

Guards Recipes For Her Vegetable Candy

Unique Confection Maker Deluged With Orders From All Parts of United States.

Deluged with orders from all parts of the country for her vegetable candy, Mrs. Ellen Gillen has outgrown her cozy kitchen in Honesdale, where she first concocted her unique confections, and a movement is on foot among Wayne county capitalists to establish a factory for her.

Since the story of Mrs. Gillen's witchery as a candymaker was made public it has been widely circulated. Letters from San Francisco, Chicago, Birmingham, Buffalo, and Montreal, as well as from smaller cities and towns, have poured into the modest cottage, and the majority of them have contained checks and money orders for samples of the wonderful confection.

Dotting parents who have put the ban on adulterated candy, society women in search of novelties for dinner parties and far-sighted manufacturers and jobbers who are anxious to secure a monopoly on a product that threatens to put a dent in candyland have stormed Mrs. Gillen with requests for samples.

"I'm working night and day to keep up," she says, "but I guess I'll have to hire some help and buy larger utensils. I haven't even had time to write out any of my recipes. You know, I keep them all in my head, and when I'm making the different varieties of candy I don't go by any set rules. I use the ingredients in the proportions that I think proper, and I think the results are better than if I used scales and measures."

"And I'm going to guard my secrets," continued Mrs. Gillen. "I spent much time and money working out the process and I'm getting it nearer perfection every day."

Mrs. Gillen is the widow of a Civil war veteran, and up to a few weeks ago was unknown outside of her own neighborhood.—[Towanda Reporter-Journal.]

POLLEY REUNION.

On Saturday, June 17, sixty-three members of the Polley family gathered at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. George France, two miles east of Lake Ariel. The older people occupied the time by hand-shaking and visiting, while the young people amused themselves with baseball and other games. About 1 o'clock all sat down to one of the best dinners ever spread, to which every one present did ample justice. At 3 p. m. the president, P. Chapman, called a business meeting on the lawn in front of the house. The minutes of the last meeting were read, collection taken and all bills paid. Nay Aug Park was decided on for the place of meeting in 1912. Election of officers resulted as follows: President, F. Chapman; vice-president, W. Merring; treasurer, R. C. Chivers, and secretary, H. E. Polley. Boyd Bullock and Nelson Polley, Scranton, and John Hummer, Lehigh, were appointed a committee of arrangements for 1912. On account of the death of two members, Llewellyn Polley, Seelyville, and Miss Harriet Chapman, Hamlin, resolutions were adopted.—Hawley Times

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The National Wrecking Concern, known as the Democratic Majority of the House of Representatives, admits that it has no anxiety for the American producer, the American farmer or mill hand, American capitalist or American industry. It simply wants cheap foreign products regardless of their effect upon our market or our labor. It is only concerned over the consumer forgetting that a man must produce and acquire purchasing power before he can consume even cheaply made foreign goods.

Never before in our history has such ignorance been shown, even by the Democratic party, as was shown by Chairman Underwood of the Ways and Means Committee in presenting the wool and woolen bill. He was out of the way $85,000,000 in calculating the revenues and proved that he was incapable of reading correctly the daily Treasury reports. And such men are endeavoring to make a new tariff!

They also prepared statistics in connection with their wool tariff-smashing in which it is sought to be shown that under the 20 per cent ad valorem duties provided in their bill, there will be an increase of approximately $20,000,000 worth annually of importations of foreign wools. No evidence is given as to the disposition that is to be made of this wool when it reaches the markets of the United States, is it intended to displace domestic wool, and if so, what is to become of the wool industry of the country into which such an inroad would be cut by foreign wool imports? If it does not displace domestic wool, what encouragement have the Democratic committeemen to offer, in the way of substantial facts, that an American citizen who now buys one suit of woolen clothes a year would buy two suits a year under Democratic policy, even if it can be shown to him that he would obtain a suit of clothes for two dollars less than he is now able to buy it, due to the saving in the duty now alleged to be paid upon the wool which enters a suit of clothes worn by the average citizen?

The Single taxer, Henry George, and the Socialist Berger, have both climbed into the Democratic wagon admitting that it is there they must get what they want if at all. They are both rabid Free traders and will do all they can to help the Democrats smash the tariff as much as possible.

Although the Democrats continue to claim that there is a deficit, the Treasury surplus continues to increase showing the satisfactory operation of the Payne tariff from a revenue standpoint. Our foreign trade too is most satisfactory as the favorable balance of trade will be fully $500,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911.

The Democrats in the House are still cowardly side-stepping the troublesome vote on the Service Pension bill. Monday after Monday, they avoid its consideration by adjournment declaring that it is not on their "Program." But the day of reckoning will come when Election Day, 1912, rolls around. Then the people will have their say.

Indications on all sides show that the Republican apathy of last year which resulted in Democratic successes will not be repeated in 1912. Business men and farmers and working men all realize now that a Democratic President and Congress would be followed by four years of industrial stagnation and ruin, by idleness and poverty such as we have never before experienced. With this foreknowledge it is not to be wondered at that the prediction is widely and confidently made that the next President will be a Republican—President Taft—and the 63rd Congress—Republican in both branches.

T-R ANNIVERSARY.

WOES OF AN EDITOR.

