Rev. Albert L. Whittaker, rector of Grace P. E. church, Honesdale, who was elected commissioner among the deaf, succeeding Bishop Rogers Israel, formerly rector of St. Luke's parish, Scranton, at the meeting of the spring session of the Archdeaconry of Scranton in St. Mark's Dunmore, Wednesday night delivered a strong address on "The English Bible as a Factor in the Spiritual Life of the English Speaking People." Rev. Mr. Whittaker's address received the hearty commendation of Bishop Talbot when the latter rose to speak. Mr. Whittaker spoke in part as follows:

"In this day of unused Bibles, we do not realize the mighty spiritual effect upon the English people of the sacred volume which came to them as the very voice of God to wake them out of sleep, which by stout-hearted Puritans was carried over the perilous sea to New England shores and throughout these United States. Its effect upon the political life of these two worlds has been most marked. It has steered men's hearts to battle for the right, for liberty, equality of opportunity and justice. With their Bibles the men of the middle classes of England marched into battle for freedom, as a little earlier the soldiers of Gustavus Adolphus, using their Bibles for their pillow by night and their inspiration by day, saved Protestantism in Europe.

"At Runnymede the barons of England wrested from an unwilling king privileges for their own order. The battles of Marston Moor and Naseby were fought by soldiers whose captains and generals had preached to them out of the English Bible, and they were fighting for civil liberty. This was the spirit which having carried men across the sea for conscience's sake, set up the New England town meeting, that fruitful germ of Democracy, and when tyranny, overmuch oppressed, tore men from the pursuits of peace and the bosoms of devoted families to die upon the battlefield.

The influence of the English Bible is seen in that great Revolutionary struggle from the prayers in the still of the night by George Washington, commander-in-chief of the Continental army and lay reader in the Church of England."
