bungalow is up to par.

It is said that M. Morris Moskovitz, the Scranton lawyer against whom several indictments of forgery were found by the grand jury of Lackawanna county, and who decamped several months ago, leaving a wide trail of debts, is preparing to return to the Electric City and pay off his debts, amounting to about $3,000. It is said that he married a wealthy foreign girl and she is anxious to have her husband clear his name.

The funeral of Elizabeth Shanley Voligt, wife of Dr. Arno C. Voligt of Hawley, was held from St. John's Catholic church Saturday morning at 10, with a solemn requiem mass. Rev. Thomas M. Hanley was celebrant, Rev. Thomas Burke of Hawley deacon and Rev. Edward Burke of Honesdale sub-deacon. Many relatives from out of town were present. The flowers from Honesdale and Hawley relatives and friends were numerous and beautiful. Burial was in Honesdale.

Graham Watts, P. R. Collum, H. Wilson, Samuel Found, Charles Avery, Joel G. Hill, Daniel Kimbel, Louis Lybolt and David Wilcox of Capt. Ham Post, G. A. R., went to the national encampment at Atlantic City Saturday over the D. & H. to Scanton and thence down the D. L. & W., to Philadelphia and the Jersey coast resort. Judge Wilcox kept the party in good spirits by his drollery and cards received by the home folks several of the veterans today report a safe, sane and speedy journey to the encampment, which is one of the best in years.

Chris Hartung took the 2.48 Erie train Friday for New York and from New York he went to Washington. He said as he boarded the train that he expected to be busy in Washington for a time on the government job for which he some weeks ago applied and that he believed he would eventually be sent by the Panama canal commission to work on the isthmus. Mr. Hartung is still interested with Fred W. Michels of the Nicketel. Since he and Mr. Michels took the lease a month or so ago he has given all his time to the picture house and has handled the patronage courteously.

Representative Leo Fuerth, who has commenced his active electioneering for another term at Harrisburg, said today that he has found a whole lot of Honesdale hospital sentiment in Hawley, White Mills, Waymart, Oregon township, Berlin township and other parts of the county he has visited the past few days. Women in Hawley, White Mills and Waymart, he says, told him they thought each of their villages ought to have a hospital tag day, like the one Honesdale is to have. Mr. Fuerth has brought this friendly feeling on the part of people in nearby places to the attention of the women now boosting the hospital and they may talk it over at their meeting this afternoon, which started in the assembly room of the Lyric at 3, Mrs. W. H. Swift, president pro tem, in the chair.

State Road Inspector J. M. Hale shares the unflattering view of several of our good roads men cognate to the kind of work now being done on the Seelyville road. Mr. Hale said Monday that the wisest way for the township supervisors to have gone about the job would have been to use three-quarter stone to reduce the depressions, putting 40-per-cent asphalt oil on top after the stone had been properly rolled. This, he says, would have put the road in such shape that for 10 years it would require no attention. The depressions have been filled with stone varying from the three-inch stuff down to dust and this crude treatment has not been rolled. Already, according to the state inspector and others that have seen the job, the road has commenced to roll from gutter to gutter. The stuff the supervisors have put on the Seelyville road might, Mr. Hale thinks, have been used to good advantage on other roads in Texas.

The Tener buttons, wares of them, are now on the job in Honesdale and Wayne county. Saturday County Chairman M. E. Simons received quite a small cargo from Republican state headquarters and he at once commenced the congenial task of distribution. The first shoe-box full was emptied during the forenoon. Buttons were sent to Republican workers in the townships, and today the face, a handsome one, of the next governor of Pennsylvania beams from coat lapels all over the county. The Grip buttons are not much in evidence. Speaking of Berry buttons, the principal Berry boomer in this locality, Fred G. Tolley, said Saturday he did not know for a certainty that there would be any but he took occasion to tell folks that buttons or no buttons, flags or no flags, noise or no noise, Mr. Berry is going to carry Wayne county by a comfortable margin and be elected governor of Pennsylvania. There is a dinner bet on this Tener-Berry contest in which Fred Tolley and three other Honesdale men will participate.

