RACING CARS.

Last Sunday night an automobile went up the main street of Honesdale like a streak of lightning. Had any one chanced to cross the street at the time, it is extremely probable they would have met a quick death. The car was going so fast that escape would have been impossible.

Happily, no one was hurt. But since when has Main street been turned into a speedway?

-:0:-THE CANTEEN AND THE ARMY.

It is astonishing news that the efficiency of our army is far below that of any European force because of alcoholism and diseases due to dissipation. Yet such is the case. Hospital admissions for alcoholism are about 25 in 1,000, while the admissions for disease are nearly 200 in 1,000, due to the vicious dives around every army post.

The canteen was abolished to "increase the efficiency of the U.S. military establishment." This, it seems, it has not done.

Almost every man who is high up in army circles and well informed on the subject, urges the reestablishment of the canteen.

One says: "When the W. C. T. U. realizes that the result of the abolition of the Post Exchange has produced this enormous increase of wretchedness in the Army Hospitals, I believe it will work as earnestly for the restoration of the canteen as it did for its abolition."

In his report for 1910 General Wood says that the consensus of opinion in the Army is that the canteen should be re-established. In this he is seconded by Major General Fred D. Grant. With such authorities so strongly in favor of the plan it would seem that it was the best thing to do if the ravages of disease and drunkenness among our regiments are to be checked.

THE LITTLENESS OF MEN.

The Paris Academy of Sciences has refused to elect Madame Curie, the discoverer of radium, to membership, because she is a woman. Viewed from a scientific standpoint, Mme. Curie is a more remarkable woman than any who have ever lived, bar none. Her scientific discoveries rank her beyond Cleopatra, Queen Elizabth or Florence Nightingale and yet she be no performance at this place of was turned down by the votes of men who are far, far below her in worth amusement. and merit. April, 1898, saw the discovery of radium made public. Honors poured in on the wonderful Polish woman and the scientific world Thursday. bubbled with excitement.

She next discovered polonium, which is even more marvelous in its properties than radium.

erties than radium. But in spite of these two epoch making discoveries, the men of the Henry Reifler, Sr., the Church Henry Reifler, Sr., the church French Academy turned her down. The Academy had no seat for a women!

The littleness of men is appalling. Here was a scientist greater than any of her sex and far greater than any of the opposite sex in France, at any rate, defeated for membership because she didn't wear trousers!

Mme. Curie need not be hurt at her rejection. She is too big and fine to mind the injustice. Her name will live long after the names of the "little men" of the Academy have been forgotten. -:0:-

Mr. Bullock returned last Saturday from Monroe county where he has been inspecting orchards. He told the reporter that the locusts had done considerable damage in that section and that many of the trees looked as if his name on the Republican ticket they had been burned. So thick were the shells in some places, that you as candidate for President Judge of they had been burned. So thick were the shells in some places, that you could scoop them up by the handfull. Chestnut trees seemed to appeal mostly to the Pharaohonic tribe, although they did not confine their attentions to them.

The dyed-in-the-wool Monroe Democrats relate that they found the initials "W. W." on the back of many of the locusts. To their superstitious minds this was a sure prophecy that the next President would be a Democrat, and that his name would be Woodrow Wilson. It certainly would be too bad if their suspicions do not become certainties, for the next invasion of the locusts will not take place until 1928, and the next time a Democrat will occupy the presidential chair will be about the year 1982 A. D.!
