Should Be Taught at the Beaux Arts, Spanish Author Thinks.

An observant Spaniard in Paris, Senor Gomez Carillo, has written a book on women's clothes, the materials, colors and styles they select and the shape of their hats. So great a hold has the subject taken upon him that he has conceived an idea which may appeal to many women.

He suggests that as fashion has become an art a chair of feminine elegance should be established at the Ecoles des Beaux Arts. It is not enough for women to be seen in the latest modes at the Grand Prix, at flower fetes, at art exhibitions and at first nights at the theatres. They are certainly observed at these functions, but they do not exactly reign supreme.

What this Spanish student of women's ways would like is a fashion fair, an exhibition devoted entirely to chiffons, in a large hall where fashionable women could go and frankly study one another's latest gowns and hats, coiffures and figures.

It is said that many fashionable dressmakers in Paris are charmed with Senor Carrillo's ideas and 'would be glad to further them if possible.

Be Cheerful and Avoid Cholera.

A cheerful disposition is held by some doctors to be the best protection against cholera. When this disease first visited Paris in 1832 a notice was issued advising the inhabitants "to avoid as far as possible all occasions of melancholy and all painful emotions and to seek plenty of distractions and amusements. Those with a bright and happy temperament are not likely to be stricken down."

This advice was largely followed and even when cholera was claiming over a thousand weekly victims the theatres and cafes were thronged. The epidemic was in some quarters treated as a huge joke and plays and songs were written around it. Rocheforte, the father of the brilliant journalist of to-day, wrote a play, "Le Cholera Morbus," which proved a big success, and another production on the same lines, "Parismalade," also had a long run.-London Chronicle.

Aged Hunter Saved by His Dog. Ebenezer Ramsey, 82 years old, killed three bears near his home in Long Valley on the line between El Dorado and Placer counties recently, but escaped possible death from one of them by the interference of his dog. Ramsey's dog treed a large bear and her two cubs, and Ramsey, with an ancient single shot rifle went to in vestigate. Seeing the bears, he shot all there, but the mother bear was not killed, and on falling to the ground she took after Ramsey before he could reload his rifle.

His dog, however, pounced upon the infuriated animal and kept it busy until Ramsey secured an ax, with which he killed the brute. He says it was the most exciting hunt he ever had .--San Francisco Chronicle.

Watched Three Days Without Food or Water Over Dead Brave.

PIGEON FLIES WITH TRAIN.

Bird Has Been Making Regular Tripe

Along Arkansas Railway. The pigeon that for a month or more had been running with the Iron Mountain crews between Malvern and Arkadelphis, extended its runs to make the trip from Walco to Gurdon, a distance of thirty-four miles.

A brakeman who made the trip Go where you will the earth around; To my second no such praise can fall, There's no one can say he likes it at all. Too much of my first, and my whole you'll over the division one week reported at the Union Station that the pigeon made the down trip with his train, foining the crew at Walco and leaving them at Gurdon, which was the furth-From one and two a mighty sound in contact with the last is found; My first slone is a word of power: My third is useful every hour. Who comes to my whole has reached great est point south it had been known to go previously.

For four or five weeks this pigeon had been flying along with the Iron Mountain trains. Some of the trainmen regarded it as a hoodoo and feared that its presence portended some disaster to them, but no accident happened to a crew while the bird was along. Others look upon the pigeon as a pet and are always glad to have it join them on a trip.

The trainmen say that the bird almost always flies just ahead of the engine about on a level with the headlight. On the last trip Engineer Golleher, who was in the cab, tried to overtake it, but it was no use-the pigeon always stayed just ahead. On this trip when the train stopped at Arkadelphia for water the bird flew out to one side and rested in a tree until the fireman rang his bell for the start, when it resumed its place just in front of the headlight, flying at a suitable speed to remain about the same distance ahead, whether the train was going slow or fast.

Champion in Ploughing Contests.

Twenty-six prizes in twenty-seven years in ploughing at the annual matches of the Wheatland and "lig Rock ploughing associations is the remarkable record of William Fairweather, who recently was given the gold medal and championship held out to ploughers in the post-graduate class. In four years Fairweather took three of the same class of prizes.