Sebastian Schoell, 12 years old, a son of Fred Schoell, has typhoid.

N. E. Bigelow of Niagara has 25,000 celery plants for fall shipment.

Mrs. A. C. Tolley will sing at the prayer meeting of Central Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday evening.

"The Lottery Man," which is booked for the Lyric Sept. 23, was one of Broadway's most successful comedies last season.

Miss Emma Patterson was pleasantly surprised at her home on Church street by a number of her friends Friday evening.

The members of Pleasant Valley Grange, No. 1074, will hold a social at their Grange hall at Dyberry Saturday. A chicken dinner will be served at 35 cents each. All are invited.

The Erie will not hold its train on the main line at Lackawanna to accommodate delegates to the Sunday school convention at Damascus Sept. 30. Delegates will have to make other arrangements.

George A. Allen of Mt. Pleasant, who has been in jail a fortnight for assault on his father and mother, Monday pleaded guilty to assault and battery and sentence was suspended on the defendant's good behavior.

The Irving Cut Glass team kicked the National Elevator team, 5 to 2, in Sunday's game at Bunnell's pond. Mangan for the Irving's struck out 14 men and Mower for the Machinists mowed down 11. Irving made 12 hits and the Machinists four. The final game comes Sunday at 2.30 and it will be for blood. A rather heavy crowd is anticipated.

Mayor A. L. Sahn of Carbondale motored to Honesdale Friday to confer with Mayor Kubbach about the possible purchase by the borough of the Hendricks company's fire apparatus. While here somebody annexed the Carbondale Mayor's automobile pump, which was in his car near the corner of Main and Seventh streets. The Mayor is not sure the pump has been stolen. He is advertising for it in The Citizen today.

Rural free delivery route No. 4, over which there has been about a year's kick, some people along the line not wishing to change from stage to carrier mail, starts Nov. 1 and the examination for carrier will be held Oct. 8. The route will be 25.4 miles long, running as follows: Southeast to Beardley corner, northeast to Hall's corner, northeast to Spry's corner, northeast to Beach lake postoffice, northeast and northwest to Boyd's Mills postoffice, northwest to Bunnell's corner, southeast to Franklin's corner, west to Davey's corner, south and southwest to Parish corner, southwest to Ham's corner, southwest to Jay's corner, northwest to W. Spry's corner, west and southwest to red schoolhouse, south to Van Nossal corner, southwest to Tracyville, northwest to the postoffice.

In his restaurant tonight John H. Heumann, an exceedingly busy citizen who found no time this summer to go to a ball game, will entertain the Honesdale team with characteristic Heumann hospitality by setting up a chicken dinner. The feast is to commence at 9 o'clock and it may be followed by an informal speech or two, though the host does not pose as an orator and there are no professed spellbinders on Capt. Kupper's outfit, but the post prandial exercises are yet in embryo and nothing is definitely given out aside from the fact that the ballmen will eat chicken and all the stuff that appropriately accompanies that toothsome bird. It was suggested last night that R. M. Dorin's "Kid" orchestra, of which Mr. Heumann's boy and girl are members, might be prevailed upon to play a piece or two after the spread.

The flower and vegetable display at the flower show held in the High school building Friday afternoon by the children from seeds bought of the Improvement association was very creditable despite the dry season. The vegetable display was unusually good. The prizes were awarded as follows: Best bouquet of one variety of flowers, Ruth Trane, Honesdale public schools; prettiest bouquet, Isabel Hagaman, Honesdale public schools; greatest variety of flowers grown by one person, Rose Donnelly, Union Hill; vegetables, George Koehler, Honesdale public schools; second best vegetable, Joseph Lenihan, Union Hill; special prize for the corn, Charles Quinney. The judges were Miss Carrie Peterson, president of the Improvement association; Miss Wies and Mrs. C. M. Betz. Signal pins were the prizes for the girls and pocket knives for the boys. Great credit is due the young people for the effort they put forth during the summer months in these directions. It is to be earnestly hoped this work may be extended until Honesdale is indeed a town of beauty.

