The libel suit of Governor Tener against Frederick W. Sell, editor of the Slatings Star, was settled on Saturday. It was brought in December by the Governor as a result of the editor's heading an article in a manner derogatory to Mr. Tener's character. A marked copy of the paper fell into the hands of Mrs. Tener and she became so indignant that her husband came on and brought the charge, engaging as his attorney Democratic State Chairman Arthur G. Wewalt. The January Grand Jury brought a true bill against the accused editor. Senator Dewalt said that settlement was effected on a basis satisfactory to the Governor, the full terms of which would be published in the next issue of the defendant's weekly.

Mrs. Conrad Foster, Hancock, N. Y., attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Benjamin, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGinnis, Church street, left Tuesday afternoon for Scranton, where they will make their home.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota, in the course of a four-hour speech in opposition to the Canadian reciprocity treaty on Saturday, criticized the extravagant methods of life in the great cities and showed the cost, in farm products, of a day in New York, to a visiting Senator.

"As he leaves his cab (from the station to the hotel), he pays for fare for having been driven, say eight or ten blocks, six bushels of oats," Mr. McCumber said, "and as a compliment to the driver for his very medium charge he tosses him fifteen heads of cabbage. He registers at the hotel and is shown by the bell boy to the elevator. As he nears the tenth story he responds to the expectant look of the elevator lad with a couple of dozen of eggs. The bell boy hangers at the door of his room and is rewarded for his anxiety over the comfort of the guest with a bushel and a half of barley. It takes a quarter of a ton of hay for this Senator's breakfast, and he gives the water two bushels of potatoes. His noon lunch is one sheep with a bushel and a half of carrots for the waiter. In the evening he consumes four bushels of rye and the water has a bushel of onions to dream on. And when he settles for his room the landlord is the recipient of half a carload of turnips.

"The actual cost of the articles that make up our diet is but the slightest percentage of the cost of living. It is the service. It is the service that you pay for. Did it ever occur to you that the farmer does not get four cents out of the average meal consumed by you?"

The Rev. John Miller, Master of Arts of Cambridge University, England, for many years Head Master of a well-known school in Kent, England, will be the preacher at Grace Episcopal church, at both morning and evening services, Sunday, March 5. The services will be as follows: Holy Communion and sermon, 10:30; Sunday school, 12 M.; evening prayer and sermon at 7:30. All are invited.

The grand jury meets next Monday, March 6. Twelve cases are listed for trial in the March term of the Wayne County Common Pleas, week beginning March 13. The case of Fives vs. Auto-Transportation Co., will probably last several days. Monday, March 6, Carl Howe, Scranton, recently convicted of a statutory offense and recommended to the mercy of the Court, will appear for sentence.

Hunters are interested in the statement that the wooded hills, mountain lakes and streams of this state are to be one big park in which deer may roam and multiply unmolested by hunters during the next five years, if a bill introduced into the state legislature by Representative R. W. Hilton, of McKean county, becomes a law.

Representative Hilton declares that if his bill or a similar one is not speedily passed the graceful animal which he seeks to protect will pass out of the state as completely as the herds of buffalo which once roamed the western prairies. A deep seated sentimental interest attaches to the McKean member's measure and he claims that he has assurance of support for it from representatives and senators from all the interior counties.

The hunting of deer is at present restricted to the last two weeks in November. Short as the season is, the deer have steadily dwindled in numbers until even veteran hunters, who have not missed a year in tracking them to their forest retreats, are foremost in demanding that they shall be protected for a sufficient time to permit of the increasing in numbers.

The bill provides that from and after the first day of June, 1911, it shall be unlawful to take, or kill, or wound, or attempt to take or kill or wound, any deer in this commonwealth. A fine of $200 for every deer killed, or imprisonment for 200 days or both.

Dr. Kalfbus, secretary of the State Game Commission, declared in his last report that more than 400 deer, of an average of 150 pounds, making a total of 30 tons of venison, have been killed in the season of 15 days in the fall of 1909. He estimated that an equal number of bears, of an average weight of 200 pounds, had been shot or taken in traps during the same season.

The forest preserves of the state, consisting of many thousands of acres in the aggregate, have for several years past afforded places of refuge not only for deer and bear but for other game.

Mrs. A. G. Loomis left Thursday morning on a visit to friends and relatives in Deposit, N. Y.

Prothonotary M. J. Hanlan issued twelve marriage licenses in February, seven more than for the corresponding month, last year.

An examination for the contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth class postmaster of Class B at South Canaan, will be held at Vardan, March 18.

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Morton says the State's corn crop for 1910 will reach $30,000,000 in value.

