BEACH LAKE.

Special to The Citizen.

J. B. Oliver, son of the late Richard Oliver, of Beach Lake, is visiting his brother, G. C. Oliver, at the old home and other relatives in Wayne county. Mr. Oliver's home is in Omaha, Neb., and this is the first time he has visited the scene of his childhood in over 30 years. Mr. Oliver notes many changes for the better, especially in the buildings and roads in Berlin. We are glad his time is not limited, and he is looking forward to many pleasant visits with friends.

Moyer's Tribute to Tener.

Representative Gabriel H. Moyer is making the tour of the state with Mr. Tener and his associates as the representative of the Republican State Committee.

In the course of his remarks at a Republican meeting he said:

"If it can be shown that the personnel of the Republican ticket is worthy of support and that the Republican party has enacted into law legislation benefiting all classes, then the way is open to ask you to give the straight Republican ticket."

"John K. Tener never drew a dishonest breath. His business life is clean. His social life is clean. His private life is clean. Big, brawny, brainy and a doer of things, he is an ideal candidate. He took in the first dollar deposited in the First National Bank of Charleroi, and today is its honored president, and the bank a million dollar institution. The candidates for Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs are both very worthy men and very favorably known."

"The Republican party has contributed towards the happiness of our people by placing on the statute books of this state laws, covering the health of our people and the wealth of our natural resources."

"Laws guaranteeing protection to stockholders and depositors in banks have recently been strengthened. The farmer has not been forgotten and the wage earner receives his just reward. With every dollar of our state debt paid or provided for and a surplus in our treasury and a tax commission now engaged in considering a revision of our revenue laws so that taxation may be equalized and be made to fulfill on the shoulders of those the better able to bear it; with a market for the farmer and the opportunity given to work for those who want work, no excuse can be given to vote against the Republican ticket."

Sixteen Cows Burn.

Hummelstown, Pa.—Last Tuesday fire of unknown origin broke out on the farm owned by Mrs. Jeremiah Gingrich, two miles North of Hummelstown, shortly after 11 o'clock and before the Hummelstown fire department and bucket brigade arrived at the scene an immense bank barn containing the season's crops and stock was burned to the ground.

The fire was discovered by a farm hand who was caretaker in the absence of the family. It is attempted to rescue some of the stock he was frightfully burned. The Hummelstown fire department was notified but the water facilities prevented any attempt to extinguish the flames.

Sixteen cows, four mules and a litter of pigs were roasted alive. The loss is estimated at several thousand dollars.

Publisher of PUNCH is Dead.

London, Nov. 1.—Sir William Agnew, chairman of Bradbury, Agnew & Co., publishers of Punch, is dead. He was born in 1825 and was for many years head of the firm of Thomas Agnew & Sons, publishers and art dealers.

ROBBED ON PRIVATE CAR.

Mining Men's Cash Taken by Bandits in New Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 3.—While waiting in a private car at a New Mexico junction point bandits took all the pocket money of Alfred Paul of New York and Douglas, Ariz.; Dr. W. H. Harlow of Boulder, Colo.; Captain Tom Houston of Calumet, Mich., and Raymond Sargent of Denver.

The total of their cash was $11. The two porters of the car Nacoazari, on which they were riding, had 20 cents, and this the robbers also got.

Accused of Robbing Own Office.

New York, Nov. 3.—Henry C. Inzelman, secretary and cashier of the Rosehill Cemetery association of Elizabeth, N. J., and David G. Hassel, a confidential clerk of the company, were arrested on the charge that they had broken into a desk in the offices of the association in the Flatiron building and stolen uncanceled treasury bond coupons worth $1,050.

His Strawberries Ripening.

Montclair, N. J., Nov. 3.—Strawberries are blossoming and ripening in the garden of Henry V. Doremus, 20 St. Luke's place. The berries are reddening fast under the warm sunshine of the last few days, and Doremus had some of them for dinner.

"TAKE ME BACK TO OLD BROADWAY!"