Mrs. Emma G. Secor solicits subscriptions for the Ladies' Home Journal, Woman's Home Companion, Delineator and other periodicals.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Potter and daughter, Elizabeth, left Monday for their home in Patchogue, Long Island, having spent two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Spettigue, Jr.

Mrs. George H. Bruce arrived Saturday from Norwich, Ct., to pass some time with her son, Hillard Bruce, at the Wayne hotel. Mrs. Bruce was the guest of Mrs. N. B. Spence Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Bradford Barnar and daughter of Brooklyn, N. Y., are stopping with George C. Oiver at Beach lake. Miss Barnar is the granddaughter of Rev. Silas Barnar, who preached at Beach lake in the latter part of the 50's.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Reynolds have arrived in Carbondale from Ocean Grove, N. J., where they spent the summer. They had a very pleasant trip in their new automobile as far as Hawley, where a little difficulty with the machine made it advisable to leave the car and continue the journey by rail.

James Spencer, only brother of N. B. Spencer, is in New York on a business trip. He lives in Plains, Mont., but is a native of New York state, where all that family of Spencers were born. He may visit his Honesdale brother before going back to Montana. James Spencer is a broker.

Earl Sherwood continues to enjoy his protracted vacation in Wayne county according to the dictates of his own leisure. He got back Thursday from his second trip to Mt. Pleasant and way stations. Old boyhood friends and some that he has made since were looked up. Mr. Sherwood may be him away to Washington before September is over.

Postcards received Monday from Edwin B. Callaway by his newspaper associates and other friends in town say the manager of the Herald is having the time of his life in Syracuse, N. Y., where Saturday he attended the state fair and heard Col. Roosevelt talk. Mrs. Callaway did not go with her husband to the New York salt country. She remained at her old home in Dunmore. Mr. Callaway will stop there on his way back next week and bring his wife home with him.

Former Sheriff E. H. Courtright, Assistant Postmaster J. N. Sharpsteen and Peter Kahl never get tired of talking about the auto trip down the Delaware valley to interesting Pennsylvania and Jersey points from which they returned Thursday. They were gone five days and they saw Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Summit and Phillipsburg, N. J. The weather favored them and most of the way the roads were in apple pie order for the machine. Monroe county has some excellent stone as well as dirt roads. The party had some amusing as well as pleasurable experiences, as anyone familiar with its personnel can imagine. The three men from Honesdale landed in Jersey on primary day and visited several places where the interest ran high. Former Gov. Edwin Stokes of Millville was the leader for the Republican senatorial nomination.

"Time You Went Back To Bed." LAKE ARIEL, Sept. 20.—There is hot water ahead for the night operator in the Bell telephone exchange at Ariel. The little girl of a man more or less prominent in Wayne county called up Central at 4 o'clock in the morning.

"What's the right time, Central?" lisped a small voice over the wire. "Time you were back in bed," was the answer, and the operator shut right off.

The little youngster told her papa, a summer cottager at the lake, and he's sore.

—Get ready for the big fair.

HUGH LANCASTER, SOUTH STERLING, WHO DIED TODAY.

OFF TO MICHIGAN SPRINGS.

Fr. Dassel Hopes to Recover His Health By Rest and Curative Waters.

Rev. William Dassel, for 32 years the beloved priest of St. Mary Magdalen's church, left Sunday on a health-seeking journey to the West. He will stop some time at Mt. Clemens, Mich., to try the curative waters of the springs at that resort.

At Fr. Dassel's home, 414 Court street, it was said Monday that the priest might be gone a month, perhaps longer. One of his more prominent parishioners said he thought Fr. Dassel might be all right in three weeks, but that it was hard to tell how long a rest would be required to put him in shape for the exacting duties of his parish.

Fr. Dassel's primary trouble, it is said, is rheumatism, from which he has suffered severely at times of late, but he has also a stomach ailment of long standing and some throat trouble. There have been Sundays during recent months when to read two masses in the morning was plainly an effort beyond Fr. Dassel's strength. He is, however, very sensitive on the subject of his health and dislikes extremely to be asked about his physical condition. He is an optimistic man, and he told several friends when leaving Honesdale that a little rest would speedily restore him to his wonted vigor.

