—Our friend Haines, of the Wayne Independent, Honesdale, says that "one of the recent political events in Pennsylvania was a call received on the last night of March by the editor of the Philadelphia North American from Senator Penrose." Brother Haines evidently forgot that the last night of March is the eve of All Fools' Day, and swallowed the whole story. Kindly remember that Senator Penrose is not built that way. (East Stroudsburg Press and Jeffersonian.)

—At the present time the topic of conversation seems to be concerning the minstrel performance to be given at the Lyric Theatre on the evening of Thursday, April 27, under the auspices of the Honesdale Baseball Association. The very best available local talent assisted by some professional artists, will take part in the show. Harry Madden, the man with the big voice, will be featured among the vocal soloists, which is certainly good news to lovers of good singing. Dorin & Carroll, the old-time minstrels, will present an entirely new act. This will be their first appearance on the stage in team work since before the opening of the Lyric. A sextette, known as the Jeltz Bros., are billed to do an instrumental specialty in the olio. This is to be their initial appearance in public and they will no doubt receive a rousing reception. George Loercher, contortionist, for the last time in Honesdale, will oblige in assisting the baseball association, by giving an always pleasing bending and acrobatic act. Wilson & Rich, a high salaried professional team, are booked with a high class black face singing and dancing act. They alone will be worth the price of admission in one of the funniest of funny burnt cork performances.

The case which is No. 187 June term, 1909, Attorneys P. H. Hoff and C. A. Garratt for the prosecution and E. C. Mumford for the defendant, and for which a plea of not guilty was entered, is as follows: "Count for injury negligently done by plaintiff to defendant's land and building thereon, situated in Texas, near the easterly end of a county bridge over the Dyberry river known as the Goodman bridge, by raising the grade of the public highway approaching said bridge, at its easterly end, and in so doing negligently causing a large quantity of dirt, stones and other material to be deposited on plaintiff's said land, and piled against said plaintiff's said building, by reason whereof the water flows from said highway against and into said building, causing the same to be damp and uncomfortable, and rotting the sills, and the passage between said building and said bridge is made difficult and inconvenient, and at times dangerous, from the accumulation of ice. Damages laid at $1,500."

—Fifty years ago, on April 12, 1861, Fort Sumter was fired upon. Fifty years ago this country was just awakening to the shock of the greatest war that has ever been fought. In this Semi-Centennial Year The Inquirer will print a continual story of the momentous events of that period which altered the history of this country if not of the entire world. A complete history of the Civil war retold in graphic and dramatically interesting manner by an expert historian. The entire narrative of the great conflict, as told by war correspondents of The Philadelphia Inquirer in the field from 1861 to 1865, will be retold with historical accuracy in the light of later developments. This is not the story of the war reprinted day by day and lasting through the long drawn out period of nearly five years.

From the firing upon Sumter, in April, '61, to Bull Run, in July, '61, no critical tests of the strength of the two great armies occurred, the period being occupied mostly with recruiting and some few minor skirmishes and battles.

The Inquirer will tell the entire story of the war in the next three months. A full page every Sunday will describe in their order the great battles of the war, while the intervening articles in the daily issues of The Inquirer will make a connected story, covering the entire conflict.

Do not miss this highly instructive and entertaining history, which will be a daily and Sunday feature in The Inquirer during the next three months of this Semi-Centennial year. The Civil War will be the great topic of the year, and those who aim to be well informed will find these articles of inestimable value. If you are not now a regular reader leave your order at once for both The Daily and Sunday Inquirer.

—The Easter collection in Grace Protestant Episcopal church amounted to $140.

—The Wayne County Teachers' Association will meet at Pleasant Mount, May 12 and 13.

—The Odd Fellows of Pleasant Mount will hold their anniversary services at the M. E. church on Sunday next at 10:30 a. m. All are invited to attend.

—The annual election for vestrymen of Grace Protestant Episcopal church was held Monday night and resulted in the choice of the following: Frank G. Farnham, Homer Greene, Esq., Hon. E. B. Hardenbergh, W. H. Stengel, David H. Menner, Charles J. Smith, J. B. Nielsen, C. D. Storms, W. J. Birdsall, J. N. Welch. The only change in the personnel of the board was in the selection of W. J. Birdsall to succeed R. H. Dunsberger who recently moved to Stroudsburg.