In a period of twenty-seven years there was only one year in which he had nothing to show for his effort, and of all the other prizes won by him only one was of less value than second. In one instance only he was given third. Of the firsts and seconds the majority are of the first order.

This ploughman gives most of the credit for his unusual success to his father, who he says taught him the first lessons in correct soil tilling. He was required to carry a chain and weed cutter so that the trash of his lands was properly covered .-- Chicago

Mark Twain Tells How They Knowed the Road and Dressed for It.

Mark Twain was a firm believer in the national movement for good roads, and had many a tale to tell about the incredibly bad roads of some sections.

A Hartford man recalled the other day this experience of the famous humorist's:

"I once had thirty miles"-so Mark Twain began-"to go by stage in Mississippi. The roads were terrible, for it was early spring. The passengers consisted of five men and three women-three large, well developed women, swathed in shawls and vells, who kept to themselves, talking in low tones on the rear seat.

"Well we hadn't gone a mile before the stage got stuck two feet deep in the black mud. Down jumped every man of us, and for ten minutes we tugged and jerked and pulled till we got the stage out of the hole.

"We had hardly got our breath back when the stage got stuck again, and again we had to strain our very hearts out to release her, "In covering fifteen miles we got stuck eight times, and in going the whole thirty we lifted that old stage out of the mud seventeen times by actual count.

"We five male passengers were wet, tired and filthy when we reached our destination, and so you can imagine our feelings when we saw the three women passengers remove, as they dismounted, their veils, their shawls and their skirts, and, lo and behold -they were three big, hearty, robust men.

"As we stared at them with bulging and feroclous eyes, one of them said:

"'Thanks for your labor, gents. Ve knowed this road and prepared for it. Will you licker?" "-Washington Star,

How to Develop Manchuria.

Manchuria needs railways, capital and far-sighted managing ability to organize these things, and who may prophesy the development of this country? Will it fill up with the overflow of Chinese from the Southern provinces and gradually develop the social and economic customs of the thickly settled districts of South China, or will it absorb Western ideas and have a portion of its people produre food for local consumption and for export, while another portion develop the mines, man the railways and prepare the surplus products for exports? It is a long way from South China to Manchurla, and the travel is not easy, nor is the northern latitude agreeable to the man accustomed to the heat of the South. Surely Manchurla is the ideal exepriment ground of all Asia for the testing of Western methods of economic progress on Eastern people. If the "se of Western agricultural machinery, mining and lumbering methods and transportation methods fail, here they will certainly fail in other Eastern regions .- Edward C. Parker, in the American Review of Reviews.

A long ride was made to the nearest telephone point and Coroner C. D. Van Wie notified. The long, rough ride over the mountains and desert occupied three days and nights. At some stages it required three hours to cover a mile, so steep were the grades or so deep the desert sands.

Long before he arrived in sight of the corpse the squaw's wailing as she chanted the dirges of the Piute were heard. In the gray of the morning the Coroner reached the body. The sight of the woman standing erect at the foot of her dead brave, her black hair flying in the breeze, presented a dolorous picture, heightened by the chant of the dirge.

The squaw had broken all the brave's crockery against a tree, had fla'tened out his spoons and forks and other utensils on the rocks and had staked the two horses near the body, preparing to slay them over his grave. During the long vigil the woman had taken nourishment of no kind and would only eat after the body had been buried in the ground .-- San Bernardino correspondence Los Angeles Times.

Increase in Coal Briquets.

Only fifty years ago the dust of coal was considered to be entirely useless, but since then a great change has taken place and at present in Rhenish Westphalla the Ruhr coal district alone produces 3,000,000 tons of briquets each year. Up to the present time coal tar pitch has been used for making coal briquets, and its production in the past ten years has increased about 100 per cent .-- Consular Reports.

A New Iron Industry.

A recent report issued by the department of mines, Canada, draws attention to the possibilities of establishing a local iron industry on the coast of British Columbia. At present the cost of transportation of manufactured iron from Great Britain and elsewhere is very heavy, and for some time past the question of local production has been ofton discussed. The report referred to states that although the quantity of ore in sight can not be set down, good material, consisting largely of magnetites, is certainly available. The estimated cost of producing a ton of iron is given as $16. and the approximate cost at present of Eglinton No. 1 delivered at the works, Victoria, as $24 to $28 a ton.