William M. Foster, Dalton, greeted friends in Honesdale the first of the week.

Abraham Susitzky, Danbury, Conn., is visiting friends in town.

Among the out-of-town relatives who attended the funeral Thursday morning of Mrs. Jacob A. Hiller were: Thomas Oliver, Frank S. Oliver and daughter, Mabel, Matthew Oliver, all of Scranton; Richard Oliver, Wilkes-Barre.

Miss Etta Nielsen was a Scranton caller, Tuesday.

The fine weather sent the number of automobile licenses up over 19,000 Tuesday and almost 7,500 chauffeurs have secured badges. This record of sales of licenses is far and above the best previous record and the clerks of the State Highway Department's Automobile Division have been working day and night to meet the demands. The belief is that the licenses will pass 20,000 within a fortnight, because the weather has stimulated the desire to run machines, and those which were housed up last fall when winter began are being gotten out.

Miss Cora Voigt left today for her home in Franklin, Ky., after an extended visit with relatives and friends in Honesdale and Hawley.

The Rev. John Miller, Master of Arts of Cambridge University, England, for many years Head Master of a school in Kent, England, now in charge of Trinity church, Carbondale, will officiate at the service in White Mills, Sunday, March 5, 3 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present at this service.

The commission appointed to revise the election laws has decided not to recommend any change in the date of holding the primaries, but they will recommend that the different parties hold their primaries on separate days. This would be a desirable change, as it would, to a great extent, do away with the practice of the majority party stealing the nominations of the minority party.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The Senate of the United States welcomed into its fold Wednesday afternoon William Lorimer, of Illinois, by a vote of 46 to 40, following the most acrimonious and extended contest of the kind in the history of the country.

With forty senators convinced that Lorimer's election had been brought about by fraud and corruption, and appealing up to the very last minute against his admission on the ground that the welfare of the country was at stake, the majority calmly accepted him.

The final scene in the famous case was perhaps the most dramatic witnessed here in years. It was like the closing act of a great murder trial, except that it was on a larger and more impressive scale. Lorimer had pleaded for his political life with all the fervor of a man actually endeavoring to avoid a death sentence.

No prosecuting attorney could have arraigned a defendant more bitterly or more mercilessly than Senators Beveridge, Crawford, Owen and LaFollette excoriated the "sitting member," who is now a member in the full meaning of the word.

Lorimer was acquitted on the ground that no proof had been presented to show that he personally was responsible for any of the admitted corruption in the Illinois legislature, coincident with his election.

F. B. Hawken returned home Wednesday from a visit with relatives in Wilkes-Barre.

Miss Edna Katz is expected home the coming week after a two months' visit with friends in Baltimore and other cities of the south.

A. H. Lloyd, Starrucca, transacted business in town, Thursday.

Leo and Dorothy Gilmartin, Carbondale, spent Sunday with relatives here.

The County Commissioners are in session at the Court House to-day (Thursday).

Miss Elizabeth Baird spent several days visiting friends in Carbondale.

Mrs. Edward Baird, Carbondale, visited friends in town Thursday.

Mrs. Thomas C. Key and daughter Bessie, Wilkes-Barre, returned home to-day from a visit at the home of her parents, on North Main street.

Grace Church (Protestant Episcopal), Honesdale, Rev. Albert L. Whitaker, Pastor, has issued a Lenten Calendar. The hours of service are as follows:

Mondays, The Missions Study class will meet at places to be announced. Tuesdays, (except March 21) 4:15 p. m., Children's Service with address. To this service the older persons in the congregation are cordially invited. Wednesdays, 7:30 p. m., (except Wednesday in Holy Week) Litany and Sermon. Special preachers on Wednesdays will be as follows: March 15, the Rev. Edward D. Johnson, West Pittston; March 22, the Rev. John Hall Griffith, Plymouth; March 29, the Rev. A. Randolph B. Hegeman, Banghamton, N. Y.; Thursdays, (except March 23) 4:15 p. m., Penitential Office and Readings from J. R. Miller's "The Face of the Master" and "The Transfigured Will"; (1) The Transfigured Will; (2) The Transfigured Heart; (3) The Transfigured Character; (4) The Transfigured Way; (5) The Transfigured Life. Fridays, 7:30 p. m., Evening Prayer and sermon. The special preachers will be as follows: March 10, the Rev. Howard W. Diller, Pottsville; March 17, the Rev. Benjamin S. Sanderson, Bethlehem; March 24, the Rev. William Bartlett Beach, Green Ridge, Scranton; March 31, the Rev. Stewart U. Mitman, Ph. D., South Bethlehem.

