The Dunmore team of the County League, which plays two games here on Memorial Day, defeated Carbondale a few days ago, as well as running away with Archbald about a week ago.

Special interest attaches to the election as principal of the public schools at Stockbridge of Prof. S. B. Churchill, who was vice-principal of the Honesdale High school in 1899-1900. Since leaving Honesdale Mr. Churchill has been an instructor at Alden Academy, Mendville.

The name of Miss Eleanor Gill, the popular Hawley teacher, should be substituted for that of Prof. H. A. Oday in the list of members of the executive committee of the Wayne County Teachers' Association, elected at their recent meeting in Pleasant Mount, and published in the Wednesday issue of The Citizen.

The Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, LL. D., Bishop of Bethlehem, will make his annual visitation, administering the rite of confirmation and preaching at the following services: Saturday, May 20, 8 p. m., Indian Orchard school house; Sunday, May 21, 8:30 a. m., White Mills church; Sunday, May 21, 10:30 a. m., Grace Episcopal church, Honesdale. All persons are cordially invited to attend all these services.

The Oregon Loyal Temperance Legion met in the Smith Hill M. E. church Tuesday night, May 9, and elected the following officers: Arthur F. Oliver, president; Sadie E. Mill, vice-president; John L. Hartman, second vice-president; Lewis E. Brill, recording secretary; Anna E. Hartman, corresponding secretary; Cora Hicks, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas A. Hicks, organist; Thomas A. Hicks, librarian; Cynthia E. Hicks, social superintendent; Lottie L. Hartman, floral; Will H. Brill, press; William J. Hicks, Sabbath observance; Mrs. Albert E. Knight, anti-narcotic; Mrs. Robert C. Glosenger, literature. This little society is progressing rapidly. Organized in 1907 with twelve members, the membership has been steadily increased until now there are fifty-six members.

Judge A. T. Searle will hold court for Judge Edwards of Lackawanna county, in Scranton, commencing next Monday.

Fire hydrants of the latest improved patterns have been placed at the corner of High and at the corner of Fourteenth and North Main streets.

Thomas Canivan left Wednesday for Hallstead, where he will install the steam heating plant in the cut glass factory of Herbeck-Demer, a former Honesdale industry.

Olek Tribe No. 318 I. O. R. M. hunting grounds of Honesdale, will hold a smoker with refreshment accompaniments on the 18th Sun, flower moon, at the eighth run in their council chamber.

Regular services at the Central Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Will H. Miller, pastor, next Sunday. Preaching by pastor morning and evening. Morning subject: "The Other Elam"; evening subject: "God or Devil."

Eleanor Louise Switzer, May 17, by her next friend, E. R. Bodie, filed a libel in divorce against John Switzer. Desertion is alleged. They were married October 25, 1905, and have been separated since May 25, 1909. She lives in Prompton, and he resides in Honesdale.

Among the out-of-town physicians who attended the meeting of the Wayne County Medical Society, Thursday afternoon, at the Allen House, were Drs. John D. Wilson, F. W. Stevens, A. B. Stevens, Scranton; H. C. Noble, Waymart; W. A. Stevens, O. J. Mullen, Hamlin.

Charles McDonald, the present proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, is the grandson of the late Thomas Coyne, the founder of the old Coyne House which is now the Commercial. Mr McDonald has been connected with this same hotel for over twenty-five years, having been employed here by nine different landlords, starting with his uncle, Michael Coyne, and the following landlords: Patrick McGarry, John Layman, John E. Pedrick, George W. Fable, Mrs. Julia McGarry, Frank Hager, William Tripp and F. W. Fleckstein.

In the Superior Court of Pa. at No. 9, March term, 1911, in the case of William J. Randle vs. Pennsylvania Coal Co., appeal of plaintiff from judgment of Common Pleas of Wayne county, opinion by J. Morrison, filed May 16, in the prothonotary's office, the assignments of error are sustained, and the judgment is reversed with a proviso. The case was an action of assumpsit brought to recover a portion of a ten per cent. reservation from the amount of money the plaintiff alleged he had earned under a certain contract with the defendant company. The court below granted a compulsory non-suit, and refused to take it off, and the plaintiff's counsel excepted, and took the appeal.

W. H. Bullock, state horticultural inspector for Wayne, Pike and Monroe counties, left Thursday morning for Monroe county where he will spray for codling moths in the demonstration orchards.

"The time to spray for codling moths which make our worms apples," he said Wednesday morning to a Citizen man, "is not to spray against the trees as in blossom as it kills the bees, and the bees are beneficial. People want to be careful not to spray until after the blossoms fall. Spray, the sooner the better, after the blossoms are off." "That's a timely warning. We get accused of destroying the bees by spraying. But it's 'foul brood,' a disease, that kills the bees, and we know that they are killing them because they are losing their bees in the southern part of the county, where they have not been spraying their trees at all. It's a good thing to bring before the people."

The preparations, by Capt. Ham Post, No. 198, G. A. R., for the observance of Memorial Day, are practically completed. To-morrow (May 20) is the 50th anniversary of the departure of the first company from Honesdale for the seat of war. This company, organized as the "Honesdale Guards," was mustered into the service as Company C, 6th Pennsylvania Reserves. On Memorial Day (May 30), instead of the usual oration at the cemetery, some of the survivors of this company will describe the scenes attending the response by our county to President Lincoln's call for volunteers to preserve the Union, the state of public feeling on the subject, the organization of troops, how the ranks were filled, scenes on the way to Harrisburg, the muster-in for the war, the movement to the front, etc. These reminiscences will be of rare interest, especially to those whose recollections do not go back to that memorable occasion. The liberal support given by our citizens enables the Grand Army Post to commemorate the preservation of the Union in a manner not surpassed, in spirit and interest, anywhere in the country.