Protestant as well as Catholic friends of the amiable clergyman trust the trip to the springs may not prove too great for his strength and that Fr. Dassel may entirely recover his health.

Fr. Dassel is a very popular man with hundreds of people in Honesdale and the vicinity. He is finely read, possesses an excellent library that receives weekly additions in the way of the best books on all sorts of ecclesiastical and secular subjects, and is an excellent conversationalist and a most companionable man.

"PHIL" COYNE IS NO MORE.

Veteran Hotel Man, Born Here, Gathered To His Fathers.

SCRANTON, Sept. 20.—Phillip H. Coyne, proprietor of the New Wyoming hotel and in a business sense probably the oldest hotel man in Scranton, died Saturday afternoon at his home, 111 Wyoming avenue. He had been falling for a year, and for two months very sick. A week ago he suffered a collapse and the end came quickly. He was 67 years old.

"Phil" Coyne was born in Honesdale and when a young man came to Scranton. He was a partner in the hotel firm of Payfair & Coyne back in the seventies, soon after the city was incorporated. In those days the house of Payfair & Coyne on Lackawanna avenue was known from one end of this part of the state to the other. This partnership continued several years.

Following the dissolution of the firm, Mr. Coyne continued in business and established the Coyne house at Penn and Lackawanna avenues. While he conducted this place he was appointed warden of the Luzerne county jail and served two years. He conducted that place for years.

About twelve years ago the old stand was torn down and the present building put up. Shortly after the building had been begun, Mr. Coyne moved to Danville, where he was interested two years in a brewery. He returned about three years ago and since has conducted the New Wyoming.

There was no better known hotel man in this part of Pennsylvania than "Phil" Coyne. Friends he made when he first engaged in business he held to the last and numbered them in the hundreds. Whole-souled, generous, unselfish, he was of the old type of hotel man fast passing. He is survived by his wife, one son, Leo, and a daughter, Mrs. M. B. Congdon of New York.

Vanderhoef—Young Wedding.

Miss Cornelia Alice Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Young of Albany, N. Y., former well-known residents of Honesdale, will be married to F. Bailey Vanderhoef of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon B. Vanderhoef, in the Cathedral of All Saints, Albany, on Saturday, Oct. 15.

Miss Young will have as matron of honor Mrs. Morgan Cooperthwaite of Chappaqua, N. Y., a sister of the bridegroom, and as first bridesmaid Miss Alice Dickson of New York city, who is her cousin. There will be six other bridesmaids, Miss Mary Tucker and Miss Josephine Colwell of New York, Miss Mary Pyle and Miss Isabelle Young of New York, Miss Evelyn Turney of Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Laura Anderson of Colorado Springs, Col.

Mr. Vanderhoef will have as his best man his brother, Harmon Vanderhoef, and as ushers Edward Martin, Newton James, Leonard Sullivan, Clarence Young, Miss Young's brother; George Vanderhoef, and George Carpenter, all of New York; James Rea of Pittsburg, and Heyward McAlpine of Morristown.

Paper Hat-Bags on The Erie.

The Erie railroad has placed an order for several hundred thousand paper hat-bags for use on all trains. Hitherto a Pullman passenger could put her hat and coat or other articles in a paper bag and protect them from dust and dirt, but the coach passenger had no such privilege.

Now, however, each coach porter on Erie trains will have a supply of bags and each passenger, man, woman or child, can have as many as are needed to protect coat, hat or package.

"It's an innovation," said an Erie official, "but a necessary one. The coach passenger will undoubtedly appreciate the novelty and every woman who travels will find use for them."

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Lottery Man."

"The Lottery Man," the great success of New York's last theatrical season, is announced for an early date at the Lyric with the original New York production. The play by Rida Johnson Young, author of "Brown of Harvard" swept along on its successful way for six months at the Bijou theatre, New York, its unprecedented popularity being broken into by the extreme heat of the late summer. Alan Dale, the noted critic of the New York American, terms Rida Johnson Young's "The Lottery Man" a grouch-icide; meaning it is a sure cure for all ailments of the spleen. The piece, after a six months' successful run at the Bijou theatre, New York, comes to the Lyric shortly with the New York production.