April 7, the Rev. Edwin A. Gernant, Towanda. On Sunday, March 5, the Rector will exchange with the Rev. John Miller, Carbondale. Ash Wednesday, March 1, Morning Prayer and Hold Communion, 10:30; Evening Prayer and Address, 7:30; Wednesday, in Holy Week, April 12, Morning Prayer, 10:30. Thursday in Holy Week, 7:30 p. m., Holy Communion, Good Friday, Morning Prayer, 10:30 o'clock; Three Hour Service, 12 M. to 3 P. M.; Evening Prayer and Sermon, 7:30. Eastern-Even, 4:15 p. m., Holy Baptism. Easter-Day, Holy Communion, 6:30 a. m.; Morning Prayer, Holy Communion and Sermon, 10:30; Easter Carol Service of the Sunday school, 7 p. m. The Bishop will visit Grace Parish to confirm a class on Sunday, May 21. The unconfirmed should consider prayerfully whether the time has not come to lend the weight of their personal influence to the cause of Christ, as well as to gain for themselves that which our Lord Himself would be a help. May this Lenten season be a means to them and to all of catching a closer glimpse of the Master's face and of gaining a deeper intimacy with the Master's heart. Let all plan to try this Lent to reach higher standards of Christian thought and living, and to maintain them.

When The Hobbie Collides With The Harem Skirt. The nation has waited with bated breath for the news from Washington—not on reciprocity, direct election or any of those stupid things, but for the answer to the all-important question, "What are going to be the styles?" Like the price of butter and the gas bill, this enters into every home. Mother and the daughters are waiting to be told what they will have to wear; and father and husband wonder what new freaks they will have to pay for.

Since the Merry Widow hat bobbed out some years ago and the hobbie skirt hopped out, everybody is kept on the qui vive to see what the tailors and dressmakers, milliners and other fashionists will pull out of the surprise box. The National Style Show snaps the lock, the lid flies open and out jumps the "harem skirt." "Avant the hobbie!" is the cry; and it will be joyously taken up by those who have invented it as one of the most horrible inventions with which woman has ever disgraced herself. But to more men we must break the news gently; the worst is yet to come. Beside the "harem skirt" the hobbie is a dream of grace and loveliness. The hobbie was designed on the lines of the knitting needle and was especially adapted to those ladies who are not fatter than a match. But the stout lady now comes into her own. From what we are told of it, the "harem skirt" will please those plump mortals—say, those from 200 pounds upwards. All the horrible details have not yet been brought out, but they do say that this novelty from darkest Turkey looks like a pair of "mother Hubbard" trousers in response.

We fear the worst. When the "harem skirt" on a public thoroughfare comes into collision with the hobbie, it will be a sight to make strong men shudder, women weep, taxicabs skid and dray horses take to the trees.—[Baltimore Sun.]

Cruelty to Women. We wonder what death the man will die or what tortured life he will be caused to lead who discovered the little "trick" by which a woman's age can be ascertained beyond a doubt—that is to say, while Advance figures compiled from the 1910 census returns show that there are now in Germany forty-seven cities of more than 100,000 population. Of these seven have over 500,000 population. They are Berlin, 2,064,153; Hamburg, 936,000; Munich, 693,000; Leipzig, 555,743; Dresden, 546,882; Cologne, 511,000; and Breslau, 510,929. Four others have more than 300,000 population. They are Frankfurt on the Main, 414,406; Dusseldorf, 356,733; Nuremberg, 332,539, and Charlottenburg, (a suburb of Berlin), 304,280. Twelve other cities have more than 200,000 population, and twenty-four others have populations ranging from 100,000 to 200,000. Ten years ago there were but two cities in the empire with more than half a million population, and only 13 with more than 100,000 population.

A bill introduced in the State House of Representatives by Mr. Carter, of Pittsburg, provides for increasing the salary of legislators from $1500 to $2000 for each regular session. There are men in the General Assembly whose services to Pennsylvania are worth more than the sum fixed by the new bill, and a larger proportion of the members are not earning the pay they now receive. Men of affairs who have the ability to make laws and the conscience to originate and support good ones ordinarily do not accept the office of legislator. They have not the desire to withdraw from private business the time necessarily consumed in legislative work. Thus law-making is trusted almost wholly to professional politicians and their servicable henchmen.

In a less strenuous era citizens of character and standing appreciated the honor of being called to legislate for themselves and their fellows. Party spirit ran as high then as now, but the machine was not so masterful. Senators and representatives had a greater opportunity to impress their individuality upon legislation. Debate was free, full and even copious. Conditions have vastly changed, and with the transformation has come a change in the character of the members of the General Assembly. The legal giants and the captains of industry, the forensic stars and the men of business, have withdrawn from a field which no longer attracts them.