Gill, White Mills, and Mark Cressy, Hawley.

THE DEADLY BATHTUB.

We who take our tub as a duty, our hot bath as a religious rite, and our Turkish cleansing as a sacrament, may no longer be an aristocracy. Our foundations of hot and cold, soap and towels are assailed. The founder of a new aristocracy is Sir Almoth Wright, and the washed are to be submerged by the unwashed; the cleanly few representing an old system are to fall before the oncoming black horde.

"As to washing," says Sir Almoth Wright, "there is a belief that by doing so, people wash off the microbes. We do take off a certain amount of microbes, but we also destroy the protective skin which is all round our bodies like the tiles of a house." Again: "When one has a horny hand, no microbe can ever get near the skin. If one has a skin like a tortoise, microbes will never get through. To have a Turkish bath is to take away one's horny protection. A great deal of washing increases the microbes of the skin, so I do not think cleanliness is to be recommended as a hygienic method."

So the iconoclast trumpets at our doors and the people who lead the white-tiled bathroom life and sluice and spray themselves at the marbled altars of their cut tremble in the morning sanctuary. Brave men whom we have looked upon as scrubbed superior are really weaklings minus the protective skin should be round their bodies as tiles are round a house. This fair lady, pink, scented and showing lovely, softened contours in her smiling face, a rosy goddess of our cleanly cult, is no longer desirable. She is a death-trap, for her dainty skin is not as is the covering of the tortoise and indeed is a porous openness to all the microbes of the earth.

The untubbed heroes of to-morrow may reach heights of efficiency of which we never dreamed, but it does not follow that their presence or passing may be more fragrant than that of the generation they superseded. In such a day a cake of soap in the British Museum will become an interesting antiquity, representing a subtle influence lost to a later generation.—London Outlook.

DEATH RATE IN CHICAGO.

Somebody out in Chicago, after an investigation covering 1,600 families, has discovered—or announces—that in four-child families the death rate is 118 per thousand, while in six-child and eight-child families the death rates are per thousand 267 and 291, respectively. These figures, according to the dispatch conveying them, are expected to trouble Col. Roosevelt when he visits the Child Welfare Exhibit, where they have been prominently placarded, the assumption being that they prove the superiority of small to large families.

Perhaps they will, for the Colonel has done considerably more talking than thinking on this, as on some other subjects, but, as is so often the case with statistics, these can be as easily made to support his contentions as to confute them. It would take 250 four-child families to produce 1,000 children, and of these 882 would survive. But as many six-child families would produce 1,500 children, with 1,100 survivors and if there were eight children in each of 250 families, the total number would be 2,000, with 1,418 survivors.

So far as mere numbers go, therefore, the big families have the advantage, in spite of their greater death rate, and as regards quality, it is by no means certain that—indeed, it is highly questionable if—the attention and care concentrated on a few children make them of more value to the State than would the same amount make a somewhat larger number if distributed among them. The concentration undoubtedly keeps some weaklings alive that might otherwise die, but that is not an unmixed blessing from the racial standpoint, and cold science is disposed to frown at it.

By common knowledge and experience, an "only child" is not apt to be subjected to the best of influences, while the child who is one of many is subjected to an abrasion that is very likely to smooth off his corners and develop in him that most valuable of senses—the sense of proportion. The whole question, however, is full of uncertainties and perplexities, and with every rule that can be made about it there go so many exceptions that it is no rule at all. Opinions the most diverse can offer confirmatory statistics—and the statistics fight among themselves even more fiercely than the opinions. Nobody really knows.

BLAMES THE TONSILS.

Physician Finds Cure For Rheumatism In Their Removal.

Dr. H. E. Peterman, head physician of the Baltimore Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat hospital, delivered an address before the medical and chirological faculty, in which he discarded the theory that rheumatism is due to uric acid in the blood.

The responsibility for rheumatism, Dr. Peterman places on the tonsils, and the removal of them, which he declares to be useless after a person has attained the age of six years, he says, will obviate all rheumatic trouble. After the age of six years, Dr. Peterman asserts, the tonsils in some persons gradually dry up by the time the age of twenty-one years is attained; in others they become enlarged and then diseased. The rheumatic germ, he says, has never been found, but if the tonsils be removed before the disease has progressed too far and the tissues have been destroyed the germ will have been eradicated. Dr. Peterman reported success in six cases he had so treated.

Oddities of the Printing Shop. Here is a row of capital letters and figures of ordinary size and shape just as you will find them in the daily newspaper:

SSSSNNXZZZZZZZZZZ

They are such as are made up of two parts of similar form. Look carefully at these and you will perceive that the upper halves of the characters are a very little smaller than the lower halves, so little that, at a mere glance, you would declare them to be of equal size. Now turn this page upside down, and without any careful looking you will see that the difference in size is very much exaggerated—that the real top half of the letter is very much smaller than the other half. It will be seen by this that there is a tendency in the eye to enlarge the upper part of any object upon which it looks. Thus two circles of unequal size might be drawn and so placed that they would appear exactly alike.—New York World.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
