A MAGAZINE OF MARVELS

Edited by BARRETT HANSON WITHERBEE.

TWO CENTS. JUNE 7, 1911 SEMI-WEEKLY.

Preface.

This magazine is published to meet a widespread and popular demand for stories of action which are not actionable. Our staff of trained poets and authors are fed solely on dynamite and gun powder which of course assures a livelier quality to their tales than even those in "Nobody's Magazine" and the "Scait Set." All of our readers will be vitally interested in the whirlwind narrative which appears in this issue, entitled,

Lost in a Harem!

By Ali Pasta.

Mr. Slyboots was busy dressing. He was in a great hurry to get out of the house before his wife returned home and made him go to the opera. Mr. Slyboots detested operas. His tastes ran more to burlesques because the third girl from the end in the front row always winked at his bald spot.

He dressed rapidly, socks, shoes, shirt, etc. In anguish of haste he tore a pair of trousers from the hanger. He slipped into them. Then he slipped out of the house. Mr. Slyboots boarded a Broadway car.

auto truck for delivery and livery work. Miss Bell Von Storch of Scranton is having some improvements made on her cottage at Lake Henry. There will be no camping at Maple Grove this year. Several of our young people are attending Ranch 101 at Scranton today. Potato bugs and cut worms are very plentiful this year and are doing much damage. The writer enjoyed a dish of wild strawberries Sunday the first of the season.

Advertise in The Citizen and get results. We print posters.

He put his hand in his pocket to get the fare. There were no pockets. "Am I awake or asleep?" he asked himself. He gave one look, two yells, and three naughty swear words. Then he fainted.

Poems of Life.

A man and a girl went out for a walk The man dreamed that he would load her With diamonds and pearls when she was his wife— All he bought was an ice cream soda.

Miss Millions crossed to see the King Be crowned at Lippary; She turned around and came back home By order of Queen Mary.

In the next issue of the Winner, we will publish a political story entitled "The Democratic Dewdrop." It's a world beater! Don't miss it!

THE FAITH OF A CHILD.

A little boy whose grandmother had just died wrote the following letter, which he duly posted: "Dear Angels—We have sent you grandma. Please give her a harp to play, as she is short-winded and can't blow a trumpet."—Vanity Fair.