Things Seen and Heard in Manhattan By "Trix"—Something About Aviation Meets—Cosmopolitan Crowds at Stations.

Knowing The Citizen has a wide circulation throughout the county, and that it is found in many homes in the far away West, we are acting on the suggestion of a New York friend who is interested in Journalism, and will try to tell our friends of old Wayne county some of the things "seen and heard in Manhattan." While waiting for baggage, we watched for some time the throng coming and going to and fro: The Englishman so pronounced because of his phids. Then a party of women and children; a white poodle in the arms of one lady, and, lastly; a man who rushed for tickets, then to the baggage room and back again. One porter had his arms and hands full and each woman made a grab for one of many suit cases and hat boxes until they resembled a traveling band. The look of disgust on the face of the only man and his command "to drop everything"; his mad cry for "porters" and "porters" was noticeable to all. Then our attention was attracted to the pretty girl whose clothes wore a pronounced newness and the look of glad anticipation on her face as she went to the doorway when a boat arrived; then the look of anxiety as she returns to her seat beside you and for the hundredth time look at the clock, you can not refrain from saying, "minutes seem hours when waiting." Then she tells of her "appointment" and that she is "buyer for a large department store." You have an interesting conversation, all the while seeing the funny things such as a colored man with white trousers, with red coat and cap trimmed in gold braid; the woman in the "hobble skirt" hugging a small dog, and all the while the cry of "Taxi" and "Cab" ring in our ears, until we are glad to escape through the crowd of Pennsylvania and Erie employees, who know in their own mind your business better than you know it yourself. You at last find yourself on a cross-town car toward busy Manhattan.

Our time being our own we accept an invitation to see some friends off for South America. We reach Fulton street by way of the Elevated, and went our way to the pier. Here at the dock everything is hustle and bustle, as beside the heavy cargo of freight there is a large passenger list for the trip. We reach the gangway not having encountered any larger obstacle than a black cat; climbing the gangway we land on deck of one of the large steamers owned by the United Fruit company and built at Glasgow, and sailing under the English flag, although I believe they are owned by Americans. There are ten of these steamers built alike, finished and furnished in mahogany. Seventeen large bath tubs, and a shower bath with each room. The music room is a thing of beauty with its mahogany furniture with peacock blue tapestry. Here one finds a piano, book case of new novels and books of travel pertaining to those southern countries, and the most comfortable of chairs and couches. The state rooms are all that could be expected, although they would accommodate the "hobble skirt" better than some of the immense hats we saw coming aboard. The dining room is up-to-date in every way, having the small tables. A complete bar is on one deck. Here also are the card tables. The wide decks are spotless, and here the passengers enjoy deck golf. We were fortunate in meeting the wireless operator, who invited us to his room to see the wireless outfit. He also kindly showed us how a message was sent and as he had spent the greater part of his life in "Old Virginia" where his ancestors had lived for over a hundred years, we found in him a true Southern gentleman.

We were interested in seeing the cargo of flour and other supplies being put in the hold. We were told that two days before reaching Columbia after the northern cargo has been disposed of the heat is turned on to make the temperature right for the fruit which is taken on, 60,000 bunches of bananas being loaded at one time.

The time for sailing is 12 o'clock, and a few minutes before twelve the bugle calls, and we who are left behind say "farewell," and go down on the dock to remain as long as a waving handkerchief is visible.

We wended our way up Fulton street to the postoffice, and from there walked down Broadway to St. Paul's church, one of the very old churches which is always open for visitors. Being tired we enter the quiet church yard, and spend some time studying the quaint old stones. The yard is a popular place for the down town "business women" to eat their lunch and spend their noon hour in peace and quiet. We understand Old Trinity is used in the same way.

We walked on down to Battery Place which is always an attractive spot with its green grass and water front. Here is the "Aquarium" which is filled with fish and other interesting aquatic animals. But we were there for another purpose, which was nothing more nor less than to see the "Liberty Island race" for which Thos. Ryan offered $10,000. Talk about your mob; it beat the crowds at a Wayne county fair all to pieces, and the wind! oh, say it reminded me of the wintery breezes at Pleasant Mount. After a tiresome wait we learned the wind was too high, and there would be no airship going over the Goddess' head that day. By the way that reminds me, did you ever take that ride from Battery Park over to see the Goddess? and did you ever climb those winding stairs that take you to the top of the head? It's a mighty good thing for stiff knees.