Constitutional provisions regulated the number of Senators and Representatives in Pennsylvania. The membership of the Senate is fixed at 50, but that of the House is required to be increased from time to time in correspondence with changes shown by the United States census. There is little doubt that the membership of the House is too large. Its business is actually carried on by a comparatively small number of men. There would be justification in a constitutional amendment making the House less unwieldy.

We have too many lawmakers, too many legislative bills and too much lawmaking. To warrant an increase in the quantity of the salary there should be an advance in the quality of the recipients. Men of legislative calibre cannot afford to accept the office unless they have personal interest themselves in measures to be acted upon, in which event they take part in log-rolling with other members similarly inspired.

The salary fixed by the Carter bill is not too much for honest and capable service. It is indefensible if it is to be paid to illiterates or mere party tools.—[Public Ledger, Philadelphia.]

When The Hobbie Collides With The Harem Skirt.

The nation has waited with bated breath for the news from Washington—not on reciprocity, direct election or any of those stupid things, but for the answer to the all-important question, "What are going to be the styles?" Like the price of butter and the gas bill, this enters into every home. Mother and the daughters are waiting to be told what they will have to wear; and father and husband wonder what new freaks they will have to pay for.

Since the Merry Widow hat bobbed out some years ago and the hobbie skirt hopped out, everybody is kept on the qui vive to see what the tailors and dressmakers, milliners and other fashionists will pull out of the surprise box. The National Style Show snaps the lock, the lid flies open and out jumps the "harem skirt." "Avant the hobbie!" is the cry; and it will be joyously taken up by those who have invented it as one of the most horrible inventions with which woman has ever disgraced herself. But to more men we must break the news gently; the worst is yet to come. Beside the "harem skirt" the hobbie is a dream of grace and loveliness. The hobbie was designed on the lines of the knitting needle and was especially adapted to those ladies who are not fatter than a match. But the stout lady now comes into her own. From what we are told of it, the "harem skirt" will please those plump mortals—say, those from 200 pounds upwards. We fear the worst. When the "harem skirt" on a public thoroughfare comes into collision with the hobbie, it will be a sight to make strong men shudder, women weep, taxicabs skid and dray horses take to the trees.—[Baltimore Sun.]

Cruelty to Women.

We wonder what death the man will die or what tortured life he will be caused to lead who discovered the little "trick" by which a woman's age can be ascertained beyond a doubt—that is to say, while her health is normal. The only instrument required is an ordinary watch. The wrist of the lady whose age is in question is the telltale, for when you count her pulse and it registers sixty-nine beats per minute you know that she is between twenty and twenty-five years old. During the next five years seventy-one beats go to the minutes, and the "femme de trente ans" and over is entitled to seventy throbs. It is a pity the man of science who established these facts is not more exact when dealing with the women of riper age, for, according to rumor and tradition, it is only after she is thirty that a woman begins to leave off having birthdays.—Westminster Gazette

Governor Tener Monday reapointed Mr. Critchfield, Somerset county, as Secretary of Agriculture, to date from the expiration of his term last Saturday. The nomination was sent to the Senate last night. Secretary Critchfield was originally appointed by Governor Pennypacker in 1903 and reapointed four years ago by Governor Stuart.

Trousers Skirt Now Certain.

Radical fashions, like kites, rise against the wind, and for this reason we fear that the trousers skirt is not a mere Parisian joke, but that it is destined to become an all-pervading reality, as did its hideous predecessor the hobbie skirt. To be a "go," a new style has only to be freakish enough to arouse antagonism. This has been the history of fashion from bound feet to bustles and from hoops to hobbie.

The very venom of our denunciation furnishes the necessary advertising. And the bifurcated skirt has been condemned in Paris. The director of the Comedie Francaise has forbidden Mlle. Provost to appear again in the new raiment, which was a feature of Henri Bernstein's play, "Apres Moi." The American Ambassador so far unbent as to ejaculate "Gee whiz!" when he saw Mlle. Provost in the uniform of the harem, and this intelligence having been brought to Director Claretie, he decided that the international dignity of the theatre demanded instant action.

Will Fashion brook such insults? Will she permit diplomats and theatrical managers to tell her what adorns and what desecrates the female figure? Will she bow meekly to the raucous protests of the male multitude? Never! Our fate is sealed! Our wives, sisters and mothers will be in trousers before the year is out.—[Harrisburg Telegraph.]
