

THE COUNTY

DREHER.

[Special to The Citizen.] DREHER, Pa., March 30.—Just two weeks between now and Easter and without anything unforeseen occurring to change the even tenor of the egg market, we are likely to have hen fruit at a price that even the "poor in purse" can indulge in in the annual egg feast, to their satisfaction. Those who are in the chicken raising business, are not slow to take advantage of the prevailing low prices and bushels of eggs are in storage (not the cold kind) and are expected to bring forth recruits for the cackling and crowing feathered army, that serves us a product that the pure food man don't have to look after and if taken in reasonable doses, is good for mankind, womankind and the children thrive on it, too. The chicken is everybody's friend, for as a Spring chick it is in demand as a high class food, later as a broiler and further along in life, it does duty in the egg production (we mean the hen) and on retiring from active service, if not too aged and properly served, they are a dish fit for the hungry. How times have changed, but we remember well when a boy, living on a big farm in Southern Pennsylvania, where along with the horses, cows and other stock kept on a farm and a small flock of hens did duty, scratching for a living and if in line of good luck, we found an egg occasionally, there was usually something as a reward for our vigilance. Eggs were not plenty enough in those days to eat much of a figure in cold storage, but necessity is the mother of invention and instead of preserved eggs in storage, we have embalmed eggs, fit only for fertilizer. We are promised cheaper fresh eggs as the season advances. There will be but little oats sown in March, 1911, especially in Wayne county. There is still plenty of frost in the ground and on the northern hill sides, snow a foot or more in depth. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. O. M. SPETTIGUE

"The Red Mill," fresh from its triumphs at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York City, where it held forth for an entire year followed by engagements of six months each in Chicago and Boston, will be presented at the Lyric on Tuesday, April 4. This tuneful musical comedy, the joint work of Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert, presented by Martin & Emery's admirable company, proved the fourth consecutive success in which these clever comic opera builders have collaborated. The field of action of "The Red Mill" is laid in Holland. The first scene, an exterior, shows the red mill of the story at the edge of the little village in Holland. The second scene, an interior, gives us a look at the home of a well-to-do Burgomaster.
