

THE COUNTY

ALDENVILLE.

[Special to The Citizen.] ALDENVILLE, Pa., July 6.—John Bowen, while returning from Honesdale Saturday night, met with an accident in which his horse ran away and badly demolished his runabout wagon. The horse and driver escaped unhurt. George Gaylord is slowly improving from his recent illness. Rev. James Rainey, who was a delegate to the Baptist World Alliance in Philadelphia, last week, has returned and reports a splendid meeting. The glass cutting factory has closed for a two weeks' vacation. A five pound pike is reported to have been caught at Elk Lake last week by an out of town sport. That's some fish, eh?

STERLING. [Special to The Citizen.] STERLING, Pa., July 6.—We are having fine warm weather and all vegetation is doing well. Dr. C. G. Cross, wife and daughter, East Stroudsburg, are spending a few days at A. J. Cross'. Oscar Noble came from Honesdale yesterday and is now in town. Rev. W. E. Webster preached a good sermon last Sunday appropriate for the occasion. Misses Lenora and Lelia Chiff, Scranton, are now guests of the Misses Cliffs. Jacob Ruth, Mt. Clare, N. J., is the guest of his nephew, Morris Williams. Last Saturday evening the Odd Fellows treated themselves to ice cream in a very hot room. Edward Akers from Scranton, and Jacob Bird from Union, and S. G. Webster from Jubilee, were present.

THE APPEARANCE OF THE LOCUST.

The Seventeen Year Locust or Cicada has appeared in Pennsylvania from the Susquehanna river eastward, and promptly upon schedule time, as predicted by State Zoologist H. A. Surface in communications early this spring, notwithstanding the fact that many persons thought this could not be possible, as they did not consider this a "locust year." Professor Surface explained that this was not the re-appearance of the 1902 brood, but was another brood coming from eggs laid in the twigs of the trees in 1894. State Zoologist Surface is making a special study of this brood of the Cicada or Seventeen Year Locust, and requests information to be sent to him at Harrisburg, giving the date of appearance and disappearance of the insects, so statements as to abundance, the amount of hatching, as effected, the extent of the area covered, the enemies observed, and other points that will help to make complete the records and a detailed study of these insects throughout those portions of the Commonwealth in which they may appear. It is recommended either to cover small trees with cloth or netting or wrap strips of cloth around the trunks and larger branches of fruit trees three years of age or less, where these insects are numerous. This is to prevent damage by piercing the bark and wood for the purpose of laying eggs. They do not feed on the trees as is popularly supposed. By the last of June they will have disappeared suddenly as they came, and the young hatching from the eggs laid in the injured places of the living wood will drop to the ground, and there feed on the roots of the trees during another interval of seventeen years.

THE POULTRY YARD.

Very often the prettiest hen is the poorest layer. Lawn clippings make an ideal summer greenfood ration. Lighter foods are best these warm days. Heavy food like corn heats the blood. All the old stock that is not wanted should now be disposed of before they go into molt. Eat some of the eggs yourself. If they are worth money to anybody, they are to you. Already the fowls are assuming a rusty appearance. It is getting near the molting season. The hen that lays where she happens to be, when she takes the notion to lay, is certainly setting a bad example.

THE SCOUTS.

The boy scouts and master were present and took part in the festivities of the day. During the afternoon the boys entertained the picnickers with a few field maneuvers. Baseball was also enjoyed but it was not entered into with the vim and enthusiasm that would have been shown had it been cooler. In the evening the memorable day was brought to a close with a beautiful display of fireworks. There were about forty persons from Honesdale. The scouts walk, ed, other people came in automobiles and still another coterie enjoyed (?) a mid-day ride on a hay rigging. All had an excellent time.

MRS. NATION.

"Aunt" Carrie Nation had the soldier's understanding of the value of surprise. She moved swiftly and with force. When she wrecked a barroom, the cyclone was over, as a rule, before the objects of her attack quite realized who and what she was. Arrest and prosecution were in the nature of post mortems. They but recorded the coming of disaster, did not save it or prevent its repetition. The smokers she assailed, the occasional pedestrian upon whom she descended with the weight of a falling safe, were rarely prepared with other sheepish grin. Only once we have ever heard of "Aunt" Carrie being nonplussed. She met a young man upon the stairs of a newspaper office and shouted at him: "You're smoking!" The young man gazed in astonishment at the cigar in his hand, having politely removed it from the corner of his face, and said: "Why, so I am!" Mrs. Nation glared at him for a second and then swept indignantly on, having for once, it would seem, no words to meet the situation. It would be as idle to say that Mrs. Nation did a great good as it would be foolish to say she did no good. Her victories could scarcely be considered final. But there was work for her hatchet. There was evil for the vigorous quality of her muscles to meet. She passed away leaving behind a memory of a picturesque figure and some conception of the resignation of man in the presence of a femininity choosing to be a traveling devastation.—Toledo Blade.

CHICAGO'S RICHEST WOMEN.

Names of the three richest women in Chicago were made public on the completion of the personal property tax lists. They are: Mrs. Nettie F. McCormick, $2,585,000; Mrs. Emmons Blaine, $1,850,000; Virginia McCormick, $1,350,000. This is the value of personal property only, including stocks, bonds, mortgages and jewels. Mrs. Blaine believes that wealth is unjustly distributed. In contrast are the assessments of two of Chicago's most distinguished women. Jane Addams, sociologist, has no taxable personal property. Ella Flagg Young, Superintendent of Schools, schedules only $500.

PREDICTS HER DEATH AT 108.

Mrs. Williams, While Talking To Neighbor, Says: "My Time Has Come." Lansing, Mich., July 3.—"Well, I guess my time has come," said Mrs. Latchia Williams, 108 years old, as she stood in the doorway of the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Bannister, talking to a neighbor last week. With that remark she went inside, and lying down on a couch, passed quietly away. Mrs. Williams celebrated her 108th anniversary New Year's Day.

TALLEST WOMAN TO MARRY.

Miss Powers Is Seven Feet—Bride-groom-Elect is Over Six Feet. Mary Ellen Powers, for years Barnum's tallest woman, was married last week to Maurice T. Stapleton of the town of Lockport, one of the tallest men in this vicinity. Miss Powers resides here and is owner of local real estate. She is seven feet in height. Stapleton is over six feet. About three years ago Miss Powers and Mr. Stapleton were to be married, but the event was called off on the morning set for the ceremony. No reason was given.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS OF RAILROAD NEWS.

In order to be prepared for a possible fuel famine this fall the Rock Island has ordered 100,000 tons of coal stored during July and August. No employe of the Illinois Central addicted to the use of liquor will be allowed to participate in the benefit of the new hospital department. It is reported that the Illinois Central car repair plant cases have been practically settled and there will be no further prosecution of the men indicted for conspiracy to defraud the railroad company. The joint traffic bureau of the Gould lines in Chicago is to be closed on July 1 and E. B. Boyd will be retired. The bureau cost the lines $20,000 to $25,000 a year and Mr. Boyd's salary it is understood was $12,000. Recently in tests on the Lehigh to determine how far an engine can run with a passenger train without replenishing its fuel supply, engine 2475 broke the world's record by going 446.6 miles with 900 tons of coal, nearly all of which was burned.