On Sunday we went to the new Pennsylvania station to get a train to Belmont Park, where the airship meet was to have taken place. When one sees this magnificent structure, they are indeed proud to be of Pennsylvania birth. In less than a half hour we were at Belmont having come some twenty miles. The park comprises an immense tract of ground; for two dollars you have the privilege of sitting in the grand stand with the "four hundred"; while for one-fifty you sit in the field stand. The hangars, as the small tent like buildings are called, where the machines are kept, are on the opposite side of the field directly in front of the grand stand. The wind was blowing a fierce gale and every one was shivering. Curtiss White came out and relieved the monotony when he attempted to fly. After a short distance he returned to mother earth with a broken machine. Then a fight was attempted by Moisant. He went up a short distance, was turned completely over by the wind, and brought forcibly to the ground. The machine was in bad shape and it was some time before it could be hauled to the hangar. Thus ended that chapter. The crowd waited and watched until 4.30, when the blue flag was run up which told us there was "nothing more doing," and while man has conquered much he has not altogether conquered the elements. What about Moisant on Sunday last? America has always come out ahead.

MONUMENT TO FATHER DASSEL.

An Enduring Testimonial To His Popularity to be Erected.

When the late Father Dassel went to Mt. Clemons to receive treatment, his parishioners and friends hoped that he would return cured. At first the reports were favorable and the members of St. Mary Magdalen's congregation began to make preparations to give their beloved pastor a magnificent reception on his return. It was decided to present him with a sum of money and a committee was formed to solicit subscriptions. The members of that committee are as follows: M. J. Hanlan, chairman; George Schwesinger, secretary; William Polt, treasurer; Mrs. Louisa Stahl, Joseph Nonnemacher, John Tuman and William Kupfer.

The response to the request for contributions was very liberal, both Catholics and non-Catholics giving generous sums, and about two hundred dollars was collected without any great effort. These plans were all frustrated however, by the death of Father Dassel and the money is now in the hands of the committee. It has been decided that no better disposition can be made of this money than to use it for the erection of a monument to the memory of the man who labored so faithfully and assiduously in our midst for more than thirty years. It is believed that the members of St. Mary's Magdalen's church and the many friends and admirers of Father Dassel will be glad to help increase the fund already in the hands of the committee to a sum sufficient to erect an appropriate monument to mark the final resting place of the beloved priest. The solicitors will continue their efforts and it is to be hoped that they will succeed in securing enough money to carry out their laudable design. Father Dassel was one of the most popular men in our county. He was loved by all who knew him irrespective of race or creed. He had not only the interests of his own parish at heart but also those of the whole community. He experienced much solicitude for the welfare of his flock and strove to promote industries which would give employment to the people of this vicinity. The members of his congregation are to be commended for adopting this method of showing their loyalty and devotion to the memory of their deceased but still beloved pastor. The solicitors are as follows: For Honesdale, William Polt and M. J. Hanlan; Texas No. 2, William Kupfer; Texas No. 4, George Schwesinger; Clemo, Mrs. Louisa Stahl; Indian Orchard, Joseph Nonnemacher; White Mills, John Tuman.

DROP MARRIED WOMEN CLERKS

Taft's Economy Committee Said to Be Contemplating This Move.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Married women in the government's employ who have husbands able to support them will be in danger of losing their positions if a recommendation which is about to be made to the various departmental economy committees is favorably received.

Many unmarried women, who have lost their positions through the introduction of recent economies, in making applications for reinstatement, have suggested that they be given places now held by married women whose husbands are able to support them. It is understood such a recommendation may be made to the economy committee recently established by President Taft, of which Frederick A. Cleveland, of New York, is the head.
