WHITE MILLS.

Special to THE CITIZEN.

Up-To-Date Hens.

WHITE MILLS, Pa., March 7.—Poultry raising is very profitable in some localities. For instance, if it cost two dollars a month to feed a "Keystone" Guard Chickens and when about to lay the Golden Egg, she flies to Denver and sells her position for a consideration, the people of Pennsylvania who fed her will have to wait a long time for her product.

Only one fell out of the ranks and when he heard some one say, "mock fire" he said, "tut, tut," and fell out of line.

Classy Egg Record, This!

Talk about egg record! One of our popular boys built a chicken house 10x10 and bought one Orpington Cockerel, and left him run about the yard. The neighbor's hens came over to visit him and in January he reports 49 eggs and has only one bird. Beat this if you can!

Everyone must have felt that a cheerful friend is like a sunny day, shedding brightness on all around; and most of us can, if we choose, make of the world a palace or a prison. To be bright and cheerful often requires an effort; there is a certain art in keeping ourselves happy; and in this respect, as in others, we require to watch over and manage ourselves almost as if we were somebody else.

—The north hill sides are still snow clad and enough of it remains to last for some time, unless there is a radical change in the temperature. Heavy hauling on the public roads is a trifle dangerous, owing to the icy surface in many places and as a consequence, there isn't much doing. We have already had four months of real winter and if the "coon theory" works out as prophesied, there is still some winter weather due us, and if we leave the coon out of the weather question altogether, we'll be about as sure of cold weather.

Five "Blue Birds" in Dreher.

A flock of five blue birds have recently been visiting in this vicinity, with a view, no doubt, of locating here for the season, but it's a trifle early and too cold to engage in house hunting. However we bid them welcome to such as we have and hope they will see fit to stay for the season.

"Will Moving Pictures Be Used In The Schools?"

NEW YORK, March 6.—"Moving pictures will be used generally in the schoolroom within two years," says John Collier, Secretary of the board of college professors and authors, which is known as the National Board of Censorship for the moving picture companies.

"They will be a part of the school system, like books, and they will be used also to afford evening entertainment for the parents and thus interest them in school work."

"I cannot think of any study in grade schools or colleges that cannot be taught by moving pictures. Almost any arithmetic problem, for instance, can be thrown on a screen in some form or another."

"Botany may be taught by beautiful pictures, now that colored photography has been applied to moving pictures. I have seen colored moving pictures which showed the development of seed and the growth and development of a plant, its leaves and its beautiful flowers, all within the space of ten minutes. Teaching botany in this way is almost an improvement on going into the fields."

Biology and many other sciences may be taught by the pictures. One of the latest feats of the moving picture experts has been to photograph the moving wings of an insect—2,000 motions a second. These pictures may be run slowly so that the children may see just exactly how an insect flies.

"In natural history the children may witness sights that they never could see in the field—pictures taken with great care and patience, of mother birds feeding their young; of wild animals in their haunts, moving about as in real life, eating their natural food."

"Vivid interest can be given to history. The teacher can make it seem absolutely real by throwing on the screen representations of great historical events."

"Sunday schools, before long, will be using moving pictures to tell biblical stories to their pupils—a thousand times more effective and impressive than the charts now in use."

"In literature, scenes from the works of great authors might be thrown on the screen. In time, as the system gains foothold, the moving picture of the author himself might be shown, long after his death, thus making himself and his work a living reality in the minds of the pupils."

"The beauties of teaching geography by moving pictures are obvious. The children can be taken on real tours of the world."

"The public library or a special school library will probably have charge of the films. Each city will have a constantly growing library of moving pictures—a circulating library—through which the pictures will be distributed to the schools."

We haven't heard anyone say anything about seeing the first robin this year. Please don't all speak at once!

Tragic Death Of Henry Groner.

HAWLEY, Pa., March 7.—Henry Groner, a brakeman on the O. & W. Railroad, was killed near Cadonia Friday morning about 4 o'clock. It is not known just how the accident occurred but it is supposed he fell from the cars and was dragged some distance since his body was horribly mangled. His remains, accompanied by a railroad official, were brought on the evening train to this place and taken to the home of his wife's mother, Miss Alice Degrote, on the East Side. From there on Sunday afternoon all that remained of the departed, followed by several carriages of sorrowing relatives and friends, was borne to Lakeville where, in the M. E. church, his funeral service was held with Rev. B. P. Ripley in charge. Interment in the Lakeville cemetery. The deceased, only son of the late John Groner, was born on his father's farm at the above place, March 9, 1884, and was therefore nearly 27 years of age. He was a young man of good habits, with a kind and affectionate disposition which readily won for him many friends who are grieved at his sad and untimely end. His immediate survivors are a wife, mother, Mrs. Mary Groner, and two sisters, Mrs. John Simons, Ledgedale, and Mrs. Agnes Barklow, Wimmers. The floral tributes were especially beautiful. Much sympathy is felt for the young widow as she returns to the lonely home in Carbondale where they have resided about one year. Those from a distance who attended the funeral were an uncle, Charles Seeger, Dunmore, Mr. and Mrs. Asher Degrote, Honesdale, Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, Scranton, and relatives from Middletown.