A man who owns eighty acres of land and has brains enough to till it makes the lot of country newspaper men look like the last sad remnants of a Dutch lunch. The farmer has the best of it all around. He is as independent as an express company. He doesn't have to write a soulful obituary over some peak headed fellow who kept on display an exhibit of cut plug profanity that would make the efforts of a steamboat mate sound like a meeting of the Epworth league. He doesn't have to go into raptures over the beauty of an open face bride with a cast of countenance that would blow out the gas. The farmer isn't required to lie until his back teeth fall out about the sterling manhood of a groom with ears like a cauliflower plant and the brain power of a shote. He doesn't have to run a contest for the most beautiful young lady in the community, make everybody sore about the winner and then print a seventy-five cent half tone of the beauty that looks like a ritz type of grandeur at the age of thirteen.—Wilson County (O.) Citizen.

NEW SCHOOL PRINCIPAL.

J. S. Lee, Waymart, Wayne county, was elected principal of the Millford High school at a meeting of the directors last Friday evening and his salary was fixed at $80, which is $5 less per month than was paid his predecessor, Charles D. Wildrick. Mr. Lee is a young man, a graduate of Millersburg, Pa., Normal school and comes highly recommended as a teacher. Mr. Lee was here the latter part of last week.—[Millford Dispatch.]

GREAT CRICKETER DEAD.

Dr. E. M. Grace Had Played For More Than Sixty Years. Dr. Edward Mills Grace, the oldest brother of the famous family of cricketers, passed away a couple of weeks ago at his home in Gloucestershire, England, at the age of seventy. He played cricket for more than sixty years, and to be in sport for that length of time and to be great in one's day is a distinction earned by very few men. He began to play the game when he was ten years of age, and it has been computed that during his career he scored 76,705 runs and took 11,950 wickets in match play.

He was born in 1841 and played his first match of note in the month of August, 1855, when he made one of the team from West Gloucestershire that met and defeated the All England eleven. In the early sixties he was at his best, and notably in 1863 he took part in fifty matches and obtained an aggregate of 3,074 runs. In those days his bowling was as effective as his hitting. With George Parr's team he visited Australia in 1863 and 1864 and was the whole feature of the trip. No man of his style had up to that time been seen in Australia.

It was singular that while he was away in the land of the Southern Cross his younger brother, Dr. W. G. Grace, had begun to earn fame. Another Grace, the sporting world said, and the greatest of the trio, the other brother, Fred, died some years ago, but Dr. W. G. is still in the land of the living. Although feeble and very weak on his legs, Dr. E. M. played a little last summer, but he scored only nine runs. It is recorded that he fell down exhausted more than once in trying to score. He loved the game and played it just as long as he could. Along with his ability as a cricketer Dr. Grace was a good shot and all round sportsman.

The Cause. "There hasn't been a death in our family for thirty-five years," said the rich old curmudgeon. "I have often wondered why your near relatives were so fearful and impatient."—Chicago Record-Herald.

SOCIOLOGIST SUGGESTS PAY FOR MOTHERS.

Rearing of Children a Social Service, Says Professor Howard.

A college of domestic relations in which the family and its related institutions should be as freely, openly and unsparsingly subjected to scientific investigation as are the problems of modern political and industrial life is advocated by George E. Howard, professor of sociology at the University of Nebraska. He gives his views in an article published in the American Journal of Sociology.

"The sociologist, the economist, the household scientist and other specialists should join forces in such an institution to give sound training in the problems of sex, parentage and the household," he says. "No more harmful blunder was ever committed by theological subtlety than the setting aside of marriage as a divine institution."

There should be a revision of the matrimonial laws of the country, Professor Howard declares, and he suggests these improvements: Endowment of motherhood by the state. Abolishment of the common law marriage. Twenty days' public notice before the issuing of license. Limiting marriage to those who are of age.

Of the endowment of motherhood Professor Howard says: "Recognizing parentage as a social service, a social duty which should be paid for at the public expense, looks very much like social justice."

"In its administrative division our matrimonial laws require drastic revision at almost every point. We need a better and a uniform license system, so as to secure full publicity and a faithful compliance with the spirit of the law. Moral standard of legal, mental or moral fitness is established. Often the important function of social control is exercised with incredible ignorance and levity. The frivolous or mercenary magistrate and the diletant parson flourish on American soil."

Headgear For Summer.

Because his majesty of England is to be crowned so very soon the pre-empting theme in feminine headgear for 1911 will be "coronation." This pronouncement comes from the National Association of Retail Milliners. Among the recent creations are:

Empire bonnet; a close fitting affair; a glorification of the hoods worn by aviators and automobile racers. Helmet hats; a reduced size of designs usually given to large hats; resembles the hat of a London "hobby."

Louis XI. turban; draped hood in two styles—(a) soft for dress; (b) high and round, of less clinging material, for the street.

Other styles include the classical Rembrandt, the Louis XIV. shape, which is turned up behind and down in front; the Reynolds hat of 1870, with the side front turned up; the Gainsborough and the leghorn. For the outdoor girl burriap will be used.

I know it's none of my affair, And yet somehow I fret. Can anybody tell me where The waist line will be set? —Birmingham Age-Herald.

Wherever it may be set, my lad, Just bear this fact in mind: Unless your right arm's to the bad 'Twill not be hard to find. —Youngstown Telegram.

And when your arm is stealing round To hold her in the chair, If by some chance you strike a pin You bet the waist line's there. —Yonkers Statesman.
