In spite of the fact that the Philadelphia mint coined 140,000,000 pennies last year, and many other millions in years before, the mystery of where the little coppers go is still unsolved, and Director of the Mint George E. Roberts estimates the big plant will make another 100,000,000 this year. Pennies, more so than any other sort of coin, disappear from circulation very mysteriously. The government does not mind coining them, however, for it yields a fine profit. A pound of copper, costing now about 13 cents, will make a dollar in pennies.

The Lyric was well filled with an appreciative audience on Thursday evening who were there to witness "The Lottery Man." To say that everybody was pleased is putting it very mild. The plot is unique and well put together and presents phases of life which are not uncommon, and while there was the usual exaggeration of character which is necessary to emphasize same on the stage, yet there was nothing overdone in this line. Every player was up in their parts, at perfect ease and the play ran smoothly from beginning to end. To the newspaper men it was unusually interesting as Jack was an ideal news gatherer.

One of the vilest and most miserable creatures whose presence is allowed to afflict this beautiful world, is the wretch who visits our cemeteries and despoils the graves of loved ones by stealing blooming plants, cut flowers, ribbons attached to bouquets and wreaths, and carries them away for their own personal use. This practice has been indulged in to a considerable extent of late in Glen Dyberry and the management is now fully determined to make an example of the first culprit to be arrested and convicted. The following is the law relating to the species of sacrilege: Any person or persons who shall wilfully and maliciously destroy, mutilate, injure, pluck off, deface or remove therefrom, any tree or trees, vines, flowers, grass or ornamental shrubbery, growing, being or temporarily placed therein, for ornamental or useful purposes, in any cemetery or graveyard in this commonwealth used for the interment in and upon private enclosures in any cemetery or graveyard aforesaid, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction of any said offenses be sentenced to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding one year, or to pay a fine of not exceeding one hundred dollars, or both or either, at the discretion of the court.

Canaan School Troubles Settled by Supt. J. J. Koehler.

To the Honorable Alonzo T. Searle, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Wayne County. The undersigned having been duly appointed an inspector by Your Honor to investigate the needs of a school in the Dwyer sub-district of the Canaan School district, Wayne county, Pennsylvania, reports as follows:

After receiving a written notice of my appointment from the clerk of the courts, I notified on the 26th day of September, 1910, in person, Al. E. Symons and Charles A. McCarty, attorneys for the petitioners of the Dwyer sub-district and William H. Lee, attorney for Charles Mannick, John E. Lockwood and William Scully, of the hearing to be held at the office of the county superintendent of schools on the first day of October, 1910, at 10 o'clock a. m.

September 28, 1910, was the day appointed to meet the people and school board of Canaan township, at the Dwyer school building, and to make a personal investigation of the needs of, or advisability of, reopening the above named school. After measuring the roads from the Prompton and the Steene schools in the school district of Prompton to the several residences in the northern part of the Dwyer sub-district and likewise measuring the distances from the residences of the northern part of the said district to the Dwyer school building and to the turnpike leading to the Moylan No. 5 school building located in the southeastern portion of the Canaan school district, I met the school board of the Canaan school district and the patrons of the Dwyer sub-district at the Dwyer school house.

After the above named controversy had been amicably discussed in detail for about one and one-half hours and the different clauses of the Pennsylvania School laws read relative to the case, the school board was asked to meet in special session to see whether or not the matter could be adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned. Several of the prominent in the case assured the inspector that all they wanted to know was, whether or not the school in said sub-district was absolutely necessary, then they were ready to act for the best interests of the school children of the sub-district. After the school board met, a motion was made and seconded to reopen the school as soon as possible and secure a qualified teacher. The vote was unanimous to reopen the school.

A meeting of the same school board was called the afternoon of the same day, at which meeting Eva Palmer was elected teacher. The inspector received unofficial notice of the last fact. Since the controversy was amicably adjusted, no hearing was held October 1, 1910. All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. J. KOEHLER, Inspector.

State Will Only Make Surveys for Cash—Tax Townships. In an opinion given the state highway department Assistant Deputy Attorney General William M. Hargest clears up some knotty points in the Jones dirt road bill of 1909. In regard to the township road act, the highway department wished to know if it could legally incur any expense in furnishing plans and specifications to townships which have elected to adopt the work system of road tax or if the department could make surveys for such townships. The appropriation for this purpose carried by the act is payable only to townships which collect their road taxes solely in cash, and Hargest holds that, inasmuch as the evident purpose of the act is to encourage cash taxes and discourage the work tax system, the department cannot legally incur such expense.

Another provision in the Jones bill is that townships receiving state aid for dirt roads may not receive more than $20 per mile, and the department asked if payments for surveys, etc., for townships collecting only cash tax should be kept within the $20 mile limit or charged against the appropriation as a whole. Hargest holds that such expenses should be charged against the entire appropriation and that the balance may then be subdivided among the townships entitled to it, each township receiving not more than $20 per mile in addition to any expenses for surveys.

The opinion on the Cumberland road was asked because the supervisors of West Bethlehem township, Washington county, levied a road tax upon a toll-gate property. Mr. Hargest holds that since the pike is the property of the state, it cannot be taxed.

Free-Trade Won't Make Jobs.

China is making cotton cloth. The wages in China for making this cloth range from 13 to 17 cents a day. How long will it be possible for American labor to compete with that labor unless there is a high Protective Tariff on imported cotton goods? This is not a theory, but a condition that every American wage-earner will have to confront as soon as China gets under way in the manufacturing line. And Free-Trade won't make jobs for Americans, but a high tariff will.

EVER INCREASING.

A bank account is like a snowball--roll it gently along and it will get larger (almost without your noticing it) as the days go by. Like the snowball, too, the hardest work is making the first deposit, giving it the first push, after which the initial impetus gains as the ball runs down, the bank account rolls up. We want to help you with your financial snowball.

FARMERS and MECHANICS BANK.

YOU CAN GET PURE RYE WHISKEY

Under a guarantee as to just the way it is distilled by the manufacturer and reduced in the bond warehouse by the government.

Proof and age are always stamped on end of barrel which can be seen by any customer.

Whiskey when placed in bond new is 100 proof and in four years goes up to from 110 to 115. Wine gallons will go down or evaporate about ten gallons in four years to the barrel. Government warehouse charge ten cents per barrel for reducing whiskey and will not reduce it below 90 per cent. proof in wood, which means pure whiskey.

The same rule applies to straight gin and brandy.

Blend whiskey is supposed to be made from two straight whiskeys.

Compound whiskey is a mixture of two or more grains distilled. Whatever quantity of pure or tax-paid whiskey is contained in a barrel, whether four or more gallons, is all that tax is paid on, the balance in the barrel being a mixture of grains distilled on which there is no government tax and can be sold at a very low price. Customers have a right to examine all barrels or packages before buying goods in order that they may be able to judge for themselves whether it is pure rye whiskey or not, blend or compound. The only whiskey that you can be certain of regarding age is straight whiskey. No blends, compounds or mixtures will by me be guaranteed.
